Gaynor Talks of New Company Being Formed if Present Subway Negotiations Fail.

BAD FAITH, SHONTS HINTS

Wants to See the Other Circus Performer Before Deciding to Jump High and Quick or Not.

The frank statement made by Borough President McAneny on Monday did more to bring subway matters to a head than anything that has occurred since the representatives of the city and of the Interborough began their conferences nearly three months ago. Mayor Gaynor, President Shonts of the Interborough, and Chairman Willcox all talked for publication yesterday, and Mr. McAneny supplemented his previous interview. It became more obvious even than on the preceding day that none of the individuals concerned entertain any very material expectations that the Interborough will outbid the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company on new subways.

One thing that developed yesterday has strengthened the sentiment in Brooklyn for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's offer, which has become an important factor as regards the attitude of Borough President Alfred E. Steers. This was that the Fourth Avenue subway route, running from its operating connection with the Centre Street loop in Manhattan over the Manhattan Bridge and out Flatbush Avenue and Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, to Fortieth Street, can be finished, connected with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's South Brooklyn lines to Coney Island, and actually put in operation by the Summer of 1912. This would very materially relieve the traffic congestion over that part of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's system, and would save at least two years of the time such a route could be put in operation if it were to be connected with a new system south of Fortieth Street.

President Shonts of the Interborough and Andrew Freedman, one of the Directors who has been prominent in the subway negotiations, called at City Hall at noon and had a talk with Mayor Gaynor, who previously has been committed to the Interborough's offer. When the session was over, none of the participants would discuss what took place, but late in the afternoon, when the Mayor was asked about the matter, he replied:

"Why, every one knows that whatever routes are built have to be built by the city and owned by the city and that the city has to get some company to operate them. The negotiations now going on are to get a company to operate the proposed routes on terms favorable to the city. The details of so vast an undertaking are immense, but I hope the committee is now nearing the end. When the Triborough route was put up to bids for an operator there was not a bid. I hope we get an operator on good terms. We have nothing else in view. If existing companies will not come to an agreement another company may be formed. None of us cares who the company may be, so long as it is a responsible one."

The Mayor's statement "if the existing companies will not come to an agreement another company may be formed" was taken as indicating that the Interborough representatives had declared that they would not be prepared to concede anything of a substantial nature over the offer made last December. This impression was strengthened by what President Shonts of the Interborough said when he was asked what he thought of Mr. McAneny's interview.

$30,000,000 Interborough Cash Idle.

"I haven't read the interview with Mr. McAneny in which he is quoted as saying that if we want anything, we must bid 'high and quick, especially high.' So far as I know, there is only one definite subway offer before the public authorities, and that is the offer of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. We made it in good faith after trading with the body constituted by law for that purpose and we got our financing arranged. We have had $30,000,000 lying in the bank ever since last November for those elevated extensions, and the bankers' contract was made at that time.

"These gentlemen said that they wanted to talk matters over. At their suggestion, and not at ours, it was agreed that the negotiations should be kept confidential until the end was reached. We have not been notified that the end has come; we have not been asked whether we would do this or that by way of modification, because at their suggestion it was said at the beginning that we would not decide on finalities until the end.

"We are still adhering to the word we gave as gentlemen not to discuss anything that went on in those conferences, and it is no use to ask me any questions on that subject. But if, after all we have done, we are to be told that there is another performer in the ring, and they crack the whip over us and tell us to jump through the hoop "high and quick, especially high," why, then, we are going to wait until at least we see the spangles on the costume of the other performer before we will say whether we will jump or not."

It became known yesterday that after the $30,000,000 for the Interborough's elevated extensions had been provided by a banking syndicate which included J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the National City Bank, the bankers got restive, as the negotiations prolonged the time for which the money must be tied up. On Nov. 30, the bankers went to the Interborough and wanted action, but were put off with pleas that the negotiations would be over before long. The subsequent fate of this money did not become known until Mr. Shonts's interview yesterday.

The statement of Mr. McAneny as to the position of himself and his committee, however, was welcomed in many quarters where the attitude of the subway conferees heretofore in keeping everything secret had aroused much criticism. There was a general feeling yesterday that Mr. McAneny had justified his action, and that his report would be received as a very important and welcome, if not controlling, when it went to the Board of Estimate.

President Mitchel of the Aldermen, a constant opponent of the Interborough proposal in anything like its present form, said yesterday:

"If Mr. McAneny reports against the Interborough, you can rely on it that the Interborough won't get subways under any consideration. That much is certain. I don't like the Interborough's history, or its policy, or its attitude toward the public. But if the Interborough should make such concessions as to make its offer unqualifiedly advantageous, I don't see how we would be justified in turning it down. At present I can't say what I think about the Brooklyn Rapid Transit plan, because I don't know anything about it in detail. But I am glad something definite has been done. It is high time."

McAneny Makes Corrections.

After Mr. McAneny gave out his interview yesterday, he received Mayor Gaynor at his house. The Mayor stayed until about midnight. Yesterday morning, after he had read the newspaper accounts

WAIT FOR MISS MORGAN.

Woman Who Impersonated Her at Pittsburg Deceives 10,000 Miners.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., April 18.—The erroneous report that Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of J. P. Morgan, was in Pittsburg, and would this morning visit the Irwin coal field to ascertain conditions existing there among the strikers' families, disappointed many persons in Pittsburg, Latrobe and Irwin to-day. The rumor was circulated, it is said, for the purpose of attracting attention to the anniversary of the miners' strike, which was to-day celebrated in the Irwin field by a big demonstration.

The report appears to have originated through a well-dressed woman registering at the Fort Pitt Hotel last night as "Miss A. T. Morgan, New York." She instructed the clerk that she did not want to see newspaper men. Later, when the newspapers were told that Miss Morgan was in the city, reporters were detailed to interview Miss Morgan, but were told at the hotel that she would not see callers. The newspapers, however, obtained apparently convincing confirmation that Miss Morgan was in the city and printed the story.

Photographers took up positions in front of the hotel this morning long before the time for the departure of the train for the Irwin coal field. They waited in vain. An investigation revealed that the woman who registered as Miss Morgan had quietly left the hotel by a side entrance. The newspaper men and photographers then hurried to the Irwin field in automobiles and trains.

At the Latrobe station they found 15,000 persons anxiously waiting for Miss Morgan. The miners, 10,000 strong, were prepared to give the champion of their cause a warm greeting. For three hours they waited at the station, but Miss Morgan failed to appear. Pittsburg society women also flocked to Irwin and Latrobe.

In the afternoon the mystery was cleared up. Miss M. Emeline Pitt of this city received a telegram from Miss Morgan in New York, saying that she would have to postpone her visit to the Irwin field to some future date. A search all day has failed to reveal the identity of the woman who impersonated her.

LEGISLATORS IN A FIGHT.

Uproar in Minnesota House When O'Neill Assaults Frankson.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, April 18.—Unprecedented and riotous scenes marked the filibuster in the House of Representatives when D. P. O'Neill of Thief River Falls made a fierce physical assault on Thomas Frankson, shaking the Representative by the throat and bending him back over the desk of C. E. Stone until other members interfered. Excitement ran high in the chamber, and Speaker Dunn, finding his gavel powerless to restore order, said that, if necessary, he would ask the Governor to hold the State militia in readiness to restore law and order among the State lawmakers.

A call of the House was demanded on a motion to recall the Reapportionment bill from the Senate. While the call was going forward Mr. Frankson twitted O'Neill with standing by the cities on the Moonan bill, and declared that he was the voice of the people voted into oblivion.

The Representative from Pennington resented this, and rushed upon Frankson. Members ran from all parts of the chamber. Alexander Nelson of Perham forced himself between the two struggling men and members laid hold of each to keep them apart.

The Speaker pounded his gavel to no purpose, and for several minutes pandemonium reigned. When order was restored the Speaker said:

"The chair greatly regrets the unfortunate incident that has just occurred. I have no information as to who is to blame, nor do I care about that; but, gentlemen, order must be maintained in this chamber, and it will be though I should find it necessary to call on the Governor for requisition of State troops to maintain order.

"I shall at once notify the Governor to hold in readiness a number of troops to be sent here should it become necessary."

SOCIALISTS WIN IN ILLINOIS.

Elect Mayors in Two Cities and Majority of Aldermen in Another.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Socialists were successful in three cities of Illinois at today's election. At Granite City, a place of 15,000 inhabitants, Marshall E. Kirkpatrick, Socialist, was elected Mayor. The Socialists also elected two Aldermen, Emerson Taylor and T. A. Lindsley. At a special election a month ago another Socialist was elected Alderman.

At Canton the Socialists elected six Aldermen and the progressives three.

J. J. Keon, known as the "Socialist Martyr," was defeated for Mayor of Grafton by only 39 votes. Early in the evening it was believed that he had been elected, but as the count of the ballots neared an end it was found that W. H. Journey, progressive, had been re-elected. Journey has served three terms.

Keon served six months in the Grafton Jail because he would not pay his poll tax of $2. He declared that the act providing for the poll tax was illegal. Keon, who is a mill worker, had but little time to devote to his campaign, but his wife took the stump for him. Journey, whom Keon opposed, brought about his imprisonment. Keon was recently released from prison, and announced his intention to run against Journey.

The Socialists elected a Mayor, City Marshal, Street Superintendent, and two Aldermen at O'Fallon. N. L. Thomas was elected Mayor, John Tilley, Marshal; Nick Lorenz and Alexander Campbell, Aldermen.

SPED ON AFTER HITTING BOY.

Auto Occupants Said to Have Jeered at Policeman Who Cried "Stop!"

Six-year-old William Pollock of 534 West Fifty-fifth Street, while crossing Tenth Avenue at Fifty-sixth Street, last night, was struck by an automobile which threw him several feet, fracturing his skull. The machine went on, the occupants, so bystanders say, jeering at a policeman who called on them to stop.

The child's mother had been only a few feet behind him when the car appeared. Realizing his danger, she screamed and ran to try to get him out of the way. She was too late, however, for the car whizzed past her. The mother picked up the boy, unconscious, and hurried with him to Roosevelt Hospital, where Dr. McCreery found that his skull was fractured.

Policeman Dubois ran out into the street and called on the men in the car to stop, but the car went on south at a high speed and disappeared. Dubois, however, got a good description of the car, and a citizen gave him a number which he thought was the number of the car. A general alarm was sent out for it.

GOULD NAMES HEAD OF MISSOURI PACIFIC

Bush of Western Maryland Made President Against Protest of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

BANKING DIRECTORS QUIT

Rockefeller Men Object, but Stay in Board—Breach Puts Road Back in Its Former Status.

Two representatives of the banking interests who obtained an important voice in the affairs of the Missouri Pacific at the anual meeting on March 14 as a result of an understanding between George J. Gould and the Kuhn, Loeb & Co.-Rockefeller interests, with whom the Deutsche Bank joined, resigned yesterday. Paul M. Warburg of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Cornelius Vanderbilt were the directors who withdrew. Disagreement over the election of a new President to the Missouri Pacific to succeed Mr. Gould was the immediate cause of the breach.

Reports of renewed friction in Missouri Pacific affairs had been gaining ground for several days and yesterday morning they took definite shape in the report, which was fulfilled at the afternoon meeting of the Board of Directors, that the Kuhn, Loeb & Co. representatives would sever their relations with the company. B. F. Bush, President of the Western Maryland, was elected President of the Missouri Pacific over the protest of the banking interests and his election was quickly followed by the announcement of the resignation of Mr. Warburg and Mr. Vanderbilt. Edward D. Adams, who went on the Board as the representative of the Deutsche Bank of Berlin, may possibly resign as well, but his course naturally will depend upon the decision which may be reached by the institution he directly represents.

F. T. Gates and Edgar L. Marston of Blair & Co., who joined the Missouri Pacific Board as representatives of John D. Rockefeller, do not intend to leave the directorate, but this does not indicate, however, that they were in favor of the course followed yesterday by the majority of the board acting under the control of the Gould interests.

Mr. Gates was not in favor of Mr. Bush's election, but owing to the very large interests which Mr. Rockefeller personally has in the Missouri Pacific Mr. Gates and Mr. Marston did not feel that they could do otherwise than remain on the board.

It came out in a statement made by George J. Gould, now Chairman of the Missouri Pacific Board of Directors, that the latest choice of the banking interests for President of the Missouri Pacific was ex-Governor David R. Francis of Missouri. The resignations of Messrs. Warburg and Vanderbilt were made known in this statement issued by Kuhn, Loeb & Co.:

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company held this afternoon, B. F. Bush was elected President of the company.

A majority of the Special Committee, consisting of Messrs. Gates, Adams, and Gould, appointed by the board immediately after the annual election in February last to consider and recommend a suitable President, did not favor Mr. Bush, who was the candidate of the Gould interests; but he was, nevertheless, elected by the vote, through the predominancy in the board of the latter interests and against the votes of Messrs. Gates, Adams, Vanderbilt, Warburg, and Marston.

In consequence Paul M. Warburg and Cornelius Vanderbilt, deeming it impracticable to accomplish under prevailing conditions the purposes which prompted them to enter the board and unwilling to share responsibility in the management of the company under existing circumstances, have resigned as Directors.

Mr. Gould made this statement:

The board has, I think, made a wise choice in selecting B. F. Bush as President. He is familiar with the conditions on the line, and with the affairs of the company, gained while in its employ some years ago. I was much influenced in my advocacy of his election by the success he has attained in his administration of the Western Maryland property, and by the esteem in which I knew he was held by Mr. Rockefeller, who is so largely interested in the Western Maryland, and who next to our family is the largest stockholder in Missouri Pacific.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have stated that in case of Mr. Bush's election to the Presidency they would abandon their relations to the Missouri Pacific as bankers.

My personal relations with the several members of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have been so pleasant that I was reluctant to conclude that the continuance of that firm as bankers for the property was not to the corporation's best interests, but I part with them with personal regret, but their interests in the Union and Southern Pacific, both essentially competitive lines to the Missouri Pacific, made a continuance of their relationship a bankers in my judgment undesirable for the stockholders of the Missouri Pacific as well as for the public. Latterly, when they advocated the election of ex-Gov. David Francis to the Presidency of the property, I could not but feel that their influence was not a helpful one for the property, for though Gov. Francis has my respect as a public man, his efficiency as a railroad operator was not quite so apparent to me.

The turn which the affairs of the Missouri Pacific took yesterday means that control of the Missouri Pacific management is once more in the hands of the Gould interests. The Rockefeller interests, however, are now more largely represented on the board than they were up to the time of the recent annual meeting, but yesterday's events were accepted as proof that the Gould interests dominate the board.

At the time of the threatened contest in advance of the March meeting of the stockholders it was generally understood, and this view was not contradicted yesterday, that the Kuhn, Loeb & Co.-Rockefeller interests could have forced the election of a majority of the Board of Directors. They compromised, however, with Mr. Gould, and allowed him to retain a majority of the thirteen members. He consented, however, to naming a committee of three to choose a new President, of which Mr. Gould was one member and the other members were E. D. Adams and F. T. Gates. This arrangement, it was thought, particularly in view of the understanding that the new President should be acceptable to all the members of this committee, assured a choice acceptable to the banking group, but yesterday's developments proved the failure of this plan. All this means, of course, that the support of the Kuhn, Loeb & Co. banking interests has been taken from the Missouri Pacific, leaving that road in the position it formerly occupied.

Mr. Bush is 51 years old and is a native of Wellsburg, Penn. He began his railroad career in 1882 as a rodman for the Northern Pacific and rose to be division engineer. He became chief engineer and General Superintendent of the Oregon Improvement Company, General Manager of the Northwestern Improvement Company and, in 1903, Vice President and General Manager of the Western Coal and Mining Company. He went to Baltimore in 1901 as fuel agent of the Missouri Pacific. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers. He has been President of the Western Maryland since March 16, 1907.

EX-GOV. FRANCIS SURPRISED.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 18.—Ex-Gov. David R. Francis expressed surprise tonight when informed that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. had nominated him for the Presidency of the Missouri Pacific Railroad. He said that he had not been apprised of any business relating to the company and had not been aware that his name had been mentioned.

"If I was nominated for President of the Missouri Pacific," said Mr. Francis, "it was entirely without my knowledge or authority. I did not know that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. or any other interests had considered nominating me. No one had consulted me, and I was in complete ignorance of the move or of the plans. This is the first notification that I have had about the business of the Missouri Pacific."

Albany Newspaper Man Denies Telling the Rev. Mr. Miller About $250,000 Fund.

BOTH BEFORE LEGISLATORS

Minister, Cross-Examined by Man He Named, Sticks to His Story—May Be Arrested.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 18.—In pursuance of a resolution adopted by the Senate at last night's session, the Committee on Privileges and Elections of that body this afternoon began an investigation of the statement made before a gathering of Methodist ministers at Saratoga by the Rev. O. R. Miller, State Superintendent of of the New York Civic League, to the effect that he had heard reports of a $250,000 boodle fund being raised by the big baseball interests to accelerate the passage of the Sullivan bill permitting regular professional baseball games on Sunday.

On the stand to-day the Rev. Mr. Miller freely admitted that he had addressed the Methodist ministers at their regular conference in Saratoga on April 7. George R. Goul, a newspaper man from whom the minister said he had obtained his information, emphatically contradicted Mr. Miller at the night session of the inquiry.

"Did you say," asked Senator McClelland, the chief inquisitor of the Rev. Mr. Miller, "'The Sullivan Sunday Baseball bill is to be railroaded through the Legislature and the professional baseball interests have raised a $250,000 fund to accelerate its passage?'" reading from a news dispatch.

"No, not exactly," said the witness. "As near as I can remember, the exact words were these: 'It is reported that the big baseball clubs in the country have raised $250,000 to help secure the passage of a Sunday baseball bill."

"Where did you get the report?" asked Senator McClelland.

"I got it from a man connected with a newspaper office; his name is George R. Goul."

Mr. Goul is connected with the circulation department of an Albany newspaper.

"Did it not occur to you that before bearing such testimony against your neighbor you ought to find out something more about it?" asked the Senator.

"I didn't say anything about how the money was to be spent," said the witness rather sheepishly.

At this moment Senator T. Harvey Ferris of Oneida, as introducer of the resolution, asked for the privilege of asking the witness a few questions.

"How did you think the money was to be spent?" asked Senator Ferris.

"I had no idea," said the witness with a smile.

"Did you think money would be paid to legislators to facilitate the passage of the bill?"

"I thought they would spend the money in the manner that would do the most good."

"Aha," said Senator Ferris. "You presumed then that this money would be paid unlawfully to legislators?"

"I thought some of this big fund might be used that way."

Senator McClelland, resuming charge of the questioning, asked the witness who he had suspected might be reached by the $250,000 fund.

"I did not mean any particular legislator."

"I did not say that it was to be used to bribe the Legislature."

When Mr. Miller was excused, Senator McClelland asked him to remain within easy reach, so the committee could get him when he was wanted. In the meantime the Sergeant at Arms was sent out with a subpoena for Mr. Goul, the circulation man.

When the night meeting began, the Rev. Mr. Miller was asked to identify Mr. Goul, who afterward was placed on the stand.

"I absolutely never made this statement," he said in reply to a direct question about the Rev. Mr. Miller's charge. "The first I heard of it was this afternoon."

Mr. Goul was then permitted to cross-examine Mr. Miller. The latter objected to the nature of some of the questions and the manner in which they were put, but was told he must answer them. He said:

"I absolutely reiterate what I testified to this afternoon. I have already declared under oath that you made that statement, and I stand by my word."

The committee then went into executive session. Senator McClelland, the Chairman, said their report will be made in the morning.

It was learned that the report will declare the statement made by the Rev. Mr. Miller as without any warrant and foundation in fact. Should the Senate under the circumstances find the Rev. Mr. Miller guilty of contempt, the clergyman can be arrested and held in durance until the Legislature adjourns sine die or until he purges himself of the contempt. This is a course very seldom resorted to, if it be followed in this instance it will be one of less than a dozen such cases in a generation.

The Assembly exhibited less zeal for an investigation of the statement made by Assemblyman Harold J. Friedman of New York some time ago that he had been approached with an offer of a municipal court Judgeship as an inducement to desert the insurgents and vote for William F. Sheehan in the Senatorial contest.

Assemblyman Artemas Ward, Jr., a New York Republican, who introduced a resolution providing for an investigation of this and other reports having reference to improper influences in connection with the Senatorial fight, sought to have the Committee of Ways and Means discharged from further consideration of this measure and bring it to a vote on the floor of the Assembly. The motion was defeated by an almost unanimous vote. Assemblyman Ward himself and Andrew F. Murray, another Republican representing the Nineteenth Assembly District in New York, together forming a minority of two.

OUR PROTEST BRINGS PROMISE FROM DIAZ

Distinct Restrictive Policy Hereafter for the Zone of Hostilities on the Border.

CONGRESS IS WITH TAFT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—News from both the City of Mexico and Agua Prieta to-day brought decided relief to President Taft and the Administration over the Mexican situation, although it is recognized that the relief may be of only a temporary character.

The State Department received from Ambassador Wilson a dispatch saying that President Diaz, in response to the representations which had been made to him by direction of this Government, had definitely promised a distinct restrictive policy hereafter for the zone of hostilities along the international border.

The promise of President Diaz both recognized the obligation of the Mexican Government regarding such a situation as that at Agua Prieta and furnished ground for hoping that there would be no recurrence of it. It establishes in advance the justice of the claims that are sure to come up for reparation for those Americans in Douglas, Ariz., who have been damaged in person or property by the fighting around Agua Prieta. It also offers a reason for hoping that there will be no similar situation at Juarez, just across the Rio Grande from El Paso.

The character of the assurances from President Diaz led to the suggestion at the State Department this afternoon that a way out of similar trouble hereafter might be found in the establishment of a neutral zone of five or ten miles in width from the international boundary. There seems to be no doubt that the Mexican Government will be willing to enter into such an agreement, but the question is whether the insurgents can be persuaded to agree to it. The insurgents have derived considerable advantage from their ability to menace such important border places as Agua Prieta and Juarez, and are not likely to give it up cheerfully without some pressure. But some such way may be found for avoiding a repetion of the Agua Prieta situation.

So far as this kind of situation is concerned it is now pretty clear that it will not be regarded by either the Administration or by Congress as sufficient warrant for armed intervention by the United States. It will be treated rather as an incident than as the continued existence of an intolerable situation rendering intervention imperative.

The dispatch which President Taft sent to the Governor of Arizona last night fully described the attitude of the President. It has been understood all along by those who have been familiar with the White House views that the President would never order any American troops across the border without the direction of Congress. The President himself has said so several times, although not before this in a public manner.

The publication of this telegram to Gov. Sloan brought a prompt response this morning from Senator Fallows and Representative Sulzer, the respective heads of the Senate and House Committees of Foreign Affairs. Both Chairmen were at the White House this morning and conferred with the President. When they left each made a statement. The two declarations are in entire accord, and disclose plainly the attitude that Congress may be expected to take.

Senator Fallows said that no meeting of his committee to consider the Mexican situation was contemplated at this time. According to the Senator, the President was quite optimistic to-day, and apparently believed the situation at Douglas would improve. The Senator said he could see no reason for intervention at this time.

Mr. Sulzer announced that Congress would not act hastily. He was, he said, of the opinion that thus far there had been no overt act in Mexico sufficient to warrant intervention. He intimated, however, that a plan was being considered to relieve the danger to Americans near the border. This contemplated an agreement for a neutral zone from five to ten miles wide along the boundary line.

Congress, Mr. Sulzer said, would not act under the circumstances without a special message from the President.

There is a very clear sentiment in both houses of Congress, as well as in the Administration, against any hasty or ill-considered action regarding Mexico. It is recognized everywhere that the situation is very delicate and that intervention, which has always been a possibility, may become an unpleasant necessity. But there is every disposition to display just as much patience as possible in the hope that some way of settling the trouble may be found by the Mexicans themselves.

Thus far there has been nothing which even in the judgment of the most pronounced jingoes would justify intervention. The chief danger lies in the evident inability of the Diaz Government to put down the insurrection and the apparent unwillingness of its head to recognize that inability. It is clear that the lawless elements in Mexico are recognizing that inability and taking advantage of it in the organization of bands of plunderers, who recognize no authority, either Insurgent or Federal.

Thus far the Federals and the insurgents have recognized their obligation to protect the lives and property of neutral foreigners, and thus the situation which would most demand intervention has been avoided. But unless the Diaz Government discloses an unexpected ability to grapple with this danger it is expected here that the situation will become materially worse.

Thus far there has been no sign of jingoism in Congress. On the contrary, both Democrats and Republicans are disposed to let things run along and to suppress anything that looks like trouble-making. Representative Flood of Virginia let it be known this afternoon that he intended to introduce a resolution recognizing the insurgents as belligerents, but word came from the Democratic leaders, who have kept their organization very well in hand so far, that they would not do anything to help the manufacture of war capital for anybody.

In the House to-day Representative Garrett of Tennessee offered a resolution directing the Committee on Foreign Affairs to investigate the Mexican situation, with especial reference to conditions along the border. Senator Stone of Missouri has offered a resolution of similar nature in the Senate, empowering the Committee on Foreign Relations to conduct such an investigation, and he proposes to speak in support of it on Friday.

Senator Bacon of Georgia, ranking minority member of the Foreign Relations Committee, epitomized the sentiment in Congress to-day when he said:

"An invasion of Mexico, designed for a limited and temporary purpose, might be like touching a match to a tinder box.

"Under existing and threatened conditions," he continued, "very great caution is necessary to prevent embroiling this Government in a conflict with the Mexican people. I do not think that anything less than the most extreme necessity would justify an invasion. The consequences would be far-reaching in many respects and the end no one could foresee. In my opinion every possible expedient should be employed to protect our people without resorting to such an extreme measure."

Whole City Block at Jacksonville, Fla., Destroyed in a Lumber Blaze.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 18.—A fire which started in the fuelroom of the Doscher-Gardner Lumber Company here to-night swept a whole city block, destroying the stocks of that concern and the Jacksonville Lumber Company, and a line of freight cars on the Seaboard Air Line sidings.

The loss will amount to $500,000.

HER TWENTIETH CHILD.

Mrs. White's Large Family Includes Three Sets of Twins.

WAKEFIELD, Mass., April 18.—When John White of this town was informed to-day that a daughter had been born to him he experienced a thrill of parental pride for the twentieth time in his twenty-four years of married life. Mrs. White, the mother of the twenty children, sixteen of whom are living, is about 45 years old. Her children have included three sets of twins.

Local physycians say that Mrs. White is the mother of the largest family in Middlesex County.

THIEVES WORK AT A FIRE.

Rob One Apartment of Money and Jewels While Another Burns.

Mrs. Elizabeth Flemm of 214 East Twentieth Street, complained to the police of the East Twenty-second Street Station last night that when she and her children fled to the street from a fire in the house, a thief entered her apartment and took $545 in bills and jewelry worth $500.

Mrs. Flemm lives on the first floor. The fire started on the second floor in the apartment of Joseph Sabansky. The fire was put out with slight damage.

AGAINST RADICAL ELECTIONS.

Initiative and Referendum Loses in Michigan Senate by Close Vote.

LANSING, Mich., April 18.—The Michigan Senate to-day killed the bills for a popular vote on a constitutional amendment providing for the initiative and referendum. There were 15 votes in favor of the initiative and 14 against, and on the referendum the vote was 15 to 15. Both bills required a two-thirds' vote.

The bill for a constitutional amendment providing for the recall of officials was defeated by the Senate last night, 18 to 11. All three bills had passed the House.

GOVERNMENT DEFICIT SHOWN

Expenditures for April $2,000,000 More Than a Year Ago.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Government finances have slipped back over the line from surplus to deficit. April, which began with a surplus for the first time in the fiscal year, now shows a deficit of some $4,000,000.

Expenditures for the month have been $2,000,000 greater than last year and receipts are $1,000,000 less for the month. There seems to be also a general drop in receipts from all sources except the corporation tax.

TAFT'S SON WATER CARRIER.

Too Slender to Play, He Helps in Other Lines His School's Baseball Team.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERTOWN, Conn., April 18.—The family love of baseball has attacked Charlie Taft, youngest son of the President, and he has gone into the game in the rôle of water carrier. He is too slender to play on the team of the Taft School, where he is a student, but he has been told that the water carriers rise till they finally become managers of teams, and he has begun at the bottom.

In to-day's game between the Taft School and the Hartford High School teams he carried bucket after bucket of water across the diamond to slake the thirst of the athletes, and when the Hartford players learned that it was the President's son who was holding the pail for their benefit there were renewed calls for water.

FELL DEAD IN A CAR.

H. C. Fulton of New Rochelle Expires While on His Way Home.

H. C. Fulton of 135 Lockwood Avenue, New Rochelle, dropped dead in a Lexington Avenue trolley car when the car was near Thirty-ninth Street late last night. Mr. Fulton was in evening clothes. Apparently he had been to the theatre, and was on his way to the Grand Central Station to take a train home.

He was seated in the car when his head dropped on his chest and he suddenly fell forward. He died, apparently, of heart disease. Passengers seated near him were the first to notice his appearance and they notified the conductor, who had the car stopped, and with the help of passengers carried Mr. Fulton into a near-by store, where Dr. Behan of Bellevue Hospital was summoned. The surgeon said that death had been instant. Mr. Fulton's body was taken to the East Thirty-fifth Street Station.

Mr. Fulton was identified by his name and address in the pocket of his overcoat. His family was notified that he had been taken ill and his son started for New York immediately. The news that Mr. Fulton was dead was not broken to them.

ARMISTICE IN MEXICO NEAR

Official in the Capital Declares That It Has Been Practically Arranged.

IT MAY BEGIN ON FRIDAY

REBELS TOOK INITIATIVE?

Diaz Government Said to be in Touch with Gomez and Madero—A Denial in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

MEXICO CITY, April 18.—A high official stated to me to-night that an armistice with a view to ending the rebellion had been practically arranged.

The official in question declared that Dr. Vasquez Gomez, the representative of the insurgents in Washington, and Francisco I. Madero, the rebel leader, are now in direct touch with the Diaz Government.

This is the first admission that any peace plan has received the sanction of the Federal authorities.

Friday is said to be the day chosen for the beginning of the armistice.

MEXICO CITY, April 18.—A proposition for an armistice pending negotiations for a settlement of Mexico's internal troubles was received by the Department of Foreign Relations to-day from Washington, presumably from Dr. Vasquez Gomez.

A reply was returned in which it was indicated that the Government looked with favor upon the suggestion.

The armistice proposal appears to be a direct outgrowth of the battle at Agua Prieta and the consequent casualties among non-combatants in Douglas, Arizona, due to the fire from the Mexican side. It points specifically to the dangers of international complications which might follow a continuation of the conflict.

Minister de la Barra this afternoon sent to Washington the answer to the proposal made by the agent of the revolutionists. In it he stipulated certain minor terms, to which, it is believed, there will be no objection. It is said, however, that before a full agreement is entered into by the Government and rebels every detail of the proposals will be submitted to Francisco I. Madero, Jr.

So far have negotiations now gone that it is not expected that Madero will longer oppose the overtures his agents have made for peace. It is believed that no time will be lost either by the rebels or the Government in concluding arrangements for the formal declaration of the armistice or that as soon thereafter as possible the work of drafting terms for permanent peace will be begun.

Both sides realize that the war is costing the country too much in money and lives it is said, and the fighting at Agua Prieta has served to emphasize this view.

It will not surprise some persons if the armies now opposing each other in the north receive orders within the next forty-eight hours to cease operations. This might prevent a threatened battle at Juarez.

Minister de la Barra did not feel at liberty to-night to disclose the conditions on which the armistice would be granted. The terms proposed are mainly those made by the revolutionists. While the exact terms on which permanent peace will be based have not been agreed to, it is said that tentative promises of a character intended to satisfy the rebels have been made.

Although the rebels lost the battle yesterday at Agua Prieta, sympathizers declare that their position is not yet so desperate as to make them willing to enter into an agreement in which all terms are made by the Government.

While no confirmation could be obtained here to-night, a rumor was current that the terms on which the rebels would agree to end the revolt are the resignation of President Diaz within five months, the appointment of Minister de la Barra as President, pending the holding of a special Presidential election, and the immediate revision of the electoral laws.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Dr. Vasquez Gomez, head of the confidential agency of the Mexican revolutionists here, admitted to-night that a proposal for an armistice had been sent to the Mexican Government, and that a favorable reply had been received.

It was learned that Dr. Gomez had telegraphed to the insurrecto junta at El Paso, Texas, to communicate this information to Gen. Francisco I. Madero, Jr., in the field and to obtain from him at once the definite conditions upon which he would agree to an armistice.

It is said that the Mexican Government will permit couriers to pass through Juarez so as to facilitate the transmission of the messages arranging an armistice.

PROGRESS OF PEACE PARTY.

Elder Madero and Companions Leave Chihuahua in Special Train.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, April 18.—Under the protection of a white flag, which floated from the locomotive, Francisco I. Madero, Sr., left this city to-day on a special train for the interior, where he expects to meet his son, Francisco I. Madero, Jr., the insurrecto leader, and induce him to come to some terms for peace in Mexico.

With Señor Madero are his brother, Ernesto Madero; Alfonso Madero, his son; Rafael Hernandes, and Frederico Moye.

The departure of the party for the field was the result of weeks of effort, and is supposed to have been inspired, in part at least, by conferences in New York between Minister Limantour and the elder Madero.

It it is found necessary for the party to proceed beyond the railway lines, mules will be used.

SAYS WE SEIZED MUNITIONS.

Rebel Junta Charges Agua Prieta Evacuation Was Due to This Cause.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 18.—The insurrecto junta here this afternoon issued a statement in which Juan Sanchez Azcona, the head of the junta, declares that the reason the rebels, who were yesterday in possession of Agua Prieta, evacuated that place last night was due to what is termed the "unwarranted act of United States Custom House and Secret Service men," who confiscated more than 100,000 rounds of ammunition that had been shipped to Douglas, Arizona.

"The revolutionists, under the leadership of 'Red' Lopez," the statement reads, "after a gallant defense of eighteen hours of the customs port of entry, Agua Prieta, were forced to evacuate last night. The evacuation was not on account of the assaulting Federals, since the physical facts show that during the daylight engagements the Federals were several times repulsed, with a loss of several of their machine guns and a casualty list of about 400. The casualty list of the revolutionists was only fifty, including both killed and wounded.

"The retreat by the revolutionists was due wholly to the unwarranted act of Custom House and Secret Service men in confiscating over 100,000 rounds of ammunition which was at Douglas, and was to be sold by merchants in Douglas and shipped into Mexico.

"As the neutrality statute applies only to an organization equipping and providing means for military expeditions to invade Mexico, the mere shipment of arms and ammunition into Mexico for the revolutionists was not a violation of the law. The confiscation and prevention by American officials of the sale and shipment of this ammunition was, therefore, to say the least, unwarranted. It serves as a direct cause why 'Red' Lopez and his army were forced to retire.

"During the Russo-Japanese war Senator Elihu Root, then American Secretary of State, laid down the precedent that American merchants could sell munitions of war within the field of hostilities of belligerent nations, and that the sale did not constitute a breach of neutrality. Then why, in the Douglas incident, were the merchants and others allowed to sell ammunition to the revolutionists? Since no violation of the statute was involved, the confiscation was unwarranted, and appears as a direct collusion and assistance on the part of some one in favor of the tottering Diaz autocracy."

"Red" Lopez is well known to Capt. Johnson of the United States Cavalry, who is the Provost Marshal in San Antonio. Before coming here a few weeks ago Capt. Johnson was in command of the border patrol, within which is included Douglas, Arizona.

"Lopez," said Capt. Johnson this afternoon, "is an intrepid fighter and a born leader of men. He is a Mexican who was born in the United States."

Between 7,000 and 8,000 of the regular troops in the division commanded by Major Gen. Carter paraded through the streets of San Antonio this afternoon. There were six regiments of infantry, two provisional regiments of cavalry, and a regiment of field artillery, in addition to detachments of Engineers and Signal Corps in line. Brig. Gen. Frick A. Smith commanded the parade, which was witnessed by cheering crowds.

FALSE ALARM AT JUAREZ.

But Rebels Are Near City—Much Brigandage in Northern Mexico.

EL PASO, April 18.—Out of the scores of conflicting rumors of firing close to Jaurez last night and reports that several hundred insurrectos, presumably part of the Maderist force recently stationed near Chihuahua City, were now at Bauche, twelve miles south of Juarez, appears one concrete fact to-day. That is that there is no prospect of a battle around Juarez, for a day or two at least.

Col. Tamborel, commanding the Federal forces in Juarez, denies the reports of firing last night in the vicinity of that town. Half a dozen shots were fired by American sentires near the El Paso smelter about 3 o'clock this morning for an unexplained reason, and these shots gave rise to the reports that the insurrectos were close to Juarez and that a battle was imminent.

Dispatches received this morning from a correspondent with the insurrectos refers merely to the fight east of Juarez last Saturday, in which Oscar Creighton was killed, and says that all the rebel force, headed by Francisco I. Madero in person, is at Sapello. This is twenty-three miles south of Juarez.

According to the correspondent, the entire commands of Orozco and Blanco, numbering about 3,000 men, are in camp, while another thousand insurrectos are watching the Mexican National Railroad to intercept any reinforcements from Chihuahua for Juarez.

The courier who brought in the dispatches says there will be no fighting until to-morrow or later. He came around the outskirts of Juarez during the night.

Capt. Escuevado, according to the courier, was killed with Capt. Creighton on Saturday. Three Federal prisoners are being held by the insurrectos.

Another element of confusion was added to the Juarez situation to-day by the admission of the Federal officials in Juarez that 800 insurrectos under Raoul Madero had reached Bauche, twelve miles from Juarez. They compose part of the forces near Madero, Orozco, and Blanco.

But Juarez is now ready for the attack. Federal troops, having completed the fortifications and mines in the region of the city, have now returned to Juarez, and are digging trenches close to the heart of the city and within two blocks of the American Consulate. Men, machine guns, and other artillery have been placed in position. Citizens of the town are greatly alarmed, and many of them are crossing into El Paso.

The Federal forces in Juarez comprise about 750 men, under the command of Gen. Navarro, and they are well supplied with ammunition and all modern fighting appliances. The city has been fortified in every manner possible and mines placed in every direction. If the fighting takes place in the city the slaughter is certain to be very heavy.

United States troops are taking all necessary precautions to keep the citizens of El Paso out of the danger zone, and if the expected assault materializes, no crossing will be permitted from the American side.

Every freight car that was in Juarez has been shunted into El Paso.

One of the very serious situations in Northern Mexico at present is the brigandage in connection with the revolutionary movement. In many instances bands operating as revolutionists have been committing depredations on the property of Americans, other foreigners, and natives without regard to its character or ownership. This is particularly true in Durango, where Luis Mora and a band of men have been robbing the various mines of Americans.

Only last week American Consular Agent Carothers at Torreon received a deputation of American mining men from the State and accompanied them to the Mexican General commanding the district, to whom they protested against the outrages. Mines have been visited almost daily, some of them two or three times in a week, and the places robbed and the officials and employes ill-treated.

When the insurrection began the insurrectos took horses, food, and guns, and gave receipts for them, signed in the name of the revolutionary party. Now such articles are merely confiscated. No receipts are given.

Scarcely anywhere in Northern Mexico is there any law or order. Troops are stationed only in the larger towns. The rest of the country is left unprotected and robbers operate almost under the eyes of the insurrectos. They can do it without detection, and the people suffer without being able to identify the robbers, as they all look like insurrectos.

PESSIMISM GROWS IN DIAZ'S CAPITAL

International Situation Thought to be Grave Even in Official Circles.

A SHORT CONGRESS SESSION

Adjournment Forced Before Any Action Can Be Taken—Residents of Capital Safeguard Their Property.

BY STEPHEN BONSAL.

Copyright, 1911, by The New York Times Co.

MEXICO CITY, April 18.—The gravity of the international situation developing here cannot be exaggerated. To-day pessimistic views are beginning to prevail in well-informed circles.

While the news of the substantial Federal victory at Agua Prieta is undoubtedly a great help to the Diaz Government, none of the combinations with Liberal groups which Minister of Foreign Affairs De la Barra had in mind when on Saturday he informed me that the interior situation would be arranged in a few hours has been realized, and there is little assurance that any will be.

It should not be lost sight of at this moment that the only certain way the Government has of quelling, or at least of postponing, the rebellion and getting a great majority of the people behind it is by a rupture of relations with the United States.

Haste to Safeguard Valuables.

There were busy scenes in the banking section of the city all the afternoon, Mexicans as well as foreigners buying New York and London exchange and bringing their valuables to places of safety. The notaries are working overtime and at double prices certifying to true copies of deeds and other important documents, which copies are being dispatched abroad.

The recruiting of the army, notwithstanding the high pay of $1 a day and a bounty, is not impressively successful. Neither the number nor the character of the men obtained inspires revolutionary sympathizers here with misgivings.

Ministers Limantour and De la Barra were closeted with the President all the morning considering the answer to the American note regarding the frontier incidents.

It was announced at the Foreign Office at 5 o'clock that the long-awaited reply was sent to Washington at noon.

President Diaz is informed that several Deputies, in private conversation at least, threaten to introduce a resolution in Congress calling upon him to resign in order to save the country from internal anarchy and outside complications.

Congress Suddenly Adjourned.

At 4 P. M. nearly every Deputy was in his place at the Congresso and the public galleries were filled to overflowing, both being unprecedented events in the story of Parliamentary life here. The cause of the popular interest at least was the belief that President Diaz proposed to submit to Congress a copy of the note from Washington and a draft of his reply.

However, after the reading of the minutes, the roll call, and the voting of money to pay for floral decorations of the Chamber, which took ten minutes, the presiding officer arose and declared the session adjourned.

The Deputies did not conceal their displeasure at the proceedings, and they were loudly hissed and most discourteously hailed as they filed out, both by the crowds in the galleries and the throngs in the streets.

RECRUITING DIAZ'S ARMY.

Wealthy Young Men Forming Rough Riders—Bandits Near City.

Special to The New York Times.

MEXICO CITY, April 18.—Rebel bands which are operating near this city are of little importance. Squads of Rurales have exchanged shots with them several times. It seems certain that they are not revolutionists, but lawless characters, merely taking advantage of the general timidity of the people to rob them. There have been no depredations of importance, and the city itself is quiet.

Army officials here are now bending every effort toward the recruiting of new regiments. They report that many volunteers are enlisting. The gilded youth of the capital are planning to form a regiment on the order of the Rough Riders, to be commanded by a Captain of the President's Guard. Prominent women of the capital are offering their services to the Red Cross. Two sections of the organization expect to leave this week for the front. The Red Cross has been greatly criticised here for its inactivity, but now it is working hard. The President in Mexico is Mrs. Luz de Lopez, a daughter of Minister of War Cosio.

Mrs. Luz de Lopez has made the statement that no American would be safe in Mexico in case of intervention. She says the minute American troops crossed the border there would be no restraining the populace, which would destroy American property, and cause a reign of terror for American residents. Minister De La Barra says there is no probability of intervention, but even should United States soldiers cross the border there is no reason to suppose there would be violence toward residents. He cites the French intervention. Feeling was bitter against France, yet the large French colony in the republic was unmolested.

The ordinance which was posted to-day closing Agua Prieta as a port of entry was later removed, when it was learned that the Federals again held the city. The Federal forces before Chiautla, in the State of Puebla, have not attacked the rebels holding the town, but news of a fight is expected momentarily.

Bankers and business men of Durango have sent a signed petition to the bankers here asking them to interview the President and get him to send Federal troops to Durango, as they fear an attack by the rebels soon.

Taxco, the mining camp in Guerrero, is the scene of much rebel activity. Igula, Guerrero, is again threatened.

The War Office has advice that Chinpas in Sonora is in the hands of the rebels. Many other small towns are also in their possession, but this means little as the towns have no means of defense.

Gen. Francisco Leyva has been made military commander in the State of Morelos. His appointment is significant as he was the candidate against Col. Pablo Escandon for Governor of the State two years ago. He is said to have been the popular candidate, and Escandon's election is said to have been unfair. The affairs of the State are now in the hands of Gen. Leyva, who has issued a proclamation calling for volunteers. He will start an active campaign against the rebels at once.

ENSENADA EXPECTS ATTACK.

Rebel Scouting Parties Reported Near Lower California Capital.

ENSENADA, Lower California, Via San Diego, Cal., April 18.—Citizens of Ensenada are going armed to-day in expectation of an attack by the guerrilla band under Simon Berthold, which has been at Alamo, thirty-five miles away, for some weeks. Scouting parties have been reported lately near the Lower California capital, and the soldiers under Gov. Vega have been prepared for night attacks.

So far none of the scouting parties has come near enough to the town to be seen. On one occasion a body of eighty rebels was said to be approaching.

Everything of value has either been hidden or sent to San Diego for safe keeping. Gov. Vega appears to be confident of holding the town.

SAN DIEGO, April 18.—O. Henry Savage of this city, to whom the Americans at Alamo made their first appeal a few days ago, received a reassuring telegram to-day from Secretary Knox. The dispatch reads:

"Consul at Ensenada reports that he has talked over the telephone with American residents at Alamo, who state that all Americans there are unharmed and have provisions for about two weeks, but cannot leave the town."

PRISONERS WELL TREATED.

Americans Captured by Federals at Chihuahua After Long Marches.

CHIHUAHUA, April 17, (Via Laredo, April 18.)—The prisoners, including Americans, who fell into the hands of the Mexican federal troops in the battle between Sauz and Santa Clara, arrived to-day, accompanied by 1,000 federal troops.

All the prisoners, except for fatigue, seemed in good spirits. They said they had been as well treated as possible.

Weary and footsore from 200 miles march afoot, fourteen Americans and two German prisoners arrived here to-night from Casas Grandes. All are well.

This afternoon the American prisoners were taken to the penitentiary, where each was confined in a separate cell. No one hereafter will be allowed to see them except the United States Consul. The cells, though without bedding, are clean and sanitary. Americans here have arranged to provide the prisoners with food, tobacco, and other comforts. Investigation by Consul Letcher and Vice Consul Leonard disclosed several corrections in names as originally given out.

The man who gave his name as Carlton is R. O. Beck of Mount Pleasant, Penn., and "Murray" is William Huggard of New York. John Harrison is John H. Farnsworth of Manton, Cal. The only other changes were corrections of initials and do not disclose any other identities.

The prisoners told Consul Letcher that seventy-five Americans were engaged in the Casas Grandes fight. They said about thirty Americans were killed, among whom, not previously reported, were John Deerer of Nebraska and Samuel Rupland, a race track man of New York State.

R. C. Lee of Mount Washington, Mo., said:

"We began attacking the town at daylight, having prowled around it the previous night to select positions. At the beginning the soldiers of the town were flurried, but they soon got on the housetops and responded vigorously. We had the best of them, and after five hours they raised a white flag.

"Meantime we rushed in, and they began firing again. They had withdrawn the white flag, it seems, because Col. Cuellar, with 700 men, was coming to their rescue. The fight continued in the town and through the streets. About twenty-five of us Americans got inside an adobe house. From the windows of this we continued to fight until we saw it was hopeless. Then we hoisted a white flag, but for twenty minutes afterward we were still under fire.

"Deerer and Rupland were killed by my side. When the Federals ceased firing we went outsid and surrendered our arms. Col. Cuellar ordered that we be put under guard and treated as prisoners of war. Ever since, although we have had many hardships, our treatment has been as good as we could expect."

It is not known when the trials of the prisoners will begin. Consol Letcher has retained all the data possible for presentation to the State Department.

Three thousand Federal troops, among them those who brought the prisoners from Casas Grandes, paraded the streets to-day, displaying horses, wagons, and other equipment which had been captured from the insurrectos.

The German Consul is looking after the interests of the two Germans brought with the American prisoners.

FOR NATIONAL GUARD RESERVE.

Steps to Establish One Taken by Adjt. Gen. Verbeck.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 18.—Steps have been taken by Adjutant General Verbeck for the formation of a reserve for each organization of the National Guard, to be called upon for State duty only, in case the National Guard is called upon by the President for United States service. From the reserves the companies in the field may be recruited.

The Adjutant General has been for some time engaged in formulating plans for the organization of reserve battalions, believing that under the military law the reserve system should as far as possible be established in advance of time of actual need. He has requested the commanding officers of the organizations of the National Guard to submit lists of the commissioned personnel whom they would recommend for the depot battalions of the various organizations. The recommendations, so far as practicable, are to include available retired and supernumerary officers, who can, if necessary, be placed on duty at once by the order of the Governor. The first to respond to Gen. Verbeck's request is Col. Walter B. Hotchkiss, commanding the Twenty-second Engineers. For the additional battalions of the Twenty-second Daniel J. Murphy, late Major in the command, was recommended for Major.

The organization of a colored regiment of 1,000 men, with colored officers, is provided for in a bill introduced to-day by Assemblyman Cuvillier.

It is understood that Adjutant General Verbeck opposes such a regiment, but that the War Department favors the idea.

QUIT AGUA PRIETA WHEN AID WAS NEAR

Rebels Abandoned City and Federals Moved In—Cabral's Band May Now Attack It.

RAN OUT OF AMMUNITION

Insurrectos Also Overcome by Alcohol—Americans Among Killed in Monday's Battle.

AGUA PRIETA, Mexico, April 18.—When darkness fell over Agua Prieta to-night it was undetermined whether the Federal troops of Lieut. Col. Reynaldo Diaz would retain undisputed possession of the city, which the rebels evacuated early to-day after the exhaustion of their ammunition, or whether rebel reinforcements, appearing suddenly from the westward this afternoon, would start another battle.

The battle of Agua Prieta, which raged almost without intermission for nearly twenty-four hours, was won in the end by the Mexican Federal forces, which occupied the town at daylight to-day. The rebels evacuated Agua Prieta an hour before the Government troops arrived.

Part of the insurrecto garrison was disrupted in the abandonment of the town. Throwing away their guns in terror and leaving their horses they fled in disorder in different directions. The principal portion of the rebel command, however, retired in good order toward the mountains south of the city. Two insurrecto commanders, Balzario, Garcia, and Col. Medina, deserted their men and fled across the border, where they surrendered to the American troops.

Lieut. Col. Diaz led the 1,200 triumphant Federal troops into Agua Prieta.

Watchers were surprised after a day of quietude to see a column of troops move out of the mountain passes twelve miles to the west of Agua Prieta and debouch on the plains in front of the city. It was at first uncertain whether this was a new rebel force or Federal reinforcements from Cananea.

The doubt was soon dispelled. The column began riding rapidly toward the city. Soon glasses showed that the approaching force consisted of insurrectos.

As they approached the outer breastworks the Federal outposts opened a long range rifle fire, which fell short. The column halted, seemingly surprised.

Apparently the approaching rebels were unaware that the insurrectos had fled from Agua Prieta and that the border town was held by the Federals. Finally the column wheeled and started toward the mountains. Then it halted again, and there appeared at the mouth of the cañon from yhich the first troops had emerged a second and longer column. This detachment moved slowly across the desert and joined the first. There were apparently more than 500 men in the combined columns.

Cowboys came into Agua Prieta at about that time and reported that the force was that of Juan Cabral, the insurrecto leader of Sonora, who at different times in the last few weeks has worked much havoc on the Federal forces. With him, it was reported, was the insurgent command led by Señora Talamantes, the "Mexican Joan of Arc."

A Mexican insurrecto on foot crossed the line west of Douglas and surrendered to an American citizen. He said he was a member of Cabral's band advancing from the west. He said Cabral had had no knowledge that the Federals had taken Agua Prieta, and had been moving forward, expecting to join the rebel garrison, when he was fired on. This rebel's horse was shot from under him while he was scouting far in advance, and he escaped on foot to the American side.

The Federal forces in Agua Prieta took small notice of the column when it appeared. Their unsaddled horses remained tethered in the bull pen.

The rebels after uniting marched west parallel with the city limits, but evidently with no intention of approaching near enough to offer battle, at least, before night.

When darkness fell it was impossible to make out whether or not the moving rebel column would come in contact with the Federal garrison. Questions as to whether the troops would go out and engage the rebel command were unanswered.

The Federals to-night brought into the bull ring at Agua Prieta twenty-five Federals, wounded in yesterday's battle.

In official reports given out by Col. Diaz the total of the dead and injured in yesterday's battle, rebel and Federal, was said to be about fifty, but it is believed that this figure is far too low.

From daylight this morning nothing was seen of the rebel troops who vanished before dawn from Agua Prieta. Those who moved away in good order shouted across the line to the American sentries that they would be back in a few days to fight it out.

The Mexican Government troops moved into the abandoned city with the first streak of dawn and took possession. Their manœuvres, designed to draw the fire of the rebels, had tended much to exhaust the rebels' ammunition and to decide the contest.

The ports of Agua Prieta and Douglas were again formally declared open to-day with the reoccupation of Agua Prieta by the Federals.

A press correspondent saw in Agua Prieta to-day a few bodies of rebels lying in the streets. At the bull ring there were everywhere evidences of yesterday's fighting. In the ring were two bodies. One was that of an American.

Sitting against the west wall of the bull ring and heavily guarded by Mexican troops sat a lone American who had not got away with the retreating rebel army. His hands were tied with ropes, which passed over his shoulders.

"They are not going to shoot me, are they?" he asked. He said his name was Thomas Sullivan, that he was born in Connecticut, that he last worked at Cananea, and that he came to Douglas from Bisbee. He said he had crossed the Mexican line yesterday, had been arrested by the rebels, robbed of $100, forced to display the scarlet ribbon on his arm, and driven into the fighting line. He still wore his scarlet ribbon to-day.

Lieut.-Col. Diaz and Major Barron of the Federal troops were engaged early to-day in gathering up the discarded arms of the rebels and bringing in the insurrecto dead. Five bodies were brought from the rebel trenches. Three of these were Americans. No wounded men were found.

Both of the Federal machine guns were in the bull ring to-day, with a plentiful store of ammunition.

Twenty men, one of them an American who had fought in the rebel trenches west of Agua Prieta, appeared to-day at the home of a rancher four miles north of Douglas and asked for breakfast. They said that when the rebel commander announced the shortage of ammunition they crossed the international border.

Balasario Garcia, who fled across the line last night and gave himself up to the American officers, declared to-day that he surrendered because his men were not obeying him. He was not in command of the entire rebel forces, he said, but was ranked by Col. Luis Medina. The latter, who also has fled across the line, has given no reason for his desertion except that the evacuation of the town was imminent and he had to seek some place of safety quickly. Garcia asked especially that he be considered merely a refugee and not as a rebel commander.

Douglas to-day gave a sigh of relief. With the occupying of Agua Prieta by Federal troops and with the flight of the rebel army, the grave danger to every resident from Mexican bullets passed, for a time at least.

The seven citizens shot in Douglas yesterday, together with those who were victims of the previous fighting, lie in local hospitals. No deaths have occurred among them, and hope is held out for the recovery of all.

DOUGLAS, Arizona, April 18. —The rebel defeat at Agua Prieta was attributable wholly to the over-indulgence of the insurrecto soldiers in intoxicating liquors found in the saloons and stores of the captured city, according to Col. Juan Medina, Commander-in-chief of the rebel forces who fled into this city and surrendered to the United States authorities.

Recounting the story of the battle and its ending, Col. Medina said:

"Shortly after we occupied the city I issued orders for the destruction of the liquor supply in the various stores.

"When the Federals arrived and the battle opened, I took a position on the east of town. Balasario Garcia commanded the centre, and Rico and Escandon the right wing to the west.

"I gave orders to my men, except those who had Mauser rifles of long range, not to fire until the enemy was within 500 yards. With me was one sharpshooter who cut down all who attempted to man the Federal machine gun in the attack on the centre. The officer who commanded this gun was among those shot down. Another man took his place, but I saw immediately that he could not handle the gun effectively.

"I ordered my troops to withhold their fire and permit the enemy to advance. This they did until within 500 yards, when we opened fire all along the line, 400 in action. All Douglas is witness to the fact that the Federals had to fall back under this fire.

"Twice again the Federals reformed their line and advanced, and twice were repulsed. After the third repulse I returned to Agua Prieta and found that the men left in the town had been drinking and were in bad shape. I ordered that the boxes of beer that had been opened be destroyed.

"I left a guard over the unopened cases, but before returning to the firing line found one of our officers drinking and allowing soldiers to drink. I had troops disarm him and place him in the guardhouse.

"During the day I had no opportunity to return from the firing line.

"In the dusk the enemy concentrated a heavy attack on the centre of our line. Garcia's men had been drinking and had deserted their trenches, with the exception of six Mexicans and three Americans. When Garcia noticed this he left his position and rushed into camp to get ammunition and round up his men, but found them dispersed through the town and so drunk that they could not return to the trenches.

"Before he could get back to the central trenches the enemy had advanced and had taken them. Informed of this by a scout, I gave orders for our troops to mount their horses and prepare to evacuate, so that we could form a new stronghold in the adjacent hills. At this point a man with a shattered hip appealed to me for help. I picked him up and started toward the line. The United States patrol had been moved to Fifth Street, and I believed the ground between was neutral. Just beyond this line an American soldier arrested me. From that time on I hardly know what happened."

MEXICO CITY, April 18.—The Minister of Foreign Affairs said to-day that the Mexican Government in its reply to the State Department at Washington with reference to the fatalities which had occurred during the first battle of Agua Prieta had expressed its regret and that it had offered to repeat the orders already given to its soldiers to avoid shooting in the direction of the American frontier. At the same time Señor de la Barra pointed out that the shots which had caused the fatalities were fired, according to official information received by him, and, he declared, corroborated by the press, by American filibusters, who, he said, formed a majority of the Lopez company of rebels.

In its reply the Mexican Government expressed surprise at the procedure of "certain subordinate American officials, a procedure opposed to the practices of international law and contrary to the friendship which exists between the two nations."

One of the surprising "incidents" referred to was the reported aid given by a policeman to a rebel in the readjustment of his rifle, which was out of order. The rebel is said to have handed his rifle across the line to the officer.

The Mexican Government expressed its conviction that the incidents growing out of the battle would not affect the friendly relations between the two nations.

CHARGE ON LONG TRUNKS.

Railroads to Stop Carrying Popular New Styles Free.

Travelers who have been congratulating themselves on the possession of fine long wardrobe trunks which are checked through without charge by the railroads, owing to their light weight, are likely to pay for their luxury. The General Baggage Agents' Association met in Chicago last week and heard the report of the Committee on Limitation of Baggage. This report pointed out that the National Trunk Manufacturers' Association had decided on forty-six inches as a maximum for wardrobe trunks. The committee recommended that after Jan. 1, 1912, no piece of baggage exceeding seventy inches in length be transported in baggage cars, and that for all pieces of baggage exceeding forty inches in length an additional charge be made for each additional inch equal to the charge for ten pounds of excess baggage.

George A. Cullen, General Passenger Agent of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, said yesterday that the railroads had decided that some limit must be placed on the length of the wardrobe trunks.

"It has proved very burdensome on the railroads to carry them free of charge," said Mr. Cullen. "One of those trunks takes up more room than three or four ordinary trunks. Moreover, some of the wardrobe or innovation trunks have rounded ends, which make it impossible to pack them closely. Sometimes in the Summer rush season the railroads are obliged to put on extra baggage cars for the wardrobe trunks, and there have been cases where a train had to be split into two sections just because of the great number of these trunks. It is high time that the roads should charge for them."

FIRES UPON ACTRESS AT THE STAGE DOOR

Disappointed Suitor of Vinie Wray Discharged Revolver Pointed at Her Face.

SHE FELL IN A FAINT

Three Shots Fired, but Each One Missed Her—Angry Crowd Talked of Lynching Her Assailant.

Vinie Wray, who, disguised as a man and riding on a charger, saves her lover, the spy, from the hands of the enemy twice daily at the Hippodrome Theatre in the act "Marching Through Georgia," had a narrow escape yesterday afternoon when three shots were fired at her near the stage entrance of the theatre by her real suitor, Joseph Shaughnessy, who, Miss Wray says, has been constantly annoying her with proposals of marriage.

The shooting was shortly before the matinée performance began and in the presence of a large crowd. The young actress was about to enter the stage door in West Forty-third Street when Shaughnessy stepped out from behind a door, held a pistol within a few inches of her face, and fired. Seeing the girl drop on the sidewalk and screaming as if dangerously hurt, he turned to run away, and found himself in the grasp of at least twenty men, many of them stage hands.

There were cries of "lynch him, lynch him!" and the crowd dragged him to Sixth Avenue, the girl being almost forgotten. From other theatres, from hotels, and from the lobby of the Hippodrome streamed hundreds of apprehensive people, all eagerly asking the cause of the excitement.

A second crowd soon collected around the prostrate body of the actress, who had fainted, but who appeared dead to all those working over her. The rumor that she was dead soon had possession of the throngs, and it was with great difficulty that she could be carried to a near-by candy store.

When Patrolman Meyer of the East Fifty-first Street Station tried to break up the crowd which was dragging the assailant into Sixth Avenue, he found that he could do nothing single handed, and blew his whistle many times for help. Traffic and mounted policemen were in the neighborhood, and at the direction of Capt. O'Connor the crowd was dispersed and the assailant rescued. Under police guard he was taken to the East Fifty-first Street Station.

Miss Wray, in the meantime, had been revived. One of her coat sleeves was marked by powder burns, but aside from being very much shocked she was unhurt.

Shaughnessy is 25 years old and lives at 358 East 161st Street. Miss Wray said that he was formerly employed at the Hippodrome as an electrician. He often spoke to her on the stage, she said, and they became quite friendly. Once he called at her home, 106 Penn Street, Brooklyn, and before her mother and sister proposed marriage to her. From that moment he was like another man in her opinion, she told the Captain, and she could not tolerate him. Thereafter she said he renewed his proposals at intervals, and on her complaint he was suspended from work.

When she prepared to board a car near her home yesterday, Shaughnessy was there. He boarded the car with her and stood on the rear platform. At Williamsburg Bridge, where she left the trolley, she called a policeman and asked for the man's arrest on the ground that he was annoying her, but the policeman told her that he did not have jurisdiction in such cases and advised her to get out a warrant. The man followed her to an elevated train, she said, and at Sixth Avenue and Forty-second Street disappeared in the crowd.

Apparently he had rushed ahead of her so as to have sufficient time to conceal himself behind the open stage door. The girl explained that he once had shown her a revolver and threatened that he might be compelled to shoot her some time if she did not yield to his entreaties of marriage.

In the Yorkville Court the prisoner would not make a statement, and the Magistrate allowed bail in the sum of $1,500. The case will come up this morning and Miss Wray said that she would surely appear against the prisoner.

Mme. Nordica Answers Suit for $63.

Mme. Lillian Nordica, the prima donna, and her husband, George Young, appeared yesterday in the Third District Municipal Court to testify in a suit for $63 for photographs brought against them by the Rochlitz Studio. Mme. Nordica testified that she did not order any of the pictures because they were not satisfactory. Mr. Young said that Lady Paget had bought one of the pictures and that another had been sold to a newspaper. Mr. Rochlitz said that the photograph published in a newspaper must have been lost from a portfolio, and he denied that Lady Paget had one. Justic Murray adjourned the case until next Tuesday.

of his interview and the attendant facts which he allowed to become public, he gave out a statement to correct the conclusion drawn in some quarters that the conference committee had already decided against the Interborough, whereas the committee will not decide until it sees what the Interborough is prepared to do. Mr. McAneny said:

"What I have had to say about the subway situation is not to be considered as meaning that I have reached a conclusion as to where the contracts should go or that any other member of the Conference Committee has. I have, however, wished to emphasize the fact that the proposition of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, as it has been developed in conference, offers a promising alternative, and that the city is in a better position than it has been at any time in the past to compel satisfactory results.

"The committee still has to hear the Brooklyn company with relation to certain details of the proposition not as yet completed; chiefly those that have to do with the financial considerations. One or two more sessions, however, ought to be suffficient to cover these. At the same time we shall call back the officers of the Interborough to go over finalities with them. We shall then be prepared to make our report to the Board of Estimate, but what its conclusions or recommendations will be it will be impossible to state at the present time.

"The Interborough has as yet made no formal representations to the committee in regard to the use of Broadway as part of the B. R. T. plan. The members of both the committee and the Public Service Commission are, however, unanimous in their judgment that no agreement could or should be made on behalf of the city that would bind it to give or not to give Broadway to any particular company. As Mr. Willcox put it in one of our conferences, the proposition to make any condition for or against one party as a sine qua non of the acceptance of the offer of the other would be intolerable.

"It is proper to add that there has been no appearance of minority spirit in the conferences at any time. Excepting in a few matters of detail, none of which has involved the important principles of the discussion, the conferrees have been practically unanimous in their conclusions as to the modifications to be pressed upon the Interborough Company and as to the treatment of the situation generally."

No Clubs Used, Says Willcox.

Chairman Willcox, after he had read the McAneny interview, had this to say:

"No formal proposal has been received from the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company other than the proposition submitted March 2, which contemplates an extension into Manhattan only as far north as Fifty-ninth Street. It is true that in our conferences we have asked Col. T. S. Williams, President of the company, whether he would be willing to extend his offer so as to operate the routes laid out north of Fifty-ninth Street and extending into the Bronx. Col. Williams informed the conferrees that under certain conditions his company would include in its offer the operation of such lines.

"Both the question put to him by the conferrees and his answer thereto were parts of the negotiations which have been going on for some weeks. As parts of such negotiations, we have consistently refused to discuss them in public, just as we have refused to discuss such part of the negotiations as affected the offer of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. Whenever a formal proposal is made to the commission by any company, it is promptly made public, and manifestly it would hinder our negotiations both with the Interborough and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Companies if we should from day to day discuss the progress of those negotiations.

"That the conferrees should use the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's offer as a club to compel better terms from the Interborough Company is just as absurd as if the statement were made that they would use the offer of the Interborough as a club to compel better terms from the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. Both corporations are bidding for valuable concessions from the City Government, and the conferrees are earnestly and honestly striving to arrive at a decision which will be for the best interests of the city. If the fact that the two corporations are bidding against each other should result in obtaining from either a better proposition for the city than would have been possible without such competition, then it is for the interest of the city that such bidding be encouraged."

RECALL SUMTER RECAPTURE.

Veterans Entertained at Dinner by Gen. Anderson's Daughter.

In commemoration of the restoration of the flag on Fort Sumter in the civil war more than 130 members and guests of the Veteran Association of the Department of the South and the Atlantic Blockading Squadrons met at the twentieth annual dinner at the Hotel St. Denis last night. The hostess was Mrs. Eba Anderson Lawton, daughter of Major Gen. Robert Anderson, who held Fort Sumter at the beginning of the hostilities.

The souvenirs were photographic fac similes of letters from Secretary of War Stanton ordering Gen. Anderson to retake the fort, and another ordering the reraising of the flag on the garrison. The originals of these letters are in the possession of Mrs. Lawton.

Mrs. Lawton was presented with a gold replica of the badge of the organization by Col. William J. Harding on behalf of the association. Owing to a severe cold Mrs. Lawton could not respond, and George Haven Putnam answered for her.

President Capt. George W. Brush of Brooklyn presided. Among the guests and speakers were J. D. Bell, Mrs. Julia C. R. Lorr, W. S. Hubbell, Gen. H. C. King, and Gen. D. E. Sickles. Mrs. Julia C. R. Dorr read a poem which she wrote fifty years ago to Gen. Anderson. Mrs. Dorr is 86 years old. It was the first time she had read the lines in twenty years.

FAR ROCKAWAY GIVES CROPSEY A SHOCK

Five Lieutenants, Including Acting Captain, from There Before Him for Irregularity.

SLEEPER ON THE PAYROLL

One of the Accused Officers on the Force Forty-two Years—Further Investigation to be Made.

Five Lieutenants of the Far Rockaway Police Station and Policeman Fred F. McGann, formerly attached to that precinct, were on trial before Commissioner Cropsey in the Brooklyn Police Headquarters yesterday. The Commissioner found that conditions in that precinct warranted further investigation. He said the state of affairs there was the most humiliating he had known. After hearing the case against Policeman McGann, who was marked on the precinct records as doing active duty while he was away on a vacation trip in Michigan, Commissioner Cropsey ordered that charges of defrauding the city out of money be preferred against the five Lieutenants.

Lieut. William W. Sullivan, one of the accused, has been on the force forty years. He, with the other Lieutenants, was brought up on charges for certifying that McGann was present when he was really absent. The other accused Lieutenants are James M. Wheelright, John J. Higgins, John Kiernan, and Joseph O'Connor, who was Acting Captain of the precinct.

Four of the Lieutenants testified that they had acted under instructions from O'Connor in recording McGann present when he had not reported for duty.

Lieut. Sullivan was overcome with emotion during the proceedings. In view of his long service on the police force he felt keenly the embarrassment of facing charges of a nature ordered by the Commissioner at this time of his life.

"I ask your clemency and your mercy, Mr. Commissioner," he said. "I am sorry if I made a mistake. If you say so, when this trial is closed, I'll retire. I am an old man and I have stayed this long in the department to help out a son of mine who is studying for the priesthood."

"You should help yourself first," said the Commissioner. "You are an old man, but I am not persuaded that I have heard the whole truth. This is one of the most unfortunate and most unpleasant things I have ever had to deal with."

O'Connor testified that he had signed the reports on his return from his vacation without reading them.

"If that's your way," said the Commissioner, "I am glad I removed you as Acting Captain."

Lieut. Kiernan acted as Captain of the precinct while O'Connor and McGann were out of the city in December last.

McGann was dismissed from the force by the Commissioner at yesterday's proceedings. The specific charge against him was that he used illegally a pass on the Long Island Railroad, which was in the name of John J. Malone. He acted as clerk to Acting Captain O'Connor. The evidence on the trial yesterday showed that the accused policeman had reported for duty when he pleased and was allowed to exceed the limit of his vacation period.

Patrolman William A. Sherry of the Rockaway Beach Police Station, who some time ago caused a sensation in the trial room, by defying Commissioner Cropsey and asserting that the head of the department had made cowards of the police, was again on trial in Brooklyn yesterday. Sherry is now charged with unseemly conduct in writing a letter to Brooklyn newspapers criticising the Mayor and the Commissioner.

Sherry pleaded guilty to writing the letter but not guilty to violating any rule of the department. Lawyer Murphy, counsel for the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, who appeared for Sherry yesterday, withdrew this plea and Sherry then pleaded not guilty to all the charges—to conduct unbecoming an officer, to conduct prejudicial to discipline, and to violation of the rules.

Inspector Thomas Kelly of the Queens District testified that Sherry had admitted to him that he had written the letter. Lawyer Murphy then moved to dismiss a portion of the complaint concerning criticism of the Commissioner and the Mayor on the ground that there was no criticism of these officers.

Deputy Commissioner Walsh deferred decision as to the motion and adjourned the hearing until to-morrow.

SOME GAMBLERS MAY GET OFF

But Those Classed as "Crooked" Will Receive the Full Penalty.

District Attorney Whitman and Judge Rosalsky of General Sessions considered together yesterday the cases of the seventy-seven alleged gamblers who will be put on trial this morning. It was decided that the prisoners who pleaded guilty and were found to have used gambling paraphernalia described as "straight" would be discharged and placed under the probation of Deputy Commissioner Flynn, who was responsible for their arrest in the first case.

Prisoners found guilty of gambling, especially with "crooked" instruments, will receive the full penalty of the law. Deputy Commissioner Flynn showed yesterday that he was apprehensive that certain witnesses whom he has depended upon in gambling cases will leave the jurisdiction of the court. Upon his request Judge Rosalsky committed Joseph J. Robins, a private detective employed by the Commissioner to obtain evidence against alleged gambling resorts and their inmates, to the House of Detention. The Commissioner's secretary, John D. Hill, Jr., and Assistant District Attorneys Brothers and Buckner, who have charge of the gambling cases, heard that Robins had been in communication with the proprietors of gambling houses.

Robins was put through a severe examination by Assistant District Attorneys Brothers and Buckner and admitted, it is said, that he had been negotiating with several of the gamblers against whom he was a witness.

There are fifteen alleged gamblers now under indictment on the evidence supplied by Robins. Many of the raids made by Commissioner Flynn's detectives were on this evidence.

In his affidavit Secretary Hill says that Robins is the principal witness against James Connolly, who is under indictments as a result of the raid on a Broad Street house. Connolly gave his address as 1,296 Fulton Street, Brooklyn. According to Secretary Hill and Mr. Buckner, their suspicions were aroused by Robins's actions recently and a detective has been following him about. It is said that the detective overheard a conversation between Robins and the gamblers over a telephone and that it was taken down by a stenographer.

Mr. Buckner said that he also learned of a letter written by Robins to one Roger McNamara, who is said to be connected with the Broad Street house, in which the police witness said that for $100 each, in five cases in which McNamara was interested, he would leave town and fail to appear at the trial of the men.

HOUSE TALK DELAYS VOTE ON RECIPROCITY

Speakers Taking Their Time and No Agreement Reached for Closing the Debate.

TO BLOCK ALL AMENDMENTS

Democrats Ready to Invoke the Rules if Opposition Republicans Offer Any—Cannon to Speak To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—There is now little prospect that the House will reach a vote this week on the reciprocity agreement. The debate is proceeding in a most leisurely manner, and any member who has a speech to make can easily get it in, and if his time runs out he can get more.

Mr. Underwood, the majority leader, and Mr. McCall, who is in charge of the debate by Republican members friendly to the bill, and Mr. Dalzell, who leads those Republican members who are opposed to the measure, have as yet had no agreement about time for closing the debate. When the bill was taken up it was the general idea that a vote might be had as early in the week as to-morrow, but now there are few who think the debate can be exhausted by Saturday. The greater part of to-day was taken up by Republican members who are for the agreement.

The liveliest part of the debate is expected to come when the insurgents who have decided to support the bill explain their change of heart. Nearly all of them made speeches against the bill last session, and they will furnish a good target for the standpatters when they take their innings.

Democratic leaders are prepared for an attempt by some of the Republicans who oppose the bill to embarrass the majority by proposing as an amendment a section embodying all of the free list that the Democratic Ways and Means Committee has prepared as the first of the party's tariff measures.

Opposition Republicans have charged in the House that if the Democrats were in earnest in their desire to have this free list passed, they would offer it as a part of the Reciprocity bill, so that President Taft could not find occasion to veto it even though it did not meet with his approval.

Chairman Underwood of the Ways and Means Committee is apparently proceeding on the belief that an amendment to tack the free list to the reciprocity bill will be offered when the bill comes up for passage. He said to-day that such an amendment would be at once ruled out of order, as it could not be considered "germane to the bill" under the House rules permitting the offering of amendments. The only amendments that can be considered are those specifically affecting duties contained in the reciprocity agreement, and on all such amendments it is expected there will be an overwhelming negative vote, so that no change in the form of the Reciprocity bill can be effected.

Representative E. J. Hill of Connecticut, a Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee and an active advocate of the reciprocity agreement, opened the debate when the House convened to-day. Mr. Hill declared that the agreement in no way threatened the policy of protection. He produced recent reports of the Tariff Board to show that prices in Canada were practically the same as in the United States on all products on which the reciprocity agreement reduces or wipes out the tariff duty.

Mr. Hill declared that the attitude of some farming communities against the Reciprocity bill was based on wrong information. He read from a petition that had been widely circulated in farming communities, that the farmer must have as much tariff protection as the manufacturer. Mr. Hill presented figures to show that the average protection given the farmer was greater than that given the manufacturer.

Representative E. L. Hamilton of Michigan, who followed Mr. Hill, declared the burden of the whole reciprocity agreement would fall on the farming interests of the United States. The millers, brewers, and packers will absorb all the benefit of the reciprocity agreement, he declared.

Mr. Hamilton charged the Republicans with being hypocrites if they went back on the things they had preached to the farmer for many years.

"Whatever the American farmer plants from this time on he must plant on shares with Canada," said Mr. Hamilton. "The quickest way to get low prices and hard times is to turn the management of our tariffmaking over to the Democrats."

Representative Hamilton quoted Secretary Wilson to the effect that the farmer gets only 50 per cent. of what the consumer pays for farm products, and added:

"That was before the exigencies of Cabinet service made it necessary for him to modify some of the views he had before expressed."

Henry George, Jr., of New York, in his maiden speech in the House during the reciprocity debate to-day, proclaimed himself a free trader, and said he had aligned himself with the Democratic Party because he believed it was the only great party that was "moving toward the light." Mr. George indorsed the Canadian agreement as tending toward freer trade, and believed that eventually the United States would have absolute free trade with the world.

Representatives Howland of Ohio, Konop of Wisconsin, and Gillette of Massachusetts spoke in favor of the agreement. Mr. Gillette characterized the talk of annexation of Canada as "bugaboo and sensation," but said it may well happen that some time the United States and Canada will have grown so close together in trade relations and in sentiment that they will unite their destinies under one flag.

Former Speaker Cannon will address the House at the opening of the session to-morrow.

CHISHOLM ALLOWANCE SHORT

Mother Wants Children to Have $2,500 a Month Each.

By an order signed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Blackmar in Brooklyn there will be a hearing on April 27 before him on an application for increased allowances from the estate of Mrs. Mary Ann Chisholm, which is said to be worth $6,000,000. Mrs. Chisholm is 83 years old. She lives at 62 West Twelfth Street, Manhattan, and has a Summer home at College Point, L. I.

At her request, the application was made by her son, George E. Chisholm, who is a committee of her person and property. Mr. Chisholm, was so appointed at the request of his mother. The estate yields an income of more than $300,000 a year. The application was made that Mrs. Chisholm might make additional provision for her four children, each of whom is now receiving $1,000 a month.

Mrs. Chisholm wishes to increase the allowance of each to $2,500 a month. The children, besides the applicant, are Benjamin Ogden Chisholm, Mrs. Mary E. Schieffelin, and Mrs. Margaret C. Hamersley.

29 NURSES GET DIPLOMAS.

Largest Commencement in the History of the Margaret Fahnestock School.

The largest commencement in the history of the Margaret Fahnestock Training School for Nurses, attached to the Post-Graduate Hospital, was held at the school building last night, twenty-nine nurses receiving diplomas for the regular three years' course.

Announcement was made that a new addition to the nurses' home, also the gift of William Fahnestock in memory of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Fahnestock, is all but completed and will be occupied in June. The new addition, just east of the present building, at Twentieth Street and Second Avenue, practically doubles the accommodation for nurses in the present building, furnishing a total of 143 living and sleeping quarters.

In addition to this, there are in the additional building two large new classrooms, reception rooms, sitting rooms, isolation wards for nurses, and a roof garden. The building is eight stories high and of the same Colonial style as the present home.

DROP DISCUSSING HILL.

Berlin Press Ceases Comments on a Hint from Official Quarters.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 18.—Mr. Hill's resignation is now a "closed incident" in the German press. To-night's newspapers are utterly silent on the subject. This is due, THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns, to a hint from authoritative quarters.

The Government organ, The North German Gazette, is the only journal which returns to the question with a three-line telegram at the head of its column, dated Washington, and saying that the State Department denies that the potash dispute is responsible for Mr. Hill's retirement.

The New York correspondent of the Lokalanzeiger, in a message reporting John Hays Hammond as the most likely candidate for the Berlin Ambassadorship, describes him as an "imperialist, a millionaire, and a friend of England."

WALLER PRODUCES NEW PLAY

"Butterfly on the Wheel" Work of Barrister and Member of Parliament.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 18.—Written by Edward G. Hemmerde, a well-known barrister, and Francis Neilson, a member of Parliament, "A Butterfly on the Wheel," a modern four-act play, was produced to-night by Lewis Waller at the Globe Theatre.

It was well received by a friendly audience.

ELLIS HOFFMANN DIVORCED.

Decree Declared in Paris at Secret Hearing—Unnamed Woman in Suit.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 18.—With regard to the rumored matrimonial troubles of Ellis Hoffmann, it is learned that a divorce was pronounced here on April 5 against him, the woman's name being carefully kept out of the proceedings.

The trial was one of the shortest on record in the French courts. It was heard in camera, the Judge and lawyers representing both parties only being present.

The whole affair was kept secret throughout.

Among Mr. Hoffmann's intimate friends who have just heard of the divorce there is much speculation as to the identity of the co-respondent, who is said to be prominent in New York society.

MOROCCAN REBELS ROUTED.

Forty Killed and Eighty Captured by Sultan's Troops—Fez Surrounded.

FEZ, Morocco, April 18.—Capt. Bremond, commander of the Sultan's troops, made an attack on April 13 on the Cherada tribesmen, completely routing them, after killing forty and capturing eighty others. Couriers are having the greatest difficulty in getting through the lines with dispatches. One was captured by the rebels and shot.

All around Fez the tribesmen, under different rebel leaders, are stationed, and owing to the closing of the lines of investment about the city, provisions are scarce. Many residents of Fez are idle, misery and discontent are rampant, and it is feared that serious troubles within the walls will result. The situation is very disquieting to the authorities.

BELGIAN CITY HALL BURNS.

Brussels Suburb Loses Priceless Art Works—Two Firemen Die.

BRUSSELS, April 18.—The City Hall at Schaerbeek, a suburb of the capital, together with its priceless works of art, including notable paintings and gobelins, was destroyed by fire last night.

Two firemen were killed in a desperate effort to save some of the contents of the building. It is believed that the fire was of incendiary origin.

VERSAILLES, France, April 18.—Capt. Carron of the French Army Aviation Corps fell with his aeroplane from a height of 250 feet to-day and was crushed to death.

The aviator had left Orleans this morning for this city, and was midway between Villacoublay and Versailles when his machine plunged to earth, turning over as it fell. Carron was caught under the wreckage.

RALPH PETERS RE-ELECTED.

Figures to Show How Long Island Railroad Improved During His Term.

Ralph Peters was elected President of the Long Island Railroad for the sixth time at the annual meeting of the new Board of Directors, held in the company's offices in the Pennsylvania Railroad Station in Manhattan yesterday. Henry Tatnall was re-elected Vice President, Frank E. Haff Secretary, and J. F. Fahnstock Treasurer. President Peters spoke of the great increase made by the Long Island Railroad during the years he has been at its head. Summarized, the figures he gave are:

Total number of passengers carried in the year 1905, 18,199,000; total carried in 1910, 30,988,000. Total freight carried in 1905, 2,745,000 tons; total carried in 1910, 11,615,000. Gross earnings, 1905, $7,824,000; earnings, 1910, $11,615,000. Average number of monthly commuters, 1905, 6,387; average, 1910, 11,869.

It was shown that the electrification of 61.3 miles of road, or a total of 162.8 miles of track, had been completed at a total cost of $11,000,000. President Peters predicted that the forthcoming season would be the greatest in the history of the railroad and of Long Island.

C. K. LEXOW TO QUIT.

Resignation of the Port's Assistant Appraiser Sent to the President.

The resignation of Charles K. Lexow, Assistant Appraiser of Merchandise in this port, was sent without explanation to President Taft yesterday. His resignation follows closely upon that of George W. Wanmaker, the Appraiser, and was taken yesterday as another indication of the policy of the Secretary of the Treasury to eliminate all district leaders and politicians from his department. Mr. Lexow is a brother of the late Senator Clarence Lexow. He is the Republican leader of the Sixteenth Assembly District and a member of the Republican State Committee, representing the Twelfth Congress District of Manhattan. He would not discuss his resignation yesterday.

Lord Shrewsbury's Motor Boat Wins.

MONTE CARLO, April 18.—The consolation prize for motor boats which have been unsuccessful competitors in the regatta was won to-day by Paloma, piloted by the Earl of Shrewsbury. The distance was 25 kilometers, (15.5 miles.)

Lambs Ladies' "Gamboi."

Negotiations were completed yesterday by which the Lambs Club ladies' "gamboi" will be given at The New Theatre on the afternoon of May 12. Heretofore the Metropolitan Opera House has been the scene of the Lambs Club's public performances, but this year, in order to give the first ladies' day public gamboi a certain distinction, Edwin Milton Royle induced Paul D. Cravath to take the matter of using The New Theatre up with the Directors. Consent was given. Joseph Brooks and Joseph R. Grismer have charge of the programme, which will contain several of the most important sketches that have been given privately by the club during the past season.

NEW TROUBLE IN MONTEQUE FAMILY

Former Husband Turns Up to Share Prosperity That Times Readers Have Bestowed.

WAS IN PRISON, WIFE SAYS

He Writes That He Has Reformed Any Way, and Wants His Wife and Children Again—Legal Aid Sought.

There was none of the joyousness which had greeted previous contributions of TIMES readers to the needy Monteque family visible when a reporter carried to 275 Hudson Street yesterday $153 more sent to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Monteque as additional help in the distress that caused Mrs. Monteque a few days ago to offer for sale her two-months-old baby in order that the three other children might not starve and her husband might have an operation performed to save his threatened sight. Mrs. Monteque and her baby sat at one corner of their single living room and Monteque sat in the other, his head sunk on his hands. Mrs. Monteque shook her head at the sight of so much money.

"I don't know whether we have a right to take it," she said. "Maybe you'd better take it back."

Asked to explain her sudden change of attitude, she told the reporter:

"I didn't tell you the whole truth last time. Something has happened since you was here. I have another husband living; and now, since reading about us in the paper, he has come back and told us that we—Dick and I here—are not really married by law. We don't know what to do. We thought we were married properly, and both of us knew all the circumstances of the case. But now, thinking that perhaps Dick here may have been cheated after all, I've been after him to take half or even all of the money that has been collected from the good people, and to leave me to take care of the children alone. I can work again."

Monteque in his corner spoke up for the first time, without raising his head:

"I can't do that," he said, "and I won't. The little one is mine as well as her's, and I want it to have my name. And I cannot leave the wife either. She has suffered enough."

Mrs. Monteque then told her story. The neighbors, she said, were already telling it, grossly exaggerated. She was married fifteen years ago, she said, to a stationary engineer in Germantown, Penn., where her parents still live. By him she had seven children, two of whom died. Her husband, she said, soon ceased to provide for her, until at last her father had him arrested for non-support, and he was sent away for three months. After that he provided for them for a while, but soon lapsed into his old habits, until she herself, burdened with the care of her children and obliged to work for their support, again had him arrested.

"After that," said Mrs. Monteque, a 15-year-old girl who worked at their home made a charge against him, and a heavy sentence was passed upon him. This was in November, 1909.

"The Sheriff—his name was Mr. Johnson—told me," said Mrs. Monteque, "that, in view of the nature of my husband's crime, I was thereafter a free woman, and could get married without need of expensive divorce proceedings. I believed him. I tried to get along as best I could for some time, but presently was obliged to give away two of my children—Sarah, 3 years old, and Emma, 6 months old—to the New Jersey Children's Home Society at Trenton. I have a letter here from C. V. Williams, the Superintendent of the place. I don't know to whom he gave the children, but he told me they were well cared for—by millionaires, I believe."

She produced the letter from Mr. Williams, in which he assured her of the health and good cheer of both children, telling her how Sarah had "played with her reflection in the car window almost all the way to Trenton, and Emma was just as good as she could be."

In June of last year, she said, she was working in Monteque's fish store at Atlantic City. Business was getting worse and worse there, and finally they decided to marry—she believed she could legally do so—in the hope that their combined efforts to earn a livelihood would prove more successful than if they drudged along singly. They went together to a place near Atlantic City—Absecon, they thought it was—and there were married by a man named Moore, who, she understood, was a Justice of the Peace.

Monteque corroborated the woman's story of their past history. He, too, said he thought their marriage was perfectly legal. They remained together, even after his business had failed, the wife returning for a while to her old trade of making cigars. The youngest child, Evelyn Grace, is Monteque's. They got a marriage certificate, they said, last night, but this, together with most of their other papers, was lost one night when thieves rifled their little shop in Atlantic City.

"We had no thought that anything could be said against our marriage," said Mrs. Monteque, "until last week my first husband, who was released in February from prison, reading about us in the newspaper, came and ordered me to return with him. I would not go with him, and he made a great scene. Since then the neighbors have been talking about us, giving all of us bad names, and making life very hard. We are going to move away somewhere to get away from their annoyance, and, also, if we can escape him, to get away from my other husband. The children say they will not return to him. They know that I kept them when they would have starved, and that I worked for them all, doing housework and other jobs when their father left us.

Late yesterday afternoon Lillian, the eldest of the little ones, brought to her mother a letter which she said her father had given her. Monteque, upon whose face there was a pardonable pallor even when he spoke of the letter later, said last night that he had burned it at once. His wife repeated its contents to the reporter from memory as best she could:

Dear Wife and Children: I've been out all day and have got a position with the Consolidated Gas Company for some time this week. I have been to other hotels besides, inquiring, and if I get all the work that has been promised to me, I'd have more than enough. I am changed and better man, sober, industrious, and God-fearing, and hope by God's grace to keep so in the right path. I am sorry I made you suffer, but I will repent what I have done, by making you happy. You will never regret it.

I will be waiting in the Park for you at 8 o'clock to-night, and don't fail me if you don't want to break my heart. I'll wade if necessary up to the knees in gore and blood for you. I will have you in spite of yourself. I remain your loving

FATHER OF OUR CHILDREN.

Monteque wasn't exactly cheerful at the mention of the wading in gore and blood.

"I'm a peaceful man," he said. "But if he attacks me I'll have to defend myself."

The neighbors were all indignant against the Monteques last night. Mrs. Sheehan, the housekeeper, discussing the case with another old woman, told THE TIMES reporter that some of the neighbors had written to the newspapers protesting against the money that was coming to the Monteques. She said the Monteque children had told other children that Mrs. Monteque had once before sold two twins in Atlantic City.

"Sally and Emma were their names," said Mrs. Sheehan. She refused to soften her indignation even after the reporter assured her that the twins were 3 years and 8 months old respectively, and that they had been taken in charge by the New Jersey Children's Home Society, according to a letter he had seen.

Mrs. Sheehan was authority for the statement that some registered letters, to the Monteques had been withheld by the Post Office—by whose orders, she did not know. Monteque, too, said he had heard that two such letters addressed to him had been delivered at the house, but signed in his name by someone else. The General Post Office authorities said last night it would be impossible to learn until to-day if any order for withholding the Monteques' mail had been issued. At the nearest branch post office it was said that no order had been sent there.

THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday received the following additional contributions for the Monteques:

From "H. K. M."	$10.00
From D. G. Littlejohn	5.00
From "S. D. L."	5.00
Total	$20.00
Previously received	$253.50
Grand total	$273.50

Monteque is to go to-day to the Post-Graduate Hospital to have his eyes operated upon, there having been no room for him there before. The couple decided yesterday to lay aside a small part of the money that has come to them for the support of the mother and children until he gets well, and to put the balance into a savings bank, to which they went with the reporter. The bank was closed, however, at that hour. They will try it again this morning. They have also been sent to the Legal Aid Society to find out what can be done to straighten out their tangled legal relations.

It may be added that neither Mrs. Monteque nor Monteque met the woman's first husband at the park last night.

LOOT OF BOY BURGLARS.

Load of It from Pawnbrokers in Court for Identification.

Thirty-six witnesses appeared before Judge O'Sullivan in General Sessions yesterday to testify against four young criminals, none of them more than 18 years old, and who had pleaded guilty to committing more than 100 burglaries in two months. The courtroom was filled with loot recovered from eighteen pawnbrokers, and it took several hours for the witnesses against the young men to identify their property.

The four prisoners were Ray Barrett, 16 years old, of 50 West 129th Street; Robert Haywood, 18, of 210 West 109th Street; Joseph Brady, 18, of 100 West 137th Street; and Ferris Harden, 17, of 42 West 152d Street. According to the story told in court the boys all come from well-to-do families.

Three of them engaged a flat at 210 West 109th Street and fitted it up with expensive furniture and pictures, and engaged Harden as a butler. The boys posed as college students, and in this manner gained access to a large number of homes, where they learned when the persons they intended to rob would be out. The plunder was taken to their apartment. They turned the stolen property over to Harden, the butler, and pawned it.

The young burglars were never suspected, and according to the complainant witnesses the youthful criminals were always the first to come around and sympathize after the robbery.

Robert Haywood knew a young actress named Ida Harris, who lived at 220 West 111th Street. He approached her in the same manner as he had his other victims, and learning that she was going to appear in a show on March 6, the opening night, he entered her apartments and stole everything in sight, including many pictures of the young woman.

Haywood hung all the pictures in his room, and then turned all the rest of the loot over to his companions, and refused to accept any of the money they realized from the pawnbrokers on the stolen goods.

A few days later a friend of Haywood's visited him in his room and knowing Miss Harris he noticed the pictures and spoke to her about them. She notified the police. That was the disclosure which brought all the other crimes home to these burglars.

In the Tombs Haywood has written several letters to Miss Harris asking her to forgive him and saying that he was madly in love with her, and would reform if she would only pardon him. Miss Harris appeared in court yesterday to identify the property stolen from her.

The boys will be sentenced to-day.

Brady had served a term in a reformatory, and says that he learned about stealing there. The other young prisoners worked under his direction.

ESCAPED FROM ROBBERS.

Peddler Lashed His Horse and Got Away with His Money.

The folk of Fresh Kills and Bulls Head, S. I., many of whom were abed, was startled at 10 o'clock last night by the sound of a horse's hoofs pounding along the Old Town Road. Men and women rushed to doors or windows to see a peddler's wagon careening from side to side as its driver lashed the single horse that drew it.

In the wagon was Joseph O'Connor, a garden truck peddler of Bulls Head. He crouched low under the seat and never raised his head until the horse turned in at the accustomed gateway of the O'Connor home. Then the peddler unhitched and hurried to find a policeman. To the first he met he said he had barely escaped being held up. He was within two and a half miles of his home and driving slowly along the Old Town Road, when two men stepped from the shadow of some trees near the Fresh Kill Bridge and waited in the middle of the road for his approach.

As he drew near them O'Connor saw the men raise revolvers and point them at him shouting to him to throw up his hands. In his pockets the peddler had his day's receipts and thought of these as the robbers shouted. Then he pretended to raise his hands.

Once they were up, however, he brought down the hand in which he held a whip with all his might. The whip lash cut across the horse's back and with a frightened snort the animal dashed forward. The robbers dodged to left and right just in time to escape the animal's hoofs and O'Connor, continuing to ply his whip, kept the horse at its best pace until he reached home.

Several mounted policemen rode through the neighborhood of the attempted hold-up, but found no one.

"The Boss" Acted in The Playhouse.

Holbrook Blinn and his company in "The Boss" appeared at The Playhouse yesterday afternoon for a special performance for the benefit of the Regina Angelorum Home. The theatre was filled, and at the end of the third act the Rev. Father Talbot J. Smith of the Actors' Church Alliance made a short address in which he spoke on the different kinds of political "bosses," and also about a possible closer alliance between the Church and the stage.

CELLAR BAKERIES FOUND UNSANITARY

Men Asleep on Mixing Boards, Dogs and Cats Roaming at Will, Fosdick Reports.

URGES CITY TO TAKE CHARGE

Since State Labor Law Has Proved Ineffective, He Would Give Health Board Adequate Power.

Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick submitted to the Mayor yesterday a report showing unsanitary conditions in hundreds of bakeries and recommending that the city at once assume jurisdiction under the charter and cease deferring to the State labor law with its inadequate penalties and still more inadequate enforcement by a small inspecting force.

Mr. Fosdick's investigators worked in conjunction with representatives of the Consumers' League. The Health Department has exercised no jurisdiction over bakeries, and the State labor law, Mr. Fosdick found, is sadly defective in that it fails to prohibit the use of cellar bakeries and prescribes very indefinite penalties for such offenses as it takes cognizance of. Almost the only bakeries found to exist, outside of cellar bakeries, were less than 100 factory bakeries, making only 2½ per cent. of the entire number of bakeries in the city.

The Inspectors visited 145 different plants. Whenever the investigators found a bakery on a level with the street they found the conditions surrounding the production of bread invariably superior to those discovered in the cellars.

"These cellars," says the report, "have for the most part been converted from storerooms for coal, ashes, and rubbish without surrendering the original purpose for which the cellars were planned. In order to secure sufficient light in these places gas must be burned continuously. In many cases the only windows in the rooms were nailed and covered with boards or tin.

"More than half the bakeries visited had broken, dirty floors, side walls, and ceilings. In more than 30 per cent. of the cellar bakeries flour, lard, fillers, and other materials were stored apparently without regard for cleanliness. Foodstuffs were found under leaking skylights and in sidewalk vaults under leaking coalholes. Open barrels and tubs containing unbaked material were discovered in close proximity to coal, ashes, rubbish, and old rags.

"More than 50 per cent. of the places visited had no provision for the clothing of the employes. The clothing removed upon entering the bake room was found hanging or lying about the room—shoes in mixing vats, coats and trousers on mixing boards, and in some cases on the rising dough itself.

"Utensils, such as mixing vats, bread boards, and bake tins, were in many cases found to be in most unclean condition. One baker admitted that he never cleaned his tins. In two places bakers were found asleep upon the mixing boards. Animals were found in more than one-third of the cellar bakeries visited. Cats, which were more common and to some degree a necessity, were frequently observed walking over the mixing boards and through the vats. They were seen sleeping in barrels of flour and even upon unbaked dough.

"In two places chickens were running about, and in still another some rabbits were enjoying the freedom of the mixing room.

"Although Section 113 of the labor law prohibits sleeping, or sleeping accommodations in bake rooms, many places showed that the rooms were used as living quarters for the family. In one place the baker was asleep on the mixing vat when the Inspectors called. In another the proprietor was sleeping on a bed in the mixing room. In still another the owner's wife was cooking dinner and two small children were playing about the floor. Beds, mattresses, cook stoves, bureaus, bundles of rags, shoes, bedding, chairs, tables, baby carriages and tableware all gave evidence of the violation of this section of the law.

"The personal appearance of bakery employes varies with the surrounding conditions. In factory bakeries and bakeries with good ventilation and light, the employes were found to be generally clean in their dress. A complete change of clothing, with shower baths, is the rule in two or three places inspected, and in others the bakers wore light clean clothes. In most of the dark cellar places, however, the ordinary street clothing is worn. Some of the garments appear never to have been washed."

To give the Board of Health adequate power to take hold of the bakery problem Mr. Fosdick offers these suggested amendments to the sanitary code:

1. All bakeries to be licensed by the Board of Health.
2. No rooms less than 9 feet between the floor and ceiling, and no rooms the floors of which are of a depth greater than 4 feet 6 inches below the street or sidewalk level, adjacent to the building, to be licensed as bakeries. [This provision may require an amendment to the labor law above cited.]
3. A sanitary standard, specifically set forth in the code, to be observed in all bakeries.
4. Bakeries to be carefully and regularly inspected by the Inspectors of the Department of Health, both before and after the license is obtained, for the purpose of securing conformity to the requirements of the sanitary code.
5. The Board of Health to have power to close and seal any bakery not conforming to its orders after forty-eight hours.

Copies of the report were ordered sent by the Mayor to the Board of Health and to the State Department of Labor.

WHAT DICTION TELLS.

Bryn Mawr Educator Gives Wells College Alumnae Some Points About It.

"Young women, why do you consider so deeply the shades which trim your new Easter bonnet? Young man, why take so much thought to the shading of your neckwear? Bonnets may come and go, scarfs may go and come, but the lights and shadows in your conversation, the shading of your diction will go on forever and mark you as a cultivated or uncultivated man or woman."

That was what Samuel Arthur King told the Eastern branch of the Wells College Alumnae Association at Sherry's yesterday afternoon.

"Correct Diction" was what the proper shading of conversation was called in its entirety, and it means that every spoken vowel and consonant must have its proper sound unless one wishes to mark one's self unlearned. Mr. King is from Bryn Mawr, and, while one may get all shades of bonnet ribbons at any milliners and rainbow lots of neck scarfs at almost any shop, it seems that Bryn Mawr is about the only college shop for correct diction.

It was announced that the $50 prize for the best composition which the association gives had been awarded to Mildred K. Etten. A Chinese woman, daughter of Li Hung Chang, won honorable mention for her essay on "The Central Ideas of the Religion of Charles Kingsley." The young woman's name is Yu Jung Chang, and four years ago she was not able to compose a correct sentence in English. She is now a senior at Wells College.

Telegrams were received from many who were not able to be present, among them one from Mrs. Grover Cleveland, who was a Wells student.

The Rights of the Defendant.

Judge Rosalsky, in General Sessions yesterday, in denying the appeal of a defendant found guilty of disorderly conduct by a City Magistrate, ruled that it is not necessary that a Magistrate should inform a defendant that it was his privilege to employ counsel and demand an adjournment until counsel could be obtained. In denying the appeal, however, Judge Rosalsky said that if would tell the defendants their rights.

Saks'—the travel providers

¶ As May 1st approaches, Uncle Sam unrolls the map of Europe and plans his invasion of the Old World.

¶ He will see the Coronation, of course; drop in on Berlin to make a social call, climb the Alps for excitement, spend a month in Paris and size up Westminster Abbey some bright Monday morning!

¶ And quite unconsciously, he will spread the gospel of the West. Yea, even by the intermittent honk of his car as he trails the dust of sleepy kingdoms and pettifogging principalities.

¶ Unto all of which we, as travel providers extraordinary, subscribe a part. For Saks' travel requisites penetrate to every corner of Europe—and to every corner of the world for that matter.

¶ And our preparations for the present season are just as great as the annual increase in European travel demands.

¶ In the variety of our travel requisites, we have traversed the far-flung lines of travel to ascertain your every need.

¶ In our assortments we have accomplished what has not elsewhere ever been attempted—the assembling of practically every model and every size in every trunk, grip, bag or what-not-else we carry.

¶ In the values we offer, we have demonstrated that economy is the hand-maiden of magnitude.

¶ In brief, the Saks' Travel Department has established itself as the first department to tackle the travel problem on broad-gauged lines.

You won't have to wait while we get it from the factory——we have it right on the floor.

CLERGY GATHER FOR CATHEDRAL SERVICES

Here to Witness the Consecration of St. John the Divine, Which Will Take Place To-day.

MANY CAN'T BE ADMITTED

Little Room for Laymen, Most of the Seats Being Reserved for Distinguished Clergymen.

The consecration of what has been completed of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine will take place this morning at 10.30 o'clock. The ceremony will be performed by Bishop Greer in the presence of a notable gathering of Bishops, clergy, and churchmen, and will mark the completion of the first stage in the work of building on Morningside Heights a structure worthy of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The choir, crossing, and two of the chapels of the cathedral will be consecrated. Small as the present building is as compared with what it will be when the naves and transepts are built, it will add to the church accommodation of the diocese a seating capacity of between 1,600 and 1,700, and will give an opportunity for the establishment of cathedral services that will bear comparison with those of Trinity and Grace Church.

The doors of the cathedral will be open to the congregation at 10:15. Many of the seats have been reserved for the clergy and for the families of those who have given largely toward the cathedral, among whom may be mentioned August Belmont, who built St. Saviour's Chapel; Mrs. Edward King, who gave the money for St. Columba's Chapel in memory of her daughter, and Levi P. Morton, who gave the organ and the altar. Ticket-holders will be admitted at 9:30.

Meanwhile in the old orphanage that now serves as a Synod Hall, and is almost touching the cathedral on the south, will be assembling those who will take part in the procession. Twenty-five Bishops are expected to be of their number, among them, besides Bishop Greer and Bishop Burch, the newly consecrated suffragan of the diocese; the Bishops of Massachusetts, Long Island, New Jersey, Newark, Western New York, Chicago, Indianapolis, Kansas, Fond du Lac, and Southern Ohio, and, as representing the Church of England in Canada, the Bishops of Nova Scotia and Toronto. Representatives of other Christian denominations have been invited, and it is expected that about 400 clergy of the diocese will also be present.

At 10:30 the organ will transmit the signal to all the rooms where the members of the procession are assembling, and, headed by the verger of the cathedral and a cross, the choir, in cassocks and surplices, will begin to move across the cathedral close to the west door. Behind them will come the representatives of other communions, wearing their academic hoods and gowns, and then will march the clergy from other dioceses in their surplices, stoles, and hoods.

The junior and senior clergy of the Diocese of New York will be next in order, and they will be followed by the Faculty of the General Theological Seminary. The Great Chapter of the cathedral, composed of twenty-five clergy and twenty-five laymen, will then defile, and immediately in the rear of them will come the Trustees of the cathedral. The Chapter, consisting of the Rev. Dr. Douglas, Canon Residentiary; the Canon Precentor, the Rev. Dr. Ernest Voohis; the Canon Bursar, the Rev. Dr. Robert Ellis Jones, and the Canon Registrar, the Rev. George Frederick Clover, Superintendent of St. Luke's Hospital, will be next in line, and the Archdeacons of Westchester and Orange, and Archdeacon Nelson of New York, the Executive Officer of the cathedral, will close the line of priests.

A splendid cross, lent by Trinity Church for the occasion, will precede the Bishops, who will march, in some cases accompanied by their chaplains, in the reverse order of their seniority, and then will come Bishop Burch. Bishop Greer, as the senior ecclesiastic in point of dignity, on this occasion, as in all ecclesiastical processions, will bring up the rear.

As the procession reaches the choir, the choristers and all those who precede the senior clergy of the diocese, will halt and open a way through their ranks for the higher dignitaries. The Bishops and most of the clergy will be accommodated with seats either in the sanctuary or the choir, and the rest of the ecclesiastics will occupy the front seats in the crossing. As the cathedral is entered the choir will chant Psalm XXIV., "The Earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof."

The consecration ceremonial itself will be simple. First the instruments of donation dealing with the cathedral itself and the Chapels of St. Columba and the Saviour will be read, to show that they have been handed over to the diocese, are free of debt, and are ready for consecration. Then Bishop Greer from the sanctuary will read the prayers of consecration as provided by the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer. There will be no attempt to visit the side chapels separately, and the entire edifice with all that is permanent in it will be consecrated at once.

The regular form of morning prayer with appropriate hymns, three special psalms, and two special lessons will be read, and a full choral celebration of the Holy Communion will follow. The sermon will be preached by Bishop Greer. The offertory is to be devoted to the chapel to be erected to the memory of the late Dr. Huntington, rector of Grace Church, who was for many years Chairman of the Committee on Fabric of the new cathedral. The chapel will be somewhat larger than those now completed, and will cost $150,000, of which $100,000 has already been subscribed. It is to be built on the north side of the ambulatory.

In memory of the late Bishop Potter on the south side of the ambulatory another chapel is to be erected. The funds for this have already been provided by the late Bishop's family.

Among those who are expected to be present in the cathedral this morning are Mrs. Taft, wife of the President, and Fire Commissioner Waldo. Invitations were sent to other city officials, but most of them found it impossible to attend. Archdeacon Nelson, who has been in charge of the arrangements, however, has been overwhelmed with requests for cards of admission, and has been compelled to refuse many applicants.

CITY BUY THE GARDEN?

Aldermen Ask the Estimate Board to Take Up the Purchase Question.

The Aldermen lent some impetus yesterday to the agitation for the purchase of Madison Square Garden by the city by passing a resolution requesting the Board of Estimate to take the matter up. The resolution was presented by Alderman Wendel and approved without discussion.

It was impossible to learn just what disposition of the matter will be made by the board. All the members who could be reached refused to commit themselves on the question. The Mayor declined to discuss it for publication, but indicated that the financial consideration might deter the board from carrying out the plan in anything like the near future. Borough President McAneny expressed similar views. He said that he had been considering the plan for some time.

Mr. McAneny said that a committee has been got together through the efforts of Mrs. J. Borden Harriman to co-operate with the city in the matter. The plan of the committee is to raise a fund either to assist the city in acquiring the Garden or obtain an option on the property until the city is able to buy it.

Several other members of the board were also seen, but declined to commit themselves. They all seemed to think that the financial consideration would be the only objection that would be raised to the purchase of the property.

It has been suggested that an enabling act might be necessary to empower the city to take over the Garden and rent it out for show purposes.

PEACE AUDIENCE IN STREET.

Gompers and Cockran Not on Hand, so Police Disperse Cooper Union Crowd.

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, was to have been a speaker on international peace last night at a mass meeting in Cooper Union under the joint auspices of the New York Peace Society and the People's Institute. W. Bourke Cockran was also to have spoken. Neither appeared, and the meeting was called off. But a crowd of 700 or more clamored for admission, and the reserves from the Mercer Street Station were called out before the crowd dispersed.

Just why Mr. Gompers did not keep his appointment was not clearly explained. It was said that members of the Executive Committee of the Central Federated Union asked him not to speak because they were unfriendly to Andrew Carnegie.

Mr. Gompers sent to W. H. Short, Secretary of the society, a letter saying:

"Circumstances have arisen which make it practically impossible for me to be at the mass meeting. I regret this very much, for I would like to have been present in person and to address the assembly upon the subject of international peace, its necessity and humanity."

But none of those who gathered in front of Cooper Union last night knew anything about Mr. Gompers's letter. They saw a placard on the door reading "Meeting canceled," and seemed to think it a joke. They made no move to leave until the police got there and shooed them away.

Secretary Short sent to THE TIMES last night a letter saying that Mr. Cockran was unable to get to the meeting because of an attack of grip.

Barbers Against Sunday Work.

The Tonsorial Benevolent Association was incorporated yesterday. Among its objects is the advancement of "the common interests of barbers in the State and the promotion of moral, ethical, and religious ideals among the members of the association." The association also hopes to create a "public opinion favorable to legislation making the opening of barbers' shops on Sunday unlawful."

Street Railways Killed 20 in February.

The number of killed on the railroads and street railroads in New York City in February was twenty, as compared with twenty-three in February, 1910, and twenty-seven in February, 1900, according to the monthly summary of accident reports made to the Public Service Commission yesterday. The total number of persons injured during the month was 2,522, of whom 139 were seriously hurt. The total number of accidents was 4,533, against 3,945 in February, 1910, and 3,580 in February, 1909.

Getting a Jury to Try Broker Field.

At the continuation of the trial of Leonard J. Field, senior member of the brokerage firm of L. J. Field & Co. of 74 Broadway, before Supreme Court Justice Davis yesterday, for perjury in connection with the Windsor Trust scandal of 1909, two more jurors were selected. The prosecution now has twelve challenges and Lemuel E. Quigg, counsel for Field, fifteen challenges left. The whole day was spent in examining talesmen, and the special panel of seventy-five was exhausted. Another panel of fifty talesmen has been summoned for this afternoon.

STATE PAROLE BOARD SETS FURLONG FREE

Ex-Magistrate Is to Go Into the Real Estate Business in Brooklyn.

HAS SERVED A YEAR IN PRISON

Says He Purposes Leading an Honest Life and Has Several Places Open to Him.

OSSINING, N. Y., April 18.—Ex-Magistrate Henry J. Furlong, who has been in Sing Sing Prison since April 12, 1910, was paroled to-day, although he may not leave the prison for a day or so. The former Magistrate was under an indeterminate sentence of not less than one year nor more than two years and one month, and therefore will receive the full benefit of this form of sentence.

He was one of sixty applicants for parole who appeared before the Parole Board in Warden Frost's office to-day. He went before the board as an ordinary convict and was submitted to an examination similar to that given to each applicant for parole. In the course of it he declared that it was his intention to take up real estate and insurance work in Brooklyn.

The State Parole Board is composed of Commodore Wadhams of Wadhams Mills, Judge George A. Lewis of Buffalo, and State Superintendent of Prisons Cornelius B. Collins. It was Mr. Collins who put most of the questions to the former Magistrate. In reply to them Mr. Furlong said his home was at 60 Sunnyside Avenue, Brooklyn, where he has three daughters and a son living. His wife is dead.

"I have means to care for my children," said Mr. Furlong. "I was a City Magistrate in Brooklyn for nine years, and a lawyer for fifteen years before that. Up to the time of my conviction I never was charged with any crime nor was I ever arrested."

"If we grant you your parole, what do you intend to do?" asked Supt. Collins.

"I propose to lead an honest life," responded the former Magistrate. "Several positions have been offered to me, and I have sufficient capital to pay my share in a real estate venture."

He said he wanted to go to his farm in Suffern for a few days to recuperate. He was reminded that, under his parole, he cannot leave the city, except for a day or so at a time, and then only with the knowledge of his sponsor. Martin T. Manton of 375 Fulton Street will stand in this position for Mr. Furlong. He was counsel for him when the Magistrate was on trial, and has promised to vouch for his good conduct until the expiration of his parole.

Mr. Furlong looked well, although in reply to a question he said he had suffered from rheumatism while in prison.

FORM NEW POLITICAL LEAGUE

It Plans to Work for Popular Government and Reforms.

The National Progressive League of the State of New York was incorporated yesterday with the approval of the Supreme Court. The league has chosen a rising sun with the motto "Excelsior" beneath as its emblem.

Its objects are "to maintain principles of popular government, progressive legislation, and other public reforms," and to promote the ideas of popular election of United States Senators, direct primaries for elective offices, direct election of delegates to National political conventions, a thorough-going corrupt practices act, and to agitate for the amendment of the New York Constitution to provide for the initiative, the referendum, and the recall."

Its headquarters will be at 802 Broadway, Manhattan.

More Agricultural Company Capital.

The stockholders of the International Agricultural Corporation at a special meeting yesterday ratified the proposed increase in the capital stock from $24,000,000 to $36,000,000. Of the new stock $6,000,000 is to be 7 per cent. cumulative preferred and $6,000,000 common stock. At the same meeting the by-laws were amended to provide for eleven Directors instead of nine.

SEES DANGER IN HEADLINES.

Former Senator Young Tells of Their Power in War and Politics.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 18.—Former Senator Lafayette Young of Iowa to-night told the students of the University of Missouri of the responsibilities of newspapers as molders of public opinion. He said in part:

"Every year adds to the power of the press. Every year adds to the editor's responsibility. The people are in a hurry. They read the headlines. As a consequence, the editor's responsibility is transferred to the headline writer.

"There may be newspaper men who would like to see war. There may be speculators along the border who would like to see war. But if there is a war and an invasion of Mexico, it ought to be upon more substantial grounds than for the purpose of furnishing excitement for the newspapers."

Turning from war to politics, he said: "Though party lines are not clearly defined, there has never been as much misrepresentation in politics in the history of American life as in the past eight years. Every politician of any note at the National capital is compelled to have a news bureau of his own. The most successful statesman has one of the best bureaus."

ANOTHER YALE BEQUEST.

H. F. Dimock Leaves About $100,000 to the University—$40,000 for Library.

The will of Henry F. Dimock of 25 East Sixtieth Street, who died April 10, was filed for probate yesterday. It leaves $40,000 to he South Coventry (Conn.) Library, on condition that it change its name within two years to the "Booth and Dimock Library," in memory of Mr. Dimock's grandfather, the Rev. Chauncey Booth, and his father, Dr. Timothy Dimock. Should the library fail to comply with this condition, the will instructs Lewis Cass Ledyard, named as executor, to start a rival library in South Coventry under the desired name.

Yale University, the will provides, is to receive half of the residuary estate, estimated at $200,000, on the death of Susan Whitney Dimock, the widow, and the other half of the residuary estate in case Susan Dimock Hutchinson, a daughter, dies without issue. According to the petition for probate, Mrs. Hutchinson has no children at present.

NEW HAVEN, April 18.—President Hadley of Yale University to-night refused to comment on the bequest left to the university by the will of the late Henry F. Dimock of New York, for many years a member of the Yale Corporation. No formal notification of the bequest, he said, had been received.

Dr. W. L. Higgins, President of the Trustees of the South Coventry Library Association, to which the will leaves $40,000 on condition that the name of the library be changed to the "Booth and Dimock Memorial Library," said to-night that there was no question but that the Trustees would fulfill the requirements.

TRAFFIC PLANS AT 34TH ST.

Broadway and Sixth Avenue Surface Lines May Be Put Below Street Level.

It is probable that action will be taken by the city shortly for the relief of traffic congestion at Sixth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street. This matter was brought to the attention of the Board of Estimate a short time ago by John D. Crimmins. Borough President McAneny has had his engineers working on the question, and about all that now remains to be done is to settle the details.

It has been suggested that the Broadway or Sixth Avenue trolley tracks be put below the street level; that the elevated pillars be rearranged and some of them removed, and that the new Greeley Square Hotel be set back from the present building line from fifteen to twenty feet.

President McAneny is still ill at his home, but a statement was issued at his office yesterday covering these points.

ALUMNI GIFTS TO COLUMBIA.

Morningside Residents May Set Their Watches by a Sun Dial.

Two graduation anniversary gifts from as many alumni classes are being erected on Columbia University campus. In accordance with tradition the class of 1886 college will present to Alma Mater at commencement next June, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of its graduation, a granite exedra. It will stand on the green sward east of the Low Library at a point opposit St. Paul's Chapel. The base of the exedra, which is semi-circular in form, measures twelve feet in diameter.

On South Field the sun dial presented by the class of '85 last June is also being set in place. It will serve the residents of Morningside Heights as an accurate standard by which to set their timepieces.

MOUNTED POLICE ON SHOW.

Will Give an Exhibition in Central Park Saturday Morning.

Park Commissioner Stover announced yesterday afternoon that he had allotted the roadway in Central Park just opposite Magowan's Pass Tavern, connecting the East and West Drives, for the exhibition of the mounted police on Saturday morning next at 9 o'clock. It was originally intended to have the exhibition on the baseball field in the Park, but the Commissioner announced that he would not permit the exhibition there.

Traffic Squads A, B, and C of Manhattan will receive silk flags from the National Horse Show Association. Traffic Squad D of Brooklyn will receive a flag from the Riders and Drivers' Club of Brooklyn, and the Central Park mounted squad will receive a silk flag from the Early Risers' Club.

These organizations will be present at the exhibition on Saturday, when the policemen will show how they are drilled in the cavalry tactics, and also in stopping runaways. There will also be fancy and rough riding.

Smith Gray & Co.

Foremost Clothiers Since 1845

Over in Williamsburg at Broadway & Bedford Avenue, are the Smith Gray & Co. custom shops, where for nearly three quarters of a century there has been maintained a world's standard of tailoring craftsmanship. That this exists is unquestionably attributable to the fact that from the moment of their receipt from the weavers until the finished garments are produced, the fabrics never leave the building.

Here the most rigid fabric tests are conducted—tests for cotton—tests for strength—color and service tests—the designing, cutting, trimming and finishing—all beneath the one roof.

It is only under such conditions that the highest grade of ready-for-service clothes can be produced, or that the greatest values are possible, and Smith Gray & Co. ready-for-service clothes are the only fine clothes tailored in New York under these conditions.

Smith Gray & Co. Spring Suits and Overcoats range in price from 18.00 to 50.00 with special values at 15.50 and 18.50.

JOHN R. MONTGOMERY A SUICIDE AT 87

Retired Tea Merchant Shoots Himself in Summer House on Son's Estate at Throgs Neck.

HAD LONG FEARED INSANITY

Took Revolver with Him from His New York Home—Nurse Saw Him Shoot—Leaves Two Sons.

John R. Montgomery, a retired tea merchant who had been spending the last ten days with his son Richard at Throgs Neck, walked across the lawn after breakfast yesterday morning to the little Summer house that looks out upon the waters of Pelham Bay. He stepped inside, placed a revolver in his mouth, and fired. He was dead before members of the household could reach him. Mr. Montgomery was 87 years old.

The son believes that his father killed himself in a sudden wave of morbid depression such as have afflicted him frequently of late years. He had often complained of a buzzing in his head, and every now and then he was haunted by a fear that he was losing his mind. He felt that there was little use of his living on.

"I do not see why I cannot go, why I cannot be taken," he would say.

Of late he had made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Arthur D. Pickering, at 136 East Eighty-ninth Street, but in the Spring it had been his custom to visit his son at his home on the Sound, and again in the Summer at his home in Richfield Springs. He breakfasted with his son yesterday and again complained of the buzzing in his head.

When Mr. Montgomery left New York he was attended by his nurse, Emma Berry. As he went out for his walk yesterday morning Miss Berry was standing on the little balcony, to which you can step from the second floor of the house. She could see Mr. Montgomery as he started out on his walk. She recalled afterward that from the course he had taken it seemed as though he had left the house for no other purpose than to kill himself, and seemed to be seeking some place where he could be alone. First he went to the garage, but the chauffeur was working there. Then he walked to the stable, but some carpenter work was being done there, and he turned again. He went to the laundry and looked in. The laundress was busy with her ironing.

Then Miss Berry saw him walk slowly along the crest of the slope to the little Summer house. Through its latticework she could see him standing there. She saw the gesture he made, but before she could move the report of the pistol came and she saw the body fall. Crying aloud, she ran back through the house and down the stairway, Mr. Montgomery hearing and also following. The old man was dead when they reached the Summer house. The revolver was one the elder Montgomery had kept in his home for years.

John R. Montgomery was the son of James M. Montgomery, who came to America from Belfast, Ireland, in 1790. He was born in New York in 1824 and studied at New York University. In 1848 he and his brother started their tea business under the name of James & John R. Montgomery & Co. Their first house was on Front Street and the second on Water Street, at No. 127, where the business is still carried on under the same name by a nephew and some associates. His son, John M. Montgomery, is also in the tea business. He married Cornelia Peabody and lives at 142 East Eighteenth Street. James M. Montgomery, is also in the tea Sons of the Revolution, which office took him to Washington yesterday, where his brother managed to reach him with word of his father's death. Richard Montgomery married Maud B. Macfarland. He is in the real estate business with offices at 27 Pine Street, and is a man of great wealth.

FOR AN UNKNOWN NAMESAKE.

Poor Spinster Hoarded for Years for the Future Care of an Orphan Girl.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 18.—Miss Sarah Robinson, 61 years old, has lived for 13 years on $2 a week, while she has saved the rest of her meagre earnings as a seamstress for the future care and education of some orphan girl whom she desires to take her name after her death.

Miss Robinson is an Englishwoman, and her manners indicate that she is of gentle birth. Her remarkable self-sacrifice was brought to light to-day through a loss which endangered the hoarded sum.

An old mahogany box containing her certificate of deposit for the amount of the savings, $931.50, and the will in which she bequeathed the whole amount to the Christian Missionary Society for the benefit of the future little Sarah, disappeared a few days ago from its accustomed place in her small, bare room in the rear of 1,415 North Thirteenth Street.

Hurrying to the Boatmen's Bank, when she discovered her loss, Miss Robinson was rejoiced to learn that the money was intact. But to regain possession of it she was required to advertise the loss of the deposit certificate, and she will also have to give bond for twice the amount of the deposit. Miss Robinson said to-day:

"Whenever I put a dollar away I would say to myself: 'There is a pair of shoes for little Sarah,' or 'There's a book for her.' That made it easy, and I was surprised to find how much I could save. In 1898 I had almost $1,000 saved, but I had it in a building and loan company, which collapsed and most of it was lost."

Mrs. Dale Gets a $300 Verdict.

Mrs. Lillian Patterson Dale won a verdict of $300 against her husband, Francis Colgate Dale, yesterday from a Supreme Court jury. Mrs. Dale sued to recover $680, the value of alleged wedding presents of jewelry, which she said her husband had taken from a safety deposit box. Dale contended that the jewelry in question belonged to him as a legacy from his mother, and had been placed on display among genuine weddings presents to swell their number. Mrs. Dale is suing Dale for a separation.

FORCED TO RELEASE BURGLAR

Breaking Into Post Office Not a Felony, and He Gets Out of Sing Sing.

Specifying that a decision of the United States Circuit Court compelled him to do so, Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum ordered yesterday the release from Sing Sing Prison of John Stanford, a notorious burglar.

Stanford was sent to Sing Sing in 1903 to serve three and a half years for burglary in Oneida County. This was cut for good behavior and on his release a year and four months before his time was up, he broke into a Post Office, and was sent back by a Federal Judge on Oct. 22, 1906. His term under this sentence has just expired. Warden Frost refused to turn Stanford out, holding that under the State law, a convict whose previous term has been commuted for good behavior loses his commutation, and must serve it on the completion of his second sentence.

Under a decision in the case of Considene vs. the United States, Justice Greenbaum found that to break into a Post Office is "a purely statutory offense against the operation of the Government, unknown to the common law, and not within the class of felonies, and in the absence of any definition of statute, it must be classed a misdemeanor, and not a felony."

Had Stanford broken into a house or a stable he would not now be released.

THE DAM FAMILY HERE.

Father, Mother, and Eleven Children Arrive on the Ryndam from Holland.

Another batch of sturdy Dutch farmers, driven out of their own fertile land by land owners, arrived here yesterday in the second cabin on the Holland-America liner Ryndam, bound for the West. The Dam family, which consisted of the father and mother and eleven children, was the largest on board. Among the minor Dams were two sets of twins, Hendrik and Pieternella, 17 years old, and Helligje and Jacob, Jr., 15 years of age.

The ages of the other members of the Dam family were 11, 9, 8, 7, 6, 3, and 1. All the children were born at Nieuw Beyerdew, Holland, and both Mr. and Mrs. Dam are under 40 years of age.

Another big family on board the Ryndam was that of Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Wisse of Fernewehn, Holland, which comprised ten children, but no twins. Their ages were 23, 22, 19, 18, 16, 15, 13, 11, 9, and 5. The Wisse family are going to Passaic, N. J., to stay with an uncle, who has had his house enlarged to accommodate them.

HIGH ROCK SPRING BOUGHT.

The State's Reservation at Saratoga Is Now Nearly Complete.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, April 18.—With the acquisition to-day of the famous High Rock Park and adjacent mineral springs, the New York State Mineral Springs Company has acquired practically all of the spring properties in the village, and the State reservation, for which the Legislature authorized an expenditure of $600,000, is nearly completed.

The State has brought more than a dozen springs for the reservation, to which the village has added Congress Spring Park, which it recently purchased for $100,000. Negotiations are under way for the acquisition by the village of Canfield's park and clubhouse, and this, too, will be merged in the State reservation. Saratoga recently authorized the expenditure of $250,000 to co-operate with the State.

For the protection of the springs already bought the State to-day took over a number of tenement houses bordering the mineral spring valley, standing along a cliff which has frequently been examined with interest by noted geologists.

The High Rock Spring has the greatest historic interest of any of those of Saratoga, since it was to this spring that the Indians in 1768 brought Sir William Johnson to be cured of rheumatism.

HARPER PORCELAINS SOLD.

The first lot of the art and literary property of the late J. Abner Harper to be sold at the American Art Galleries was disposed of yesterday afternoon, bringing, for 300 odd pieces of Chinese porcelains, blue and white, decorated and single color, $3,626. Kaldenberg paid $100 for a Japanese rock crystal ball with a bronze stork support. R. W. Dundas paid $37.50 for an eggshell saucer, Chinese lady and children watching a cock fight; Robert S. Minturn gave $17.50 for a quadrilateral vase, clair-de-lune glaze; R. H. Voorhis gave $35 for a white agate vase in the shape of a tree trunk with branches and fungus carved in pink matrix.

A pair of small vases with long Elisas and flowering shrubs in cobalt blue went to him for $36. A quadrilateral Ming jar in famille-vert colors went to Voorhis for $30.

Japanese ivories and lacquers, cloisonnés bronzes, and Eastern porcelains will be sold to-morrow afternoon, and standard and miscellaneous books in the evening.

Science Church Sells a Corner.

The First Church of Christ, Scientist, obtained permission from Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum yesterday to sell eight lots at the south corner of Central Park West and Ninety-seventh Street, adjoining the church, for $262,812.50. The deed of sale will contain a provision that only high-class apartments be built on the property, and that the windows on the side adjoining the church shall be of stained glass. The property was bought by the church, subject to a mortgage of $250,000. The other property of the church consists of $1,250,000 in realty and personalty worth $14,037.

Alexandre Wants Alimony Cut Off.

Francis V. Alexandre, whose ex-wife, Sedonya Alexandre, has a motion on the Supreme Court calendar to-day requiring him to furnish a bond for the payment of $150 a month alimony granted to her when she won her divorce, obtained permission from Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum yesterday to apply to have the alimony clause cut from the divorce decree on the ground that he is at present without funds. Alexandre is alleged to have inherited $2,000,000 from the estate of his father, J. Harry Alexandre.

CHARGE CHECK KITING IN CARNEGIE TRUST

Grand Jury to be Asked to Indict Officials of the Company This Week.

BIDDING FOR THE ASSETS

Bankers Said to Have Advised Acceptance of the Assets Realization Company Offer.

It was learned yesterday that the Grand Jury is to be asked this week to indict two officials of the Carnegie Trust Company as an outgrowth of evidence purporting to show check "kiting" in that institution in the days preceding its failure. The Grand Jury, it was learned, has received information that checks amounting to nearly $100,000 were "kited" by certain officials of the Carnegie Trust with out-of-town banks and trust companies in an endeavor to get ready money.

The committee of five bankers chosen by State Banking Supt. Obear to act in an advisory capacity in appraising the value of the Carnegie's assets, have made a verbal report. It was said yesterday, favoring the revised offer of the Assets Realization Company and advising against the offer made by the syndicate of bankers through E. Clarence Jones & Co. The original offer of the Assets Company was $5,000,000, and 50 per cent. of all receipts above that sum to be paid to depositors. The company has now agreed to give $5,000,000 cash and give depositors three-fourths of the first $500,000 over $5,000,000 collected by the sale of the assets, one-half of the next $1,000,000, and one-fourth of any additional amount that might be realized.

While the Advisory Committee is said to have decided that this offer is the best received, no action will be taken until the creditors', the depositors', and stockholders' committees have passed on it. It will also have to be approved by the court.

It is not likely that all the offers for the Carnegie's assets have yet been made. There is still Andrew Carnegie to be heard from, as well as Roy Rainey, whose company was reported a few days ago as being a prospective bidder.

It was said yesterday that the reason the Committee of Bankers advised against the Jones & Co. bid was that its terms discriminated against the large depositors. The small depositors number almost 4,000 and the large ones 71. The latter are composed principally of banks, trust companies, and corporations, whose claims aggregate $5,000,000.

A representatives of E. Clarence Jones & Co. said yesterday: "We cannot see how the offer of the Assets Realization Company, providing for the payment of only 60 cents on the dollar at the outside, can be compared with our own offer of 100 per cent."

The Grand Jury had before it yesterday Robert L. Smith, Vice President of the Carnegie Trust Company, and several clerks of that institution. It will resume the inquiry to-day.

YOUNG MOORE SILENT.

Hears of Carnegie Trust Developments from Relative in Italy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, April 18.—The developments in the affairs of the Carnegie Trust Company were expected by the family of Charles A. Moore, who are here. Young Mr. Chester, son of Admiral Chester, and a relative of the Moore family by marriage, came here to report on the different features which the investigation of the company's affairs has brought to light.

The situation has not been made known to Mr. Moore, Sr, who is in a precarious condition, but the family assures me he has never occupied any position in the Carnegie Trust Company, and is therefore not concerned in the bankruptcy proceedings.

Charles A. Moore, Jr., who came to Italy because of his father's health, is now in Florence, where, when interrogated regarding the bankruptcy, he declared that he had no statement to add to those which had already appeared in the American press.

HONOR TO AN OLD GOVERNOR.

Tree Planting in City Hall Park in Memory of Jacob Leisler.

Park Commissioner Stover has granted a permit to the United German Societies to plant a tree in City Hall Park to be dedicated to the memory of Gov. Jacob Leisler who was hanged in 1691 for the English. The tree will be planted near the statue of Nathan Hale on the Broadway side of the Park. It is the gift of the City of Frankfort, the Governor's birthplace, and will be put in place next Sunday afternoon with elaborate exercises. The Governor and his son-in-law, Jacob Milbourne, were hanged at Park Row and Frankfort Street on May 11, 1691, on charges of treason.

"Leisler was in my opinion the forerunner of the patriots of 1776," said the Commissioner yesterday, "and I cheerfully gave permission for the planting of the German oak in his honor. He was a great democratic leader, opposed to the rule of the aristocrats of his day and always fighting for the people, despite the fact that he was a large landowner himself. The tree is to be planted on the Broadway side of the park instead of opposite the place where the gallows stood on which he was hanged, because the soil is deeper and better there."

Although Leisler was executed as a traitor he was subsequently vindicated, and services were held in his honor. His estate had been confiscated, but it was restored to his family.

Fireman Gets a Life-Saving Medal.

Joseph McGrath, first grade fireman, attached to Truck 35 in Concord Street, Brooklyn, received yesterday a life-saving medal of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps. Commissioner Waldo made the presentation. McGrath rescued Miss Martha Applegreen of 441 Seventy-fifth Street, Brooklyn, from the surf at Rockaway last August.

HEIDEMANN TO DIE FOR SLAYING GIRL

Convicted in Two Days on His Own Confession of Asbury Park Murder.

DETECTIVE LURED HIM ON

Tells How He Lived with Heidemann Until He Won His Confidence—Execution in Week of May 22.

Special to The New York Times.

FREEHOLD, N. J., April 18.—Frank E. Heidemann, the young German nurseryman, from whom a detective traveling with him as a friend wormed a confession of the murder of ten-year-old Marie Smith in Asbury Park last November, was found guilty of murder in the first degree this afternoon after the jury in Justice Voorhees's part of the Supreme Court had deliberated for a hour and three-quarters. Justice Voorhees pronounced sentence immediately, setting the week of May 22 for putting Heidemann to death by electricity in Trenton prison.

The trial of the young German began yesterday and lasted through only four sessions of the court. Counsel for the slayer sought to have his crime defined as murder in the second degree, pleading that he was insane, and that the murder had not been premeditated. Justice Voorhees left the decision to the jury.

It was Heidemann's own confession which brought about his conviction. Despite the efforts of his counsel, the document, signed with Heidemann's name, in which he admitted the killing, was placed in evidence. It was very short, reading:

This is to certify that I, the undersigned, murdered Marie Smith at Asbury Park, N. J., Nov. 9. FRANK E. HEIDEMANN.

The signed confession, however, was only a substantiation of the testimony given by Joseph Neumeister, the private detective, who obtained an oral confession, and later the signed admission, from Heidemann.

Neumeister took the witness stand as soon as the trial was resumed this morning and immediately launched into a recital of his meeting with Heidemann and of his life with him in the weeks prior to Heidemann's arrest on the Atlantic City express at Red Bank last March 15.

Neumeister told of his difficulty in arranging a meeting with Heidemann which should not arouse the man's suspicions and of how this was accomplished, as though by chance, in a restaurant in Third Avenue, Manhattan. They lived together in Fifteenth Street and Fourteenth Street, Manhattan, and moved from there to Yonkers, where they spent twenty-five days. Then they went to Philadelphia, and finally to Atlantic City, where Heidemann, to prove that he was a desperate enough character to suit even Neumeister, who posed as a criminal himself, made the confession of murder. Two days later Neumeister persuaded the man to repeat his statements in the presence of Walter Schindler and Joseph Springberger, two men from Neumeister's agency, and it was then that the brief admission was signed.

Subsequently, in the county jail here, Heidemann elaborated on this first confession and finally signed a statement in which he told of the crime in detail. This confession was made in the presence of Edward Taylor, Sheriff Hetrick, and Mr. Schindler. It left no loophole for later evasion, as Heidemann had been warned that it would be used against him. Much of the confession was unprintable. In it, however, Heidemann told how the slaying had been done by a hammer which he had been using when he accosted the child in the road near the florist's, where he was employed.

TAFT AT UNVEILING OF FRENCH TABLET

With Ambassador Jusserand, He Honors Memory of Soldiers and Sailors of France.

FOUGHT FOR AMERICA IN 1781

Monument Erected by Sons of the Revolution—Movement Started by Prof. Marion of Naval Academy.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 18.—On the campus of St. John's College there was unveiled to-day a bronze tablet erected by the General Society of the Sons of the Revolution to the memory of the nameless French soldiers and sailors who in 1781 laid down their lives in the cause of American independence. President Taft and Ambassador Jusserand made addresses. The midshipmen of the National Naval Academy did not turn out in honor of those who prevented the capture and probable sack of Annapolis, the honor of escorting the President having been assigned to the St. John's Cadets, but representatives of the Sons of the Revolution from all parts of the country, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Society of the Cincinnati, the Maryland Historical Society, and the Daughters of the American Revolution were in attendance.

President Taft, accompanied by Secretary Dickinson, Secretary Meyer, Henry W. Taft, and Secretary Hilles, arrived early in the day. With Ambassador Jusserand the President went to St. John's College, and, escorted by the St. John's Cadets, walked to the monument, which is at the rear of the college campus.

Following the presentation of the monument to St. John's College as custodian by Edmund Wetmore, acting General President of the Society of the Sons of the Revolution, the memorial was unveiled by Miss Amelie De Pau Fowler of Baltimore, a descendant of Admiral Count De Grasse, commander of the French fleet at the siege of Yorktown. In a brief speech Dr. Thomas Fell, President of St. John's, accepted the monument on behalf of the college. The addresses of President Taft and Ambassador Jusserand followed.

President Taft spoke in praise of the unknown men, and Ambassador Jusserand eulogized them for their willingness and eagerness to cross a sea which hundreds of them had never seen to fight under an alien flag in a cause then uncertain, all for the principle of liberty.

Lafayette and Rochambeau and other French Generals, the President said, were "with us so much in the struggle" for independence that we almost forget they are Frenchmen. "But here," said the President, "where the men whose memory we celebrate are unknown to us by name, the very impersonality of the occasion makes it distinctly the gratitude of a nation to a nation."

"To voluntarily remember the anxious times of long ago," said Ambassador Jusserand, "the hard trials experienced, the willing help conferred in the hour of need, by a friend, is a rare accomplishment. Among many other rare accomplishments, the American Nation certainly numbers that one. More than 130 years have passed, and a Frenchman who visits the United States has only to open his eyes to discover images of his compatriots and tokens of the survival of the old friendship. At the Capitol, the Speaker sits between a portrait of Washington and one of Lafayette. In front of the White House, the one who brought the first help, Lafayette, and the one who brought the definive aid, Rochambeau, stand on their pedestals, in the centre of a city that in their days was yet to be built, a city that was to bear the name of their friend and leader, Washington. At Philadelphia, at Savannah, at New York, Newport, Baltimore, Boston, statues, tablets, and pictures tell the same tale. The American Nation is a Nation that remembers.

"One more monument is being inaugurated to-day; a unique one. To Commanders in Chief, to Generals, to Admirals, American or other nationalities, who took part in the fight for independence, statues have been raised, well deserved ones, too. Here we have something different, and we inaugurate a monument that could be raised only for the United States or for France; for it is a monument not to officers, but to soldiers, and it has been raised not to honor a man, but a people. What is finest in the work done from '78 to '82 is that it was the work not merely of a man or a few men, of a King or a Government, it was the work of the nations themselves."

Following the unveiling the President reviewed the brigade of Naval Cadets. He left for Washington in a special car shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon. He was back in the White House at Washington just before 7 to-night.

The monument is a simple shaft of pink granite thirteen feet high, bearing on one face a bronze entablature in alto rellevo, 7 feet 7 inches wide by 3 feet 9 inches high. The composition shows sorrowing Memory, crowned with the olive leaves of peace and leaning upon her victorious shield, watching the departure of a small group of marching soldiers.

STONES PLACED ON TRACK.

Lives Endangered on New Canaan Branch of New Haven Road.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., April 18.—Three stones weighing upward of 200 pounds each were found on the tracks of the New Canaan branch of the New York & New Haven Railroad near Richmond Hill crossing last night, and judging from like occurrences recently it is possible that an attempt had been made to wreck a train.

The train which leaves New Canaan at 5:45 P. M. ran into the stones, damaging the fender of the locomotive and tearing up two ties. The motorman saw the stones in time to avert a more serious accident. A wrecking crew repaired the damage.

Mr. Sealby is President of the class of 1912. He said he would open an office in this city next Summer to practice admiralty law, and hoped, if he lives to be a very old man, to take part in the trial of the suit over the collision between the Republic and the Florida.

ENGINEER'S DIVE SAVES BOY.

Kennedy Rescues Child Knocked Into River by His Train.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 18.—Frank A. Kennedy, an engineer on the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railway, dove from the cab of his engine into the water in East Boston yesterday afternoon and saved the life of Joseph Magrath, a seven-year-old boy who had been hurled from the bridge at the foot of Havre Street by the speeding train.

Scores of passengers on the train who had thrown up the windows when they heard the shrieking whistle and the grinding of the brakes on the train saw Kennedy as he dove for the child.

Shortly before 3 o'clock little Joseph started from the railway bridge at the foot of Havre Street with a kitten that had been given him to throw into the water. When he reached a point about a yard from the end of the bridge the train bound for Winthrop came out of the tunnel and onto the bridge.

Engineer Kennedy jammed on the brakes, but the speed with which the train was traveling was too great and the engine struck the boy and knocked him over the side of the bridge and into twenty feet of water. Without stopping to take off his gloves Kennedy dove from the bridge and struck out for the spot where the boy had disappeared. Just as he was sinking again Kennedy seised him and started to swim to the bridge. The train crew threw him a rope and hauled him and his unconscious burden to the bridge. Kennedy climbed into the cab in his wet clothes and finished his run.

BOOM FOR GOV. WILSON.

Jersey Man Says His State Will Lend the Executive to the Nation.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—A boom for Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey for Democratic candidate for President was launched in Baltimore to-day at the opening session of the third annual convention of the National Association of Shell Fish Commissioners. Charles R. Bacon of Camden, N. J., President of the association, called the convention to applause when, in speaking of the Governor, he said:

"He came to the front with the mark of the machine upon him, but he quickly dispelled all doubts as to where he stood on that score, and in a few weeks had won the people of our beloved State as no other man had won them, and they are heart and soul with this man, this new kind of Governor—Woodrow Wilson—and we are going to lend you this man in whom the people can safely rest every confidence. He is the man of the hour. He is the man of the future for all America."

When Mr. Bacon further explained that he meant New Jersey would lend Gov. Wilson to the people of the United States for four years as their President the applause was renewed.

CABOT DISPUTES GARY.

Denies Partisanship in Demanding Inquiry at Steel Corporation Shops.

BOSTON, April 18.—Upon his return from the meeting of the United States Steel Corporation at Hoboken yesterday Charles M. Cabot of this city, whose motion for an investigation of the mills was adopted, issued a statement to-day objecting to the remark of President E. H. Gary, that a magazine article, upon which the motion was based, was presented in a partisan manner. Mr. Cabot said:

"The magazine article was not at all partisan, as stated by Judge Gary. On the other hand, it was particularly free from any bias, for it was a summary of one of the volumes of the Pittsburg survey, a work undertaken and financed by the Sage Foundation, while the investigation was made by John H. Fitch, who was selected by the economic department of the University of Wisconsin."

D. A. R. INSURGENTS NAME THEIR TICKET

Mrs. William C. Story of New York Again Their Choice for President General.

TEST VOTE AT DAY'S SESSION

Friends of Mrs. Matthew T. Scott Assert That the Result Shows Strength for the Chicago Woman.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The Daughters of the American Revolution made a new record to-day when they transacted the business with practically no debate. Not that the society has lost its natural desire for discussion, but because of the very tactful leadership of its President, Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, and the support given her from the floor.

The first test of strength between the now plainly recognized factions, regular and insurgent, headed respectively by Mrs. Scott of this city and Mrs. William C. Story of New York, came early in the day, when objection was made to accepting the report of the Treasurer General, Mrs. William D. Hoover. Miss Virginia Miller, one of the charter members of the society and Regent of Washington's most distinguished chapter, the Mary Washington, Mrs. Demming of Massachusetts, and Mrs. M. A. Ballinger of the District of Columbia, each tried to open debate by asking correction of some error or information on some particular point in the report. Miss Miller objected to an item of book racks for the library being included in the building fund, claiming the same were paid for in full by the chapter, of which she is the Regent, which had assumed entire obligation for the furnishing of this handsomest room in Continental Hall.

Mrs. Demming's inquiry was as to the reliability of the printed report that the running expenses of the society for the past year were $79,000.

The Treasurer General, a handsome, well-dressed and amiable young matron, with some confusion, replied that if that was what her report said, it was correct, but qualified her admission by asking what was meant by running expenses.

Support Mrs. Scott.

For several minutes a discussion, participated in by Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Swormstedt, on one side, and Mrs. Demming on the other, threatened to override all rules, but was quelled by Mrs. Scott asking the house to sustain the Chair in accepting the report with the assurance the question of detail could be taken up later. The sustaining vote, which gave the first definite indication of the popular will of the congress, was taken as a mark of great strength for the Scott forces, although several State delegations declared later that their vote was only to expedite routine business and in no way indicated their preference for President General or indorsement of the financial policy of the present administration.

Incidentally, the definition of running expenses was left in doubt.

Mrs. Ballinger's persistent but ineffectual effort to open discussion on the financial situation of the society was ruled out of order to-day, but will undoubtedly be brought up again.

In addition to the Treasurer's report, other reports presented touching on the disbursement of the society's money included that on Continental Hall, read by Mrs. Scott, and the report of the Finance Committee, read by Mrs. L. B. Swormstedt, the Corresponding Secretary General, as well as Chairman of the Finance Committee.

Mrs. Scott, in presenting her paper, informed Mrs. Ballinger in particular and other critics in general that the detail as to the expenditure of the Continental Hall could be found in the March number of the American Monthly Magazine, the official organ of the society.

The report of the Magazine Committee to-morrow is expected to reopen the financial question, which now overshadows the election of officers.

The presentation of relics closed the afternoon session, the congress adjourning at 4 o'clock to attend the various social diversions complimentary to the members of the congress. This evening was given over to a patriotic celebration by the Children of the American Revolution.

Reception to Mrs. Story.

The largest of this afternoon's receptions was that held by the New York State Regents and Chapter Regents in honor of Mrs. William C. Story at the New Willard, where more than 700 visitors, mostly members of the society, paid their respects to this pouplar New Yorker who two years ago failed of election to the highest office in the society by just eight votes.

Another reception was at the Congressional Club, from 4 to 6 o'clock, when Mrs. Roberts, wife of Representative Ernest W. Roberts of Massachusetts, President of the club, with Mrs. Matthew T. Scott heading the receiving line.

Mrs. Cummins, wife of the Senator from Iowa, entertained a reception at the Highlands in honor of the delegates from Iowa.

There are now 68,552 members in the society, an increase of 5,052 over last year's membership. The money on hand in various funds amounts to $43,135.

The anti-administration forces, which appear to include the leaders of the District Society, to-day announced the ticket they will put in the field on Tuesday, which is as follows:

For President General—Mrs. William Cumming Story, New York State.

For Vice President General in charge of the organization of chapters—Mrs. Miranda B. Tulloch, District of Columbia.

For Chaplain General—Mrs. W. E. Callender, South Carolina and Virginia.

For Recording Secretary General—Mrs. Frank Bond, Wyoming and District of Columbia.

For Corresponding Secretary General—Mrs. William A. Smoot, Virginia.

For Register General—Mrs. Grace M. Pierce, District of Columbia.

For Treasurer General—Mrs. Henry M. Blount, District of Columbia.

For Historian General—Mrs. Charles A. Thomas, New Jersey.

According to the Treasurer's report New York State has contributed to Continental Hall nearly $12,000. The special features credited to that State compromise one of the thirteen columns of the portico, $2,000; for the stairway, $1,000 from Fort Green Chapter; tablet also from Fort Green, in memory of Mrs. S. V. White. New York City Chapter gave $5,000 toward the museum. Ticonderoga Chapter gave $450 for a chandelier. Tuscarora Chapter gave $100 for mahogany doors.

A Recipe Which Only Three Men Know

The recipe for Van Camp's Spaghetti has never been written down.

Only three men know it all.

The only way to ever get spaghetti like this is to let us cook it for you. And it costs you less than to make it yourself, even if we told you how.

Many have eaten delicious spaghetti. Some have eaten the Italian style as prepared by the chefs of Rome.

But all will ask, when you serve Van Camp's, "What recipe is this?"

There are 17 ingredients used in it, but the art comes in the flavor.

The main materials are:
Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same expensive tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork & Beans.

Your grocer now has this new dinner delight, ready cooked for you.

It is the most popular dish ever prepared in our kitchen.

Simply heat it or bake it, as you prefer. There's nothing else to do.

However much you serve you will find, we think, that there's never a mite left over.

Tell your grocer to send some now.

The Advantages of Gun-powder to the Little Fellow

IN the Middle Ages, ten knights clad in steel did not fear an army of unarmed peasants. Gun-powder came into use and then any finger that could pull a trigger was equal in battle to the greatest lord.

What gun-powder did for war, advertising has done for the manufacturer.

Years ago the manufacturers who were armed with unlimited capital, trained labor and great selling forces did not fear the competition of a whole army of small competitors.

The power of advertising became known and all this was changed. Advertising put the small manufacturer on a fair footing with the magnate, because his finger could pull the trigger no less surely than his mighty competitor.

Now-a-days any manufacturer with brains and the right product, can fire the shot that will be "heard round the world."

RUSH A RIPPER BILL THROUGH AT ALBANY

EASIER RULE FOR VOTERS

Irregular Cross Marks in the Ballot Circle May Be Considered Valid —Other Measures.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 18.—The Mount Vernon ripper bill which provoked a long and bitter debate in the Senate last night was rushed through the Assembly to-day before its opponents realized what had happened.

Senator Stilwell's bill, which passed the Senate last night by a party vote, was on the Assembly clerk's desk this morning when the Coffey bill, which was identical, was reached on second reading. Assemblyman Foley, Chairman of the Cities Committee and representative from Charles F. Murphy's district, moved that the Stilwell bill be substituted for the Assembly measure. The substitution was made and the bill advanced. Then a request was made for its final passage.

The clerk started a rapid roll call. Assemblyman Haines of Westchester arose to protest. He was too late, however, and no votes were recorded against the bill.

The Stilwell measure, if it becomes a law, will give Mayor Fiske, a Democrat, power to make appointments to minor city offices without the advice and consent of the City Council, which is Republican. Mayor Fiske's appointments have been held up for two years, Republican officials in Mount Vernon holding over in the meantime.

Senator Saxe's bill changing the definition of a cross mark in reference to the marking of a ballot was passed by the Senate to-day, the only votes in opposition being those of Senators Hinman, Newcomb, and Wainwright, Republicans, and Ferris, Democrat.

The object of the bill was stated to be to obtain a more liberal interpretation of the law in reference to the marking of ballots. Senator Saxe was one of the lawyers appearing for Mayor McClellan in the Hearst recount case, and he declared that if his bill became a law it would not be necessary to institute proceedings for a recount. Senator Saxe said that ballots were thrown out by the court where there was no evidence of fraud.

Under the provisions of his bill an irregular cross mark within the circle must be accepted as a valid vote. There is nothing in the bill, Senator Saxe said, which would prevent a legal review of the vote in case there was evidence of fraud.

The bill is opposed by the Citizens' Union, the City Club, and the New York County Republican Committee, but it is believed it will be passed by the Assembly.

Unexpected opposition has developed to the Trombly bill appropriating $1,600,000 for the completion of the State highway between New York and Rouses Point as a part of an international highway to Montreal. The bill was slated to come up for final passage in the Assembly to-day, but action on the various highway measures has been deferred until Thursday.

Assemblyman Trombly has under consideration several amendments to the bill. Its legality has been questioned, on the ground that it provides for a total mileage in excess of the amount allowed by law.

The Shortt bill providing for the return to South Carolina by the State Education Department of certain documents said to have been "appropriated" during the Revolutionary War passed the Assembly to-day. It was thought that these records were destroyed by the Capitol fire, but Mr. Shortt ascertained that two of the three books, although damaged, were sufficiently preserved to leave their historical value intact.

The Assembly adopted a resolution introduced by Assemblyman Ebbets complimenting the Albany Fire Department for its work in saving the Capitol from destruction.

NEW BILLS IN LEGISLATURE.

Smaller Tax on Catskill Water Route Provided—Fire Protection Urged.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 18.—At Mayor Gaynor's request, Assemblyman Fry of Brooklyn to-day introduced a bill amending the tax law, with a view of lessening the tax New York City is required to pay on land taken in the Catskills for an additional water supply.

Mr. Fry's bill provides that all lands taken by any municipal corporation within the limits or boundaries of another municipal corporation for the purpose of a water supply shall hereafter be taxed only at their value exclusive of reservoirs, aqueducts, constructions, and work necessary for such purpose, and at a rate not higher than the rate which unimproved real property in the immediate vicinity is assessed.

Fire protection for loft, office, and factory buildings in New York City is provided for in another bill introduced by Assemblyman Fry. The Superintendent of Buildings is directed to withhold permits for such buildings until these requirements are met. There must be good and sufficient fire escapes. The stairways of the fire escapes must be at an angle of not less than 30 degrees and have treads not more than nine inches apart, with hand railings the entire length of the fire escapes. Standpipes, automatic sprinklers, roof tanks, and automatic fire alarms are also required.

Other bills introduced to-day included the following:

Senator Duhamel—Creating a State Department of Electricity, to be headed by a Commissioner, who shall be appointed by the Governor. The Commissioner is to appoint an electrical engineer and a Chief Inspector. The department is designed to regulate the operation and arrangement of electric wires.

Assemblyman Cuvillier—Creating a commission to investigate the charges of abuse and cruel treatment in the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan.

Senator Stilwell—Providing that unsalted and unpreserved meats offered for sale shall be presumed to be tainted within the meaning of the penal law if kept for periods longer than the following: Beef, seven months; veal, pork, or sheep, four months, and all other animal food, four months. The provisions against the sale of tainted food are made more stringent.

Senator Fiero—Providing that the minimum fine for selling liquor without a license shall be $300 instead of $200, as now. Imprisonment is made optional instead of mandatory, and the maximum term is reduced from one year to six months.

BIG TIMBER SHRINKAGE.

Last Year's Production in This State Less by a Billion Feet.

ALBANY, April 18.—A decrease of 1,000,000,000 feet in the total production of timber in the State last year is reported by the State Forest, Fish and Game Commission. The cut has fallen off each year since 1907, and it is expected that each year for many years to come will show a similar shrinkage.

"It appears," says the commission, "that there has been an increase in the consumption of pulp wood grown in the State, but quite a large shrinkage in the production of lumber. There are 1,040,000 acres, in round numbers, in the Forest Preserve, and the amount of timber standing on the same is estimated at 14,000,000,000 feet, board measure."

HARLEM BOATHOUSES ARE TO BE REBUILT

General Meeting of Members of Fire-Stricken Clubs Will Be Held To-morrow.

FRATERNAL PROFFERS OF AID

Memorial Day Regatta Will Probably Take Place as Usual, in Spite of Losses.

"Scullers' Row," on the Harlem, was almost wiped out by the fire which totally destroyed the boathouses of the Nassau Boat Club, the Harlem Rowing Club, the Metropolitan Rowing Club, and the Wyanoke Boat Club yesterday morning, but announcement was made before the embers had cooled that the work of reconstruction will be begun as soon as the fire underwriters permit. It. Caucuses were held last night by members of the clubs, and there will be a general meeting of the homeless oarsmen tomorrow night at Jack Nagle's rowing headquarters, in East 126th Street.

Aside from the monetary loss, which will run well up toward the $100,000 mark, the chief cause for lament among the oarsmen is the burning of their almost priceless trophies, in the shape of banners, cups, and plaques, which cannot be replaced, all of which were prizes in hard-fought aquatic struggles, dating from last year backward for a generation.

The sufferers by fire soon had evidence of the good fellowship which exists among oarsmen, in proffers of rowing craft and boat houses, which came to them from the Unions, Bohemians, Crescents, Lone Stars, and other clubs located on the Harlem. It will be next to impossible for the racing boats, which were lost, to be replaced without a delay of many weeks. Jack Smith of the Nassaus was almost in tears because of the burning of his moulds and patterns, some of which he had had for twenty-five years. In the Harlem's loss were numbered some of the finest racing boats in the world.

Fears have been expressed that the fire might cause the postponement of the Memorial Day regatta. It is believed, however, that it boats enough can be had from clubs, either on the Harlem, or elsewhere, of the necessary type, the regatta will take place.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by a spark from a freight engine or a tugboat igniting some papers which may have collected under the Nassau house.

The damage to the Harlem Rowing Club's property is $20,000, and it was insured for only $5,000. The Nassau loses about $7,000 over and above the damage that was covered by its $20,000 insurance. The Metropolitan has a net loss of about $11,000. The Wyanokes were more fortunate than the other clubs.

The fire destroyed motor boats belonging to Oscar Thees, Nassau Boat Club, and Fred Fuessel, Harlem Rowing Club, the latter recently purchased for use in coaching the crews. Fuessel was fortunate enough to dig up out of the ruins the cup he won in the senior singles at the Hudson-Fulton celebration.

Some of the trophies lost by the clubs were as follows:

Nassau—Philadelphia Record Cup, won in 1906; time still stands. O. Mehrhoff, en cups and all the banners and pennants for races won since 1868.

Harlem—Plaques for junior eight shell at Philadelphia and the Royal Canadian Henley; sixty banners, eighteen of which were won last year; banner won by Pilkington and Nagle at Pullman, Ill., and another by Hawkins and Nagle in the championship double sculls in 1895 at Saratoga.

Metropolitan—Rogers Cup, won at the L. I. R. A. regatta, and dozens of banners.

The Nassau lost thirty-nine single shells, twenty-five of which were the personal property of members; two centipedes, one four, two eights, two four gigs, and fourteen club gigs, singles and doubles.

In addition to a like number of boats of similar type, the Harlem mourns the loss of a new octopede, made recently by Ruddick.

Among the Metropolitan's boats were fourteen singles, three doubles, two four barges, three eight shells, four four shells, and twelve single shells belonging to the members.

The Wyanokes managed to save five singles and a double out of their twenty boats.

The Nassaus will begin immediately the construction of a shack on the north side of the ruins, which they will use until a new house can be built.

The Public Response to this Sale of CROSSETT SHOES Has Overwhelmed Us

We apologize to those of our friends who were not able, yesterday, to secure the attention in this Crossett Shoe Sale which they were entitled to expect from Gimbel Service.

Ample as we thought our plans were, to take care of the response we felt sure would follow our very important announcement of the purchase and sale of the New York Retail Stock of CROSSETT SHOES, we were simply swept off our feet by the number of people who sought to avail themselves of it.

Those coming today will find 200 feet more of selling space—and fifty extra salespeople; and we hope, with these additions, that every customer will be able to choose satisfactorily from among these regular $4 to $6 Crossett Shoes at $2.85 a pair.

So that there may be no disappointment for the next several days, we are taking Shoes from our own regular $4 and $5 stocks, to fill in where lines of sizes are broken. This will assure satisfaction to all who come, possibly all this week.

As far as we know, The Crossett Shoe has never before been sold for less than the regular prices—$4, $5 and $6.

"What is most interesting about the contributions to the Encyclopaedia Britannica from this side of the Atlantic is the extent to which, in our perfectly disinterested attempt to find the best or most judicious writers on subjects with which nationality has nothing to do, these writers turned out to be workers on this side. How is it that an American Theologian, Professor G. W. Knox, is responsible for the article on Christianity (Applause); that Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn deals with Palaeontology (Applause); that Professor Cleveland Abbe on Meteorology (Applause), and Professor R. De Courcy Ward on Climatology, practically embrace a whole science between them; that Professor G. B. Macdonold, in a country which has no particular connection with Mohammedanism, is the selected writer on Mohammedan Institutions—selected by an editor from England, which is the greatest Mohammedan power in the world (Laughter); that the late Dr. Simon Newcomb was my expert adviser on Astronomy; that I came here for the whole subject of Mining, treated by Professor Henry Smith Monroe, Professor J. F. Kemp, Professor Robert Peele, Professor H. M. Howe, Professor R. H. Richards and others; or that for specialist learning on Oriental Antiquities I had to rely on Americans like Dr. Peters, Professor Morris Jastrow, Professor J. Dynely Prince, Dr. R. W. Rogers, or Dr. Hirth? I could considerably extend this list of subjects, but it will indicate what I mean. What it means is that here in America you have caught up with the old world, and are supplying your share of original mind-stuff for the rest of the globe to digest and profit by."

—Mr. Hugh Chisholm, Editor of the 11th Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica in a speech at a dinner to the American and Canadian contributors

Cosmopolitan In Its Scholarship

IF, in saying that the new Encyclopaedia Britannica is the co-operative product of modern cosmopolitan scholarship, nothing were implied beyond the fact that it was written by the scholars of all countries, it would be sufficient to state that the writers of its articles were some 1,500 of the leading specialists of the world, selected from twenty-three countries solely on the ground of their supreme eminence.

It is, however, equally important to state that it was only after a preliminary survey of the whole field by the permanent editorial staff of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, systematically made with the assistance of the best obtainable advice, that the work was finally apportioned among the contributors; that they wrote simultaneously, each in the full knowledge of what his colleagues were doing and that as their contributions were received, these were accurately and minutely checked, one against another, with a view to bringing to the surface all overlapping and rectifying all omissions.

It results that in the Eleventh Edition all the articles on any one subject bear the relation to each other of the parts of a well articulated whole in which is reflected in true perspective the essentially cosmopolitan character of modern scholarship. There is none of the short circuiting which must inevitably exist in works of reference which have been compiled volume by volume and in which the separate articles, however ably written, have no more essential relation to each other than a number of books of varying date which happen to occupy adjacent positions on the same shelf.

An Authentic and Synchronous Re-Survey of Contemporary Knowledge

The 11th Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica consists of 28 volumes and index—all of even date 1910—comprising 40,000 articles, 7,000 text illustrations, 450 full page plates and 569 maps. Of the contributors 599 were members (past or present) of the Staffs of 81 Universities in 21 countries; 54 were Chancellors, Presidents or Principals of Educational Foundations; 168 were Fellows of the Royal Society; 57 were Fellows of the British Academy; 53 were Presidents or Secretaries of other Learned Societies; 111 were members of the Staff of the British Museum or other National Institutions of a similar character and 47 were members of the Staffs of Observatories, Laboratories and Surveys. ORGANIZE TO HELP IN FIRE PREVENTION

Henry L. Stimson Chosen Head of the New Bureau of the Citizens' Committee on Safety.

AIM TO GET BETTER LAWS

And Enforce Those Already Enacted on Building Restrictions—Aldermen Call for More Inspectors.

To create a general clearing house on fire-trap information, on ways to prevent fires, and on the manner in which public officials are carrying out the fire-protection laws, the Fire Prevention Bureau of the Citizens' Committee on Safety was opened yesterday in the Charities Organization Building, 105 East Twenty-second Street.

The bureau is planned to be a permanent contribution to the city's civic bodies, made as a result of the Asch Building fire disaster. It was demanded in resolutions passed at the citizens' mass meeting in the Metropolitan Opera House a week after the fire, as a means through which the horror felt by those present might translate itself into something more definite than mere mass meeting oratory. Many other bodies demanded such a bureau, and the organization finally effected has taken in representatives from several such groups.

The bureau's permanent President is ex-United States District Attorney Henry L. Stimson, and there will be back of him in his work a Board of Directors chosen from labor unions, social welfare workers, professional fire-prevention experts, and philanthropists. An initial sum of $10,000 has been guaranteed by R. Fulton Cutting. It is planned to open subscription lists and to maintain a permanent office in the Charities Association Building, in charge of a paid Executive Secretary and a corps of Inspectors.

The bureau's work, so far as it was agreed upon at the initial meeting yesterday, calls for a legislative programme in which public support would be bespoken for adequate fire protection laws, the keeping of records on all notorious fire traps, and the maintaining of a close watch upon new buildings to see that they comply with the laws, and the study of methods of fire prevention as they are discovered and brought forward.

Its purpose was stated in a single sentence instead of the usual lengthy constitution and preamble—"to protect and conserve the lives of working people from fire and other dangers especially in the places of their employment."

At the meeting yesterday R. Fulton Cutting, Chairman of the joint committee named by the Metropolitan Opera House mass meeting and the United Charities conference, presided. There was some discussion of a plan to invite Fire Chief Croker to become the bureau's fire expert, but no decision was reached upon this matter as there was another very active candidate in the field.

The officers elected besides Mr. Stimson, as President, were Peter J. Brady, Vice President; John A. Kingsbury, Secretary, and George W. Perkins, Treasurer.

The Directors elected were Peter J. Brady, R. Bayard Cutting, Mary E. Dreier, Otto Eidlitz, Homer Folks, James B. Gernon, John M. Glenn, Daniel Harris, John A. Kingsbury, John Mitchell, Anne Morgan, Henry Morgenthau, Dr. H. Moskowitz, Mrs. Fred Nathan, Eugene A. Philbin, Amos Pinchot, Leopold Plaut, William J. Schieffelin, Henry L. Stimson, Roswell B. Tompkins, Lillian D. Wald, Mgr. William J. White of Brooklyn, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

An Executive Committee of six members, to be added to at its own discretion, was chosen to act with the officers, as follows: Mary E. Dreier, R. F. Cutting, Henry Morgenthau, Daniel Harris, Dr. Moskowitz, and Anne Morgan.

The first meeting of the officers of the new bureau will be held this morning when a Secretary will be engaged and office space rented.

In the Board of Aldermen yesterday two resolutions amending the Building Code to strengthen the fire protection sections were passed. Alderman Dowling, the Tammany leader, introduced both resolutions, and preceding the vote upon them was a long debate, in which Tammany politicians were accused of seeking through the amendments to provide places for job hunters.

The first resolution provided that "it should be the duty of the Superintendent of Buildings to cause quarterly inspections to be made of all buildings used for manufacturing purposes, the reports of such inspections to be made part of the Building Bureau's permanent records." The second resolution called upon Supt. Miller of the Building Bureau to submit to the Aldermen all records of inspections of buildings made within the past fifteen months.

CROKER'S PREVENTION PLANS.

His Company Organized to Protect Old and Erect New Buildings.

It was learned yesterday that the Chief Croker Fire Preventive and Engineering Company is already fully organized, and that it will begin business on May 1, the day on which Chief Croker's resignation from the Fire Department will go into effect. The company, it was authoritively stated, will be incorporated for $10,000, and will be a close corporation, with Chief Croker President and Treasurer, Charles Thorley, the florist, Vice President, and ex-Battalion Chief Frederick Snow general manager.

Two floors of the loft building at 562 Fifth Avenue have been leased by the company, and are now undergoing alterations preparatory to occupation on May 1. One of the floors will be given up exclusively to demonstrations of fire preventive apparatus for which the company will be the sales agents, the other floor will be occupied by Chief Croker and his office force.

Charles Thorley, Vice President, explained the nature and extent of the new business to a reporter for THE TIMES yesterday.

"There is no business concern of this nature doing business anywhere," he said, "and we are not in competition with anybody. Chief Croker, through this departure, can be of even greater service to the City of New York than he could be as Fire Chief for hereafter he will interest himself solely in the prevention of fires rather than in fighting them. His experience has shown him just what this prevention should consist of, and as a 'free lance' he will be able to do more effective work by means of his suggestions to property owners than he could possibly do as long as he is in the employ of the city. Chief Croker is a man with convictions, and now he will get a chance to work them out.

"The most important part of the new business will be the employment bureau for trained firemen. There are now several hundred retired firemen in this city who have distinguished themselves in their day, and all of them have come under the personal supervision of the Chief. He will take such men and place them in factories, theatres, hotels, and loft buildings, and they will use their instinct to 'smell smoke' by making personal tours of inspection, paying particular attention to the collection of all debris in hallways and corridors.

"I myself have made a close study of fires within the last six months, and I am convinced that two-thirds of all fires are caused by smoldering debris, often started by a lighted cigarette being thrown carelessly on the floor. We believe, therefore, that these trained firemen who can detect the smallest presence of combustion will do much to prevent future fire losses. Already we have applications for many such men.

"Another thing which will receive attention is the matter of fire drills. Factory owners have come to Chief Croker and have personally asked him to begin a city-wide crusade for these drills. It is possible that we will organize a special training department for these drills.

"We will be interested in the construction and alteration of buildings, of course, and to that end have special engineers who can pass on fireproof construction and fire-preventive appliances. We believe that the extra expense will more than be offset by the decrease in fire insurance rates."

One of the officers of the Fire Insurance Underwriters' Association said yesterday that Chief Croker's resignation would have no immediate bearing on fire insurance rates. "There is a logical relation between a bad fire Chief and insurance rates," he said, "and the rates are now low because of Chief Croker's high standard as a Chief, but it will take a long time to see just what effect a change in the department will have on our rates."

At Fire Headquarters Commissioner Waldo said he had heard of no applicants for Chief Croker's place, and that the Civil Service examinations to fill the vacancy would probably not be announced for three or six months. Acting Chief Kenlon will remain in charge.

DIPPEL TO SAIL FOR PARIS.

Chicago Company Will Present Six Operas Here Next Season.

Andreas Dippel, the general manager of the Chicago-Philadelphia Opera Company, sailed yesterday on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. He gave out the following statement:

Before sailing for Europe it gives me pleasure to express to the music-loving public in New York my heartiest thanks for the magnificent support and the most cordial reception they have given the Philadelphia-Chicago Opera Company.

This new organization, through the most liberal financial assistance of several gentlemen, (who have done a great deal toward the artistic development of grand opera in this country,) was fortunate enough to set a high artistic standard from the beginning, and indeed it is a great satisfaction to everybody interested in the welfare of the Philadelphia-Chicago Opera Company that we have been invited to give again a series of performances during the coming season at the Metropolitan Opera House.

The fact that next year's activities of the Philadelphia-Chicago Opera Company in the East are spread over two different periods, the one previous to the opening of the metropolitan opera season makes it impossible to produce more than six performances in New York.

These performances will be given on Tuesday evenings, Feb. 6, 13, 20, 27, March 5, 12, and 19. The Metropolitan Opera Company offered us to play an engagement of two continuous weeks after the close of the regular season, but inasmuch as the Philadelphia season ends on March 20, we could not avail ourselves of said offer.

The Philadelphia-Chicago Opera Company will present during the New York engagement six different operas, mostly in French, and three of them will be novelties, as follows: Wolf-Ferrari's new opera in three acts, "Il Tesoro della Madonna," which will be given in Italian, for the first time in America; Miss Mary Garden will appear in three new roles, i. e., "Carmen," Massenet's "Cendrillion," and one other novelty to be decided upon shortly.

Nearly all of the old favorites of the company have been re-engaged, and negotiations are pending with a number of prominent artists new to this country, among whom will be the English soprano, Miss Maggie Teyte, and Mme. Jeanne Gerville Reache.

Mr. Dippel sails for Paris, and will go to Milan and from there to Vienna. He expects to be in London about the middle of May.

THINKS THE PIPER ISN'T A WOMAN'S PART

CONTRACT BROKEN, HE SAYS

Contends That Winthrop Ames Has No Right to Produce the Play Except with the Stock Company.

Supreme Court Justice Hendrick yesterday postponed until Friday the argument on an application of Walter Hampden Dougherty for an injunction against The New Theatre and Winthrop Ames, its managing director, Dougherty, who says he owns the American and Canadian rights to Josephine Preston Peabody's play, "The Piper," asks that the defendants be restrained from advertising or otherwise announcing a production of the play and from producing it outside of New York with a woman in the part of the Piper, from giving any prominence to the fact of a particular person's appearance in that rôle, from starring Edith Wynne Matthison or creating the impression in advertisements or announcements or by other means that it is her original rôle or that the Piper has never been played by a man and that a woman can most fittingly play the part.

He also asks that The New Theatre be restrained from presenting the play in any city with an inferior company or by any company except the regular New Theatre company and in repertory, and from performing the play nightly and at matinées or otherwise than with other plays, and restraining The New Theatre from subletting to Mr. Ames the rights Dougherty gave it, and restraining him from producing the play with any company at all.

Dougherty, whose stage name is Walter Hampden, says he has been an actor by profession for ten years in Great Britain and the United States and has made a study of dramatic literature, becoming expert in judging plays and the probabilities of their successful performance. On Aug. 1 last, he says, he became the sole owner of all performing rights of "The Piper," a prize play written by Mrs. Lionel S. Marks under the name of Josephine Preston Peabody, and gave a contract to The New Theatre by which it obtained the sole right to present the play in this city until Sept. 1, 1915, and the exclusive right to present it elsewhere in the United States and Canada by The New Theatre company during its regular Spring and Fall tour in repertory with "The Blue Bird," "The Arrow Maker," "Nobody's Daughter," "The Nigger," and others. The play was first produced, he says, at the Memorial Theatre, Stratford-on-Avon, with the well-known English actor, Frank R. Benson, in the title rôle, and it was not foreseen that it would ever be produced with a woman in that part. Concerning its presentation with a woman in this part Dougherty says:

"If The New Theatre desired to have a woman impersonate the part of the Piper it should have explicitly so provided in the contract, and such impersonation prevents a first-class production and performance, among other reasons, because the Piper, while a man of great refinement and large human sympathy, should have a masculine physique and voice; in fact, a degree of masculinity is an essential feature of his appearance; nor should he be shorter than male members of the cast or barely as tall as some of the female actors and little taller than some of the children; nor should he be obliged to resort to mannerisms and artificialities in an effort to depict adult manhood, which is inevitable with a woman in the part."

In violation of its agreement to present it with the regular New Theatre company and in repertory under its own jurisdiction, Dougherty says:

"Not only has the regular New Theatre company disbanded, but the defendants threaten and purpose to produce the play with many new and cheaper players, who have neither the experience nor the prestige of the regular company, thus endangering the reputation of the piece and its pecuniary and artistic value to the plaintiff.

"That instead of producing the play in repertoire two or three times a week as had been the practice and custom of the defendant, The New Theatre, as was intended by the contract, it is proposed to produce the same eight times a week."

From Dougherty's affidavit it appears that he is particularly aggrieved because he expected to appear in the title rôle himself, and only relinquished his rights for the performance of the play on the understanding that Mr. Ames was to give him the part.

CHARLOTTE WALKER'S PLANS

Two Stock Companies Announce That Her Services Have Been Retained.

Wales Winter announced yesterday afternoon that he had signed Miss Charlotte Walker as leading woman in the stock company organized by James Neill for the Summer season in St. Paul, Minn.

A subsequent announcement from the office of A. G. Delamater and William Norris is to the effect that they have closed a contract with the same actress for a term of years and that she is to open as a stock star at the Metropolitan Opera House, Minneapolis, on April 30, acting, among other rôles, the one of June in John Fox's novel, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," in which she is to appear next season.

Miss Walker could not be found last night to explain which of the two companies will have her services.

Victor Moore and Emma Littlefield in "Change Your Act" headed the bill at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre, and included in the rest of the programme were Cressy and Dayne, Eugenie Fougere, Alexander and Scott, Anna Chandler, the Berlin Madcaps, the three Leightons, Barnes and Crawford, Beth Tate, Charles and Anna Glocker, the three Lowells, Fosto and Fuzzy, and Devlin and Lewis.

Others who appeared were Neil O'Brien, J. C. Nugent and company, Mack and Orth, the International Polo Team, Mlle. Olive, and Ethel Whitesides.

Joseph Hart's production of George V. Hobart's sketch, "Dinkelspiel's Christmas," headed the bill at the Colonial Theatre, and John C. David Belasco's old play, "The Heart of Maryland," is the week's offering by the stock company at the Academy of Music.

Robert Edeson in his own play, "Where the Trail Divides," began a week's engagement at the Montauk Theatre, Brooklyn, last night. The play is a dramatization of Will Lillibridge's novel.

The stock company at the Crescent Theatre, Brooklyn, is offering Augustus Thomas's Western play, "Arizona," this week.

At the Amphion Theatre, Brooklyn, the attraction for the week is the musical comedy, "Happy Hooligan."

The bill at the Orpheum Theatre, Brooklyn, includes Elsie Janis, Charles Richman and company, McMahon and Chapelle, Pat Rooney and Marion Bent, "Swat Milligan," Hoey and Lee, Winsor McCay, Linden Beckwith, and Pope and Uno.

"The Girls from Happyland," headed by Billy W. Watson as principal comedian, began a week's engagement at the Columbia Theatre, presenting two one-act burlesques.

Robinson's "Crusoe Girls" is the attraction at Hurtig & Seamon's Music Hall. "The Big Banner Show" at the Olympic, and Sam Howe's "Love Makers" at the Murray Hill.

CHILDREN GIVE AN OPERETTA.

Little Cripples at the Darrach Home Present "The Stolen Princess."

"The Stolen Princess," an operetta in two acts, was given yesterday afternoon at the Darrach Home for Crippled Children, 118 West 104th Street, by the little people of the home. Miss Staats, who is greatly interested in the home, was coach, costumer, and a good many other things that go to make a play a success, and all the money raised by it will be a clear gain for the good of the children. It was an exciting operetta, with Queens, Princes, and Princesses, to say nothing of fairies, a witch, and a robber band.

The first act opened in a beautiful setting of Easter lilies and red rambler roses, with the Queen, tall, fair, and pale, with a crown of stars on her head, sitting on a throne with the little Princess, who has dark hair and dark eyes, when they are open, sitting beside her, and both of them sound asleep. Now, it isn't safe for Queen mothers to go to sleep with their little Princesses beside them when their armed legions are not around, so, of course, the first thing that happened was that the wicked witch with a tall, tall red cap and a big, big red nose, made her appearance and did her worst, as witches always do.

"Now I find them sleeping, the Princess and the Queen," said the witch wickedly, and, taking the Princess by the hand, she led her off, and there you made sure of having a stolen Princess right in the first act. Then the fairies, all wearing fluffy white frocks and spangly wings and crowns of flowers, came in. They were too late to save the Princess. That was the cue for Prince John.

"Tears in the fairy land, whatever does it mean?" asked the Prince.

"It means our Princess has been stolen from the Queen," cried the fairies.

"To fight for the right is my duty as knight," said he, telling them that the dragon he'd slay the beautiful Princess to save. The audience began to be a little frightened at that, but it was only a figure of speech, and meant that the Prince was going to outwit a robber band to rescue the Princess.

The second scene was the most exciting of all. There was a tripod with a great kettle hanging from it for robber soup, and around it gathered the robber band, and such a band! Fierce mustachios, red and yellow headdresses, scarred faces, and guns.

"They are members of the Camorra," said the audience when the curtain was drawn, and that was just what they were. There was not a doubt of it. Roman scarfs were around their waists, and they sat on an Italian blanket, which was proof enough, even if one of the band had not remarked in a savage Camorrish tone:

"Well, pals, we've got to make a haul." That was where a thrill came in, for every one knew that it had something to do with the little stolen Princess. At that opportune moment the wicked witch brought her in, looking more beautiful than ever. She didn't seem to mind being stolen a bit. She smiled happily about it, held the witch's hand behind the scenes, and seemed to think it was very nice to stay with the wicked band of Camorras. They gave the witch some money, and after singing a song she vanished to make way for the Prince. Then came the rescue of the Princess.

Miss Beatrice Emery played for the operetta, and there were many assistants who helped in different ways. The play was staged by "David Fiasco."

NEW HOME FOR WOMAN'S CLUB

It Obtains a Lease of the Former Residence of Dr. Austin Flint, Jr.

The Woman's Club of New York, which has occupied quarters for the last ten years in the southern part of the Windsor Arcade, has leased for its new home the former residence of Dr. Austin Flint, Jr., at 34 East Fifty-fourth Street. This is one of the largest women's organization in the country, having at the present time 600 members drawn from nearly every State in the Union. Among the prominent members in this city are Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, Mrs. A. D. Juilliard, Mrs. Iselin, and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander.

The northern part of the Windsor Arcade, at Fifth Avenue and Forty-seventh Street, will be torn down soon after May 1 to make way for the new business building for the Sloane carpet firm. The southern part was recently leased from the Gerry estate by Robert Walton Goelet, but this section will not be torn down immediately.

The Woman's Club expects to move by Sept. 1. The Fifty-fourth Street dwelling, which is a comparatively new American basement home, will be extensively altered for the uses of the club, and when the women move in the name will be changed to the York Club. The new quarters will be within 100 feet of Madison Avenue, and in the immediate vicinity are the homes of Prof. Charles F. Chandler, Clement C. Moore, J. K. Olyphant, Edward C. Henderson, and Dr. William Henry Thompson.

Furniture That Influences

AKIN to "the little leaven that leaveneth the whole lump" is oftentimes the single piece of Furniture which gives to the whole room its air of grace and distinction.

A corner Cupboard of the time of Queen Anne, it may be, with its panelled doors below and its latticed trellis above through which is caught a gleam of Old Dutch Silver or of finely colored Porcelain, a Tabie of inlaid and painted Satinwood, perhaps, or a Fall-front Desk of rich-toned Mahogany. It is of such individual pieces as these that our Reproductions offer an opportunity of selection.

*Batted for Schardt in the eighth inning.

First base on errors—Brooklyn, 1; New York, 1. Two-base hits—Zimmerman, Doyle, Merkle. Sacrifice hit—Snodgrass. Sacrifice flies—Meyers, Doyle. Stolen bases—Murray, 2,) Devore, Hummel. Left on bases—Brooklyn, 7; New York, 3. Double plays—Hummel, Tooley, and Daubert; Daubert, (unassisted.) Bases on balls—Off Schardt, 2; off, Marquard, 5. Struck out—By Marquard, 8; by Schardt, 2. Hits—Off Schardt, 9 in seven innings; off Ragon, 2 in one inning. Umpires—Messrs. Klem and Doyle. Time of game—One hour and fifty-five minutes.

After all these long, long years of watching and waiting Richard Marquard did his noblest to measure up to his $11,000 reputation at the Polo Grounds yesterday and gave a cheerful, expectant gathering of 7,000 persons a joyful surprise by spinning the ball at the Brooklyn Dodgers in a dozen bends and twists and hurling himself to a decisive victory by a score of 7 to 1. Marquard, under the tutoring of McGraw, is a new pitcher. He has laid aside that pretzel wind-up, which threw him into a sailor knot every time he tossed the ball.

Instead of pegging the sphere over toward the grand stand "Rube" now looks the batsman square in the face and sticks the ball right over the plate. His assortment yesterday had variety and much mystery. His drop ball rode right up to the platter and dropped two feet into the catcher's mit as if dragged down by a magnet. The Brooklyn team, startled beyond expression, looked on in amazement and fell victims to the long, lanky pitcher's barrel-hoop tangents.

The big, strong, healthy Ebbets team, with every appearance of having been reared on breakfast food, crushed the ball safely just four times—count 'em—Davidson, Daubert, Wheat, and Zimmerman. These names will live in Brooklyn and go down in the chiseled records of baseball as the famous quartet which slammed the curious curves of Marquard. Eight of the others fanned—palpably fanned.

In the ninth inning, when the Giants had the game stowed away, Marquard, as if to show his cunning and mastery, gave the crowd heart failure in a little exhibition of gorgeous pitching. In this nerve-racking session he struck out Daubert, the first man who faced him. Then be presented Hummel, the slugger, with four balls. Was this intentional or was the Rube's control ebbing? The crowd looked on in wonderment. Zac Wheat came up and he fell a victim of Marquard's trickery and fanned. Coulson got four balls. That's two on the bases. Wait.

Zimmerman faces Marquard, and he, too, gets four wide, uncontrolled offerings. The bases are full.

Spread the danger net and catch Marquard when he falls. Here comes the usual eleventh hour explosion. Wait another second.

"Tex" Erwin, who can drive the ball a mile, is at the bat. The crowd waits in silent judgment. If "Tex" jolts it good night Marquard! A smile spreads over the pitcher's face. He winds up and shoots the ball across, and one, two, three, Erwin whiffs the Hilltop ozone and is out. A great shout goes up as the "Rube"—yes, he cost $11,000—sneers triumphantly at the three runners waiting on the bases, and walks to the bench. It was his hour.

Against New York Brooklyn employed a new pitcher, Schardt, and he was peppered generously by the Giant stickers. They rushed runs across when they needed them and played fast, snappy baseball. Schardt was finally knocked off the mound, and when the game was lost Dahlen sent his new pitcher, Ragon, to the rubber. Have you heard about Ragon? His name is Don Patric Carlos Ragon, and he comes from Madrid and Dublin. Mostly Dublin. The Giants hit him, too.

New York was wobbly at the start. Davidson sent a grounder to Bridwell, and the Giant short stop did a rare thing. He missed the grounder. Perhaps that kind of support will tear the heart out of "Rube" and perhaps it won't. The last is right. He went at it hot and heavy and unfurled his long port side arm, directing the ball at the Brooklyn batters with killing effect.

While Marquard had the Brooklyns standing on their ears the Giants were tapping Schardt hard for runs. In the second inning Brooklyn started the scoring and got its only tally. Wheat singled and scored on Zimmerman's two-base crash to left field. Then "Rube" locked up his chest of hits and tossed the key away.

New York took the lead in the second stanza. Murray walked, stole a base, and went to third on a bad throw by Daubert, scoring on Merkle's single. Bridwell singled and Devlin forced him at second. Meyers pushed a sacrifice fly to left and Merkle scored.

Two more runs in the third inning. Devore singled. Doyle's whistling two-bagger and Zimmerman's error helped to do it.

Devore's hot single in the fifth inning, a steal to second, and a dash to third on Erwin's error, with Doyle's sacrifice fly, added another run.

Still another was registered in the sixth chapter on Merkle's double, a double play, and a single by the Indian. The final run came in the eighth inning, when Murray tore off a safety, stole second, and scored on a timely rap by Bridwell.

There's a youngster on the Brooklyn team named Tooley. He plays short stop, and honest, he is all hot sand and pepper. So if you want to see some smooth short stop work turn your eye on this Tooley-ooley-ooley-ooley-oo.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 18.—The New York Americans ran up against a snag to-day, when the Senators checked their winning streak by administering a shut-out, 2 to 0, due to the effective twirling of the veteran "Long Tom" Hughes, who received a chance to "come back" after a year in a minor league. Only four scattered hits, of which two went to the credit of Jim Vaugnn, were allowed the Yankees, and Washington's two errors did no damage. Vaughn was hit hard, but gave a wonderful exhibition of tightening up when men were on bases. On two different occasions the home team had the sacks full, with nobody out, and Vaughn retired the next three batters in order.

Milan robbed the Yankees of two hits by sensational running catches in the outfield. In the eighth, when "Birdie" Cree had reached first base and two were out, Ed Sweeney clubbed the ball almost to the centre field fence. The catch seemed impossible, but Milan, by fast sprinting, managed to get under the ball and pulled it down after a leap into the air.

Jack Knight had a hard day at second base, handling thirteen chances with only one error. This miscue came at an unfortunate time and helped along the first Washington tally.

Roy Hartzell played a grand game at third base, and Capt. Chase, as usual, was the star on first base. Sweeney also made a good job of it behind the bat.

The Yankees' best chance to score came in the third inning, when with one out Vaughn reached second on a single and Hanny's error. The top of the Yanks' batting order was up, but Hughes easily disposed of Wolter and Hemphill. Hartzell reached third base in the fourth inning with two out, but Hughes had "Birdie" Cree guessing, and the midget fanned.

In the seventh inning Cree, after Chase had perished, cracked out a pretty three-bagger to deep right. Otis Johnson popped up to Henry and Milan pulled off his sensational catch on Sweeney's skyscraper.

The Senators had the bases full in the fourth and seventh innings with nobody out, but Vaughn settled down each time and was invincible, retiring the three succeeding batters on easy pop flies or infield rollers.

Washington scored its first run in the fourth inning. Cunningham led with a single, Conway sacrificed, Henry grounded to Knight, who juggled the ball. Cunningham tried to steal home, but Knight's throw nailed him by a narrow margin. McBride smashed the ball to left field, and Henry crossed the plate.

A single by McBride in the Senators' sixth inning, together with an infield out, and a two-bagger by Tom Hughes added another tally.

Hughes's twirling was easily the feature. The veteran was released to Minneapolis last season and helped that club win the American Association pennant. His work was so good that Manager McAleer quickly snapped him up last Fall, and as Hughes is taking the best care of himself, it looks like he would disprove the theory that "they never come back."

SHOW HORSE PAIR FOR $4,400

Capital prices were obtained last night at the concluding session of the sale of horses, the property of W. H. Moore, the well-known exhibitor of show horses. Many of those disposed of have won in international and National shows, the majority being of distinctly good class. It had been fancied that with the present condition of the market that most of the animals would be led out of the ring without a bid being announced, but with the progress of the sale keen competition ensued for the possession of those knocked down.

P. E. H. Bennett, manager for E. D. Marsh of Boston, had a commission to buy Leander and Terrington Leah, winners at the London show last year, for $1,500, but was soon put of the bidding, as the pair eventually brought $1,100 and $2,850, respectively. King and Queen of the West, a pair always in the ribbons at shows, fetched the top price, being bought by Charles Hicks for Mortimer Schiff for $4,400.

Bit of Fashion went to Robert A. Fairburn of Westfield, N. J., for $1,250. The purchaser is a judge at the international horse show in London, England. Empress and Cinquoto, bought singly for $430 and $420, respectively, by W. J. McKittrick, eventually found a new owner in the person of H. O. Pierce of Leominster, Mass., for an advance of $50. The summary:

COLUMBIA GETS ONE HIT AND NO RUNS

Dartmouth Bags Two Runs in Eighth Inning of an Exciting Game.

Holding Columbia to one hit, the Dartmouth baseball nine shut out the Blue and White in an exciting game on South Field yesterday afternoon by a score of 2 to 0. It was a pitcher's battle from the start, and had Murray Lee, who twirled the entire game for Columbia, been properly backed up, the six hits scored off him would have had little to do with the final score. The home team was guilty of six errors, as against only one on the part of the Hanover team, and on one of these costly slips the winning runs were brought in by Dartmouth.

Steen got on first base in the eighth inning through an error at short, and was advanced to second on what Ekstrom meant for a sacrifice, but which, for some reason, Lee let go right past him after running up to it, allowing it to count as a hit. Two men were then put out, but one on a sacrifice that advanced the men to third and second, respectively. Emerson then knocked out a hit between first and second, and the two runs were brought in. The score:

THE MEXICAN CRISIS.

While the withdrawal of the rebels from Agua Prieta and the entry of the Federal troops into that city must have tended in some measure to allay the excitement in the City of Mexico, it is impossible to disregard the plain warning of the dispatches that the situation in the Mexican capital is critical. A bill was introduced in Congress yesterday providing for a new election. In his message of April 1, in which so many concessions are made, President DIAZ said that no new election would be held. The election bill must therefore be construed as a further and important concession on his part, but it is something more than that. It is an admission that the election held last year was unconstitutional. Nobody will believe that DIAZ has voluntarily made this new overture for peace by granting the vital demand of the insurrectionists. That is not his nature. He has yielded, manifestly, because further resistance was out of the question.

Evidently the resolute old man realizes, at last, that his power is shaken. The insurrectionists are more active than ever, and they do not appear to be losing ground. They evacuated Agua Prieta, not because they were vanquished in the battle, but because their ammunition gave out, and last night they seemed to have received fresh supplies. As they appear to be well supplied with money from some unknown source, they have little difficulty in replenishing their stores of ammunition. Already there are rumors that fighting in the neighborhood of Juarez is imminent. So far from putting down the rebellion, the Federal forces do not seem to be able to hold it in check. Sooner or later this must mean the overthrow of DIAZ, unless he has the good sense to retire voluntarily. The inference from the introduction of the new election bill would be that he takes this view of the matter.

In regard to the perils growing out of the exasperating situation in Douglas, Ariz., President TAFT's dispatch to the Governor of Arizona, while it was most wise and sensible and will be approved by American public opinion, shows how ill-suited our form of Government is for adventure, or even for emergency. There is probably no other Government on earth which would feel it necessary to take the whole people into its confidence in matters of foreign policy, and particularly in matters of war. With the utmost frankness President TAFT advises Gov. SLOAN that the best way to avert trouble on the border is "to direct the people of Douglas to place themselves where bullets cannot reach them, and thus avoid casualties." This reflects a policy of forbearance, and so remarkable a degree of forbearance that it can hardly fail to make an impression upon some of our friends abroad who cannot rid their minds of the belief that we intend to intervene in Mexico, and, possibly, annex that republic.

It is hardly necessary to say that the people of Douglas have a right to go about their concerns free from all Mexican molestation, and that, when they suffer wounds or death from bullets coming from the battleground of Agua Prieta, an occasion has arisen which would warrant our interference and the use of whatever measures, of whatever force, might be necessary to insure the safety of our people. Any European Government would have taken such steps at once, without waiting to communicate with the Governor of a local State or province. President TAFT has pursued what everybody must see is the wiser course. We are not seeking trouble with Mexico or in Mexico. We are disposed to take every permissible step to avoid it. When the President points out that forcible interference with Mexican doings at Agua Prieta would be likely to increase the danger to which Americans in Mexico are exposed, he gives a good and sufficient reason for the policy of patience and forbearance which he enjoins upon the people of Douglas. Even that course has its embarrassments, for the Mexicans, whether Federals or rebels, who reason in their own way about such things, might be persuaded that since we feel that our nationals in the City of Mexico and elsewhere in that republic are in a sense hostages, we are estopped from interfering at all, and that they may with impunity continue their fighting along our border line. If they should act in that spirit, they would be speedily undeceived, for, of course, forbearance does at some point cease to be a virtue, and at whatever risk, we should have to take such measures as, in its judgment, our Government approves.

We have no wish to influence the determination of the issue between the Diaz Government and the insurrectionists. The Mexican people must settle their domestic affairs in their own way. If we have to intervene at all, it will be because they show themselves incapable of reaching any adjustment whatever, because all Government breaks down in Mexico, and a condition of practical anarchy prevails. The Mexicans themselves can do much to make the probability of our interference more remote. If they have the good sense to refrain from hostilities at points so near our border that our own citizens are imperiled, we shall be able to view their unfortunate strife with that impartiality which becomes a friendly nation strictly maintaining its neutral attitude toward both parties to the controversy. It is gratifying that Minister WILSON has been able to transmit to President TAFT the assurance of the Diaz Government that henceforth "a definite restrictive policy along the border" will be adopted by the Federal troops.

THE ANTI-VIVISECTIONISTS' BILL.

Who is behind the Bayne bill to "investigate" the practice of experiment upon animals performed in behalf of humanity by the best doctors in this land? What is their object? Investigations are usually brought about to determine fully the extent of abuses of which there is known evidence. Have these agitators ever produced a scintilla of evidence which would bear a moment's examination that secret cruelties are practiced by the doctors of this State, or that the results of their experiments, which have been fruitful in preventing and remedying grievous ills, have not received the fullest publicity? They know that the inferior medical schools are not equipped with laboratories for experimental work; they know that the superior schools, which alone practice upon animals, have provided every method known to science to make this practice humane and merciful. But they have deceived some who have allowed their hearts rather than their minds to guide them into believing otherwise.

Their work is tragically mischievous. The investigating commission which they propose would be a partisan commission. And the upshot of their report would be more agitation, more importunities from the coddlers of pet animals to stay the intelligent hands that are reaching out in succor to the deathbeds of the people. There is in force a rigorous law against cruelty to animals. Without the slightest evidence of cruelties and deceit which this law does not reach, why disturb the activities of the humanest of all human professions?

THE INCOME TAX.

Arkansas's ratification of the income tax amendment was reported yesterday, together with favorable action by the lower houses of Florida and Massachusetts. For final adoption ten more ratifications are necessary, and must be sought among the States which have rejected it but may change their minds, and the eleven States which have not yet recorded their votes. New York has once voted no, and an attempt is now to be made to add it to the present twenty-five ayes. If the Nation needed the money there would be no opposition to the laying of even an income tax. But the case is that there is something like a revolt against taxation for waste, so that it is a patriotic duty to examine closely any fresh proposal, and to see that it merits support. The pending amendment is objectionable not because it empowers the levying of an income tax, but because it does so without safeguards which citizens and States ought to insist upon, irrespective of their views about the principle of an income tax.

It is true that a State cannot individually levy an income tax effectively, since those subject to the tax would flee from it, in the manner that testators are fleeing from the inheritance tax of New York. But it does not follow that the States ought to surrender this resource to the Nation unreservedly. There are ample precedents for the levying and collection of a tax by a superior jurisdiction, and division of the proceeds with the inferior jurisdiction. Thus New York State levies and collects and makes partial return to the municipalities of certain taxes. There is no such provision in the pending amendment regarding the income tax. The States surrender unreservedly where they ought at least to surrender on terms, and with reservation of some portion of the proceeds to themselves. This is prudence on the part of the rich States and mere equity on the part of the poor States. The necessity of the reservation appears sufficiently by the plain declaration of some States that they support the tax because they are poor, and want the rich States to bear a larger share of the general burden. If the majority by number coincided with the majority by wealth the tax would not be levied. It is an attempt by spenders to tax possessors. It is a discrimination against wealth, and disfranchisement of those who are the best judges of how money should be raised and spent to advantage. It invites a repetition by the Nation of such a riot of extravagance as New York State has experienced when the proceeds of unnecessary and unwise taxation crowded its coffers. This State of all others ought to hesitate to be an accomplice in any such abuse of taxation.

The case is the same where the income tax as proposed by this amendment touches the individual instead of the State. Just as there are States which support the present proposal because they believe that other States will pay it, so there are millions who reckon it a good thing because they think that it will be paid by thousands among whom they will not be counted. They would do well to make sure of it. There is nothing said about the payment of this tax by the rich, and the exemption of the poor. It not only subjects everything to taxation, but it stipulates nothing about the exemption of any person, however modest his income. It enables the Nation to tax resources not Federal, and it authorizes the taxation of classes which certainly would be exempt under any scheme of taxation by States. After the amendment is ratified it will be too late to safeguard such matters. The hesitating States would do well to take the precautions which the ratifying States have neglected. They might indorse the tax in principle, and ask for stipulations regarding the subjects and modes of levying the tax. The ratifications will keep, and there is no haste.

These are not times when such considerations can be left to legislative discretion. There is hardly a topic which State or National legislators have touched which they have not bungled. All the intellect of the country may not be outside the Legislatures, but surely there is no presumption that it is all inside. When Congress legislated about banking it would not consult bankers. When it legislates about taxation it does not ask the opinions of those who are informed on the subject. It enacts in haste, and the country repents at leisure. This is particularly true regarding the income tax amendment. It is far from representing the considered opinion of Congress. No time was spent on it apart from that necessary for the formalities. There was no inquiry, and no discussion worthy of the name. It is a political dodge, adopted from the most questionable of motives. It is part of the price paid for the enactment of a tariff law which was adopted under false pretenses, and which the country is rejecting in such a frame of mind as it is to be hoped may not come to be repeated in the case of the income tax amendment. The economy which the State of New York so greatly needs for itself it ought to impose upon the Nation so far as its vote goes under present conditions.

THE FIRE INQUEST.

The finding of the Coroner's jury in the case of the destruction of life in the Asch Building fire reinforces the conclusion that the tenants of that structure should be held to strict legal responsibility for the consequences of whatever neglect or willful violation of law they have been guilty of. The verdict in the particular case of loss of life turns, as did the indictment by the Grand Jury, on the treatment of the means of escape for employés. We have no desire to prejudice the rights of the accused, but it is clearly well that the machinery of the law has been set to work to try to fix legal blame and exact the penalty the law calls for.

Meanwhile we note with no surprise that the Coroner's jury was unable to determine that any one department of the City Government is responsible clearly and solely for the calamity. The jury recommends, very properly, that this state of affairs shall be remedied. The exact methods by which this can be done are likely to be ascertained more effectively by the commission appointed on the motion of President MCANENY in the Board of Estimate. But there is one point in connection with this that has not received the attention it deserves, and we trust that the Board of Estimate's Commission will take it up with care. That is an efficient mode of enforcing requirements. It really amounts to nothing if we have the power to prescribe the most thorough precautions and have no power immediately and completely to secure their adoption. The present system of suits for damages or fines is simply ludicrous. It hardly secures more than a certain annoyance to the guilty persons, who can often afford to ignore the penalties and defer them as long as possible, and finally pay them.

What is needed, after a proper system of requirements is framed, and an effective system of inspection established, is the power in some responsible officer to close buildings at once until compliance with orders is at least effectively begun and carried forward in good faith. That would be a law with real teeth in it. There is, by the way, no requirement that should thus be enforced more rigidly than that of fire drill in every building where the employment of many persons is allowed. The general purpose to prevent fire, to put out fire promptly, and to provide for the escape of those exposed to fire, this could be served best by the exercise of the power to close buildings where legal requirements were not complied with.

POLITICAL SUICIDE.

The so-called "Progressives" in the Republican ranks in Congress seem to have made up their minds to commit hara-kiri. In old Japan this was the authorized way of escaping the consequences of an unpardonable fault. It was supposed to secure in the next world the peace and comfort to which in this life the victims had forfeited their right. The Progressives, however, will have no such consolation. Their offense is sheer stupidity, for which there is no atonement politically, here or hereafter. One of these gentlemen, being asked in debate in the House if he did not condemn his party's Tariff act as a betrayal of party pledges, frankly said yes, and then proceeded to oppose Canadian reciprocity, which is a practical step toward fulfilling those pledges, and the only one now in sight. He is reported to represent his fellow-Progressives, who will nearly all follow in his ridiculous footsteps. In the Senate it is expected that the Progressives will try to kill the reciprocity agreement by amendment as well as by direct vote.

It is hardly needful to describe or comment on this policy from the point of view of morals. Rudimentary consciousness of right and wrong would be sufficient to condemn it. Men who pursue the public good only when it advances their private or factional interests and promptly sacrifice it when those interests demand, cannot be argued with on moral grounds. But it is perhaps not too late to call their attention to a few facts that will show how very foolish their policy is. The first of these is that the tariff as it stands is hopelessly bad, unjust, oppressive, wasteful, and costly to the whole country. The second is that the people are all the while becoming more and more aware of this and are determined to have a substantial change. The third is that all the political strength the Progressives have acquired—and at the opening of the extra session it was so considerable that it might have been made controlling—is due to their labors in opposing the Payne-Aldrich tariff. They had the chance to take a leading, responsible, honorable, and popular part in bringing about the revolution on which the country is determined. At this juncture President TAFT came forward with Canadian reciprocity, a solid slice of tariff reform, in a practical shape. What was the issue that was thus presented to the Progressives? It was the very simple one whether they would take command of the situation, press the President's plan to a prompt and hearty acceptance, and reap the prestige and popular confidence due to such action, or whether they would leave the field to the Democrats. They seem to have chosen the latter course.

In the House the Democrats have been as sensible and shrewd as the Progressives have been silly. They will send over to the Senate to-morrow the Canadian reciprocity legislation precisely as the President asked for it, and as it was framed under his guidance by Mr. MCCALL at the last session. Nothing could have done so much to establish them in the esteem of the people. Their action has been perfectly consistent, loyal to their own principles, and at the same time loyal to the broad interests of the country. Probably there will be some Democratic defection among the Protectionist Senators from the South. But the chances are that the legislation will be adopted in spite of the opposition of the Progressives, and these gentlemen will then be left high and dry, exposed to the distrust, the disapproval, and the contempt of the very class to which they have appealed in the past, and the only class they could appeal to in the future. It is a great pity, for there were able and true men among them who could have done good service in the economic readjustment of the National policy, had they had a loyal following. The consolation lies in the fact that the movement for sound tariff reform, of which Canadian reciprocity is the first fruit, will go on and the suicidal folly of a few weak men will not greatly interfere with it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Fire Fighting of a New Kind.

That Chief CROKER is something more than a particularly courageous and efficient fighter of fires is shown by the sort of work he purposes to do after he quits the department. Not only has he been thinking about the prevention of fires, while so much of his time and energy has been devoted to putting them out, but he has come to realize, as the vast majority of the American people have not yet done, that while it is a fine thing to extinguish fires once started, or, when that is impossible, to prevent their spread to adjoining property, it would be a much finer thing to prevent the fires from starting at all.

Like the doctors, Mr. CROKER'S attention has been attracted to the preventive side of his profession, as vastly more important than the curative, but just what he is going to do, and just what he can accomplish, remain to be seen. His announcement of his intentions does not make clear whether he will content himself with preaching—and selling—precautionary devices to reduce the fire risk in buildings where that risk is more or less high without them, or whether his efforts will be directed further back, to where the beginning and the cause of our enormous annual fire loss lie.

That a time will ever come when all our buildings will be really fireproof is hardly to be expected, but already we have a few in the larger cities that make a fairly close approach to that ideal, and the constantly advancing price of lumber has the one advantage of turning our attention more and more toward other and better materials. It can be expected, therefore, that after a while our fires will be no more extensive or numerous than they are now in European cities of the better sort, and that will mark an enormous advance.

Probably we shall not, with anything like unanimity, build as well as we know how until to do so becomes cheaper than to build ill, or at least not much more expensive. It can, indeed, be argued plausibly that such is already the case, everything considered, including insurance and the expense of Fire Departments, as well as direct fire losses, but to consider everything is not yet our way, and we go on taking pride in the exploits of our highly trained firemen when we ought really to be ashamed of giving them a chance to learn so much and so many opportunities for the display of heroism.

Cab Stands Again Considered.

Public cabs, whether horse-drawn or propelled by engines, have, of course, as much right to use the streets as other vehicles, and nobody can or does complain of that. They have no more, however, and to give them practically exclusive possession of certain sections of street surface on which to stand while waiting for customers is a very special and highly anomalous privilege, well calculated to excite the wonder no less than the envy of all the business men who are not only expected but compelled to own or rent the property in or on which they keep and display their stock in trade, whatever it may be, until somebody comes along who wants to buy it.

This privilege would be justified, perhaps, if it gave the city a cheap cab service, or even one cheaper than could otherwise be obtained, but there is little or no reason for believing that by their existence the stands keep down cab fares at all, and we know that they are not low. The stands do, indeed, bring in a small revenue to the city, and to that extent are to the common advantage, but what the cab owners pay the city is only a minute fraction of the amount paid to the property owners who for one reason or another consider it desirable to have cabs constantly stationed in front of their premises. The "consumer" pays both exactions, naturally—and a little more—and probably quite as much as he would have to pay if the cab owners did business in the ordinary way.

Another phase of this question relates to the great expenditures which the city is incurring, and those which it is imposing upon a good many of its citizens, in widening streets. In more than a few instances the space thus gained has at once been utilized for a new cab stand, and so the facilities for general traffic have been lessened rather than increased by the "improvement." The irritation thus produced is not mitigated by the manners of the cabmen, who seem to think—as they have some excuse for thinking—that they have special rights as well as special privileges in the streets, and who often resent or prevent the ordinary citizen's vindication of his claim to access to the sidewalk.

Mindanao Needs a Lesson.

Until the news came from Mindanao, this week, of the killing of Lieutenant RODNEY by one of the Moslem fanatics called in that part of the world "juramentados," it had been supposed that the particular form of insanity thus described had been abolished throughout our Eastern possessions.

Some years ago it was not infrequent for a Malay with some particular grievance against the conduct of affairs around him, to decide that life was no longer worth living and that he would go out of it in the fine frenzy of hand-to-hand battle. What made this scheme especially attractive to the Malay mind was the assumption that it provided a short and straight road to Paradise. Such a man would rush through the streets, attacking everybody he met and killing as many as he could before he was himself killed.

To discourage this most troublesome practice, an American army officer whose name history has not recorded thought up the plan of killing a pig over the occupied but still open grave of each "juramentado" and then covering man and animal together and in close contact. That was a form of burial which, in Malay opinion, made it certain that, wherever the "juramentado" passed his next existence, it wouldn't be in Paradise, and the first performance of the rather horrible ceremony deprived such deaths of all their previous attractions for a long time.

Apparently the lesson has now been forgotten or its effect has worn off. Whether or not it should be at once repeated is a matter of opinion, but "running amuck" is an evil sufficiently desperate to justify almost any remedy that experience has proved to be effective.

WOMEN NIGHT WORKERS.

Consumers' League Wants Conditions of Their Labor Investigated.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In May, 1909, the Court of Appeals of the State of New York decided (People vs. Williams, 189, New York Reporter, 131) that the amendment to the Labor Laws, Section 77, which prohibited the labor of women after nine o'clock in the evening of any day, was unconstitutional. This amendment to the Labor Law, prohibiting night work for women, had been secured on the grounds that such work was particularly dangerous to women and that in going to and from their work very late at night, they were liable to insult and attack. Sunday night an attack upon a telephone girl returning from her work at midnight illustrated strikingly this contention.

The Consumers' League wishes to point out to the public the fact that this incident, which because of its dramatic results finds notice in the press, is only one illustration of hundreds of unpleasant and dangerous situations in which telephone girls and others returning from late night work are placed. This decision of the Court of Appeals, which allows women to work at night, must be held directly responsible for the annoyances and the dangers which they encounter when engaged in earning their bread. Telephone operators form one of the largest groups of women night workers. For some months the Consumers' League has been asking for a special investigation by the Department of Labor of the conditions of work of the women so employed. With this striking example before the public of the telephone girls' difficulties, there should be a strong demand for such an investigation and for suitable legislation to prohibit night work of women and young girls.

A Defense of War.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The picture you reproduce in your Sunday's paper representing death as the greatest general and the only victor in war is a striking example of the untruthfulness, or at least the unfairness, of the arguments we hear to-day in behalf of peace.

War is hell, but history tells us that it is the great school of duty and self-sacrifice. Nowhere else do we find such terrific demands made upon men's sense of duty. There are few, if any, wars which do not leave us more self-sacrificing, which do not, too, leave us a legacy of inspiration that no money, no blood even, can ever value. The flags which will be carried up Fifth Avenue to-day bear their own lesson, for they recall our great National sacrifice, and the memory of that is power.

No, death is not the only victor in war; the thrill which will go through thousands at the sight of our battle flags—that is the real victor, for it is the memory and inspiration of deeds imperishable.

Gates Closed After Trains Start.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In these days, when the mind of the public is so strongly centred upon the question of preventing avoidable accidents, permit me the use of the valued columns of THE TIMES for calling attention to an evil that can and ought to be stopped at once. I refer to the practice on the part of the guards of rear cars of elevated trains of ringing the bells before all the passengers have gotten aboard and the gates have been closed. Oftentimes the trains are already pulling out, while the guards are still struggling to shut the gates of the crowded platform—and this in the face of the law, a copy of which is conspicuously framed, requiring gates to be securely closed before the signal for starting the train is given!

ROEBLINGS ANSWER WALSH.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In view of the publicity given to the discharge from employment of Assemblyman Walsh by the John A. Roebling's Sons Company, I desire to make a statement of facts connected therewith.

Mr. Walsh was employed about nine years ago in a subordinate capacity as a wire tester in the insulated wire department of this company, and performed his duties in an acceptable manner. In 1906 he made an application for financial assistance because he had purchased a house and had had sickness in his family; his request was granted and $400 was loaned him, and subsequently he repaid the advance. In December last he came again, stating he needed financial assistance on account of his election expenses; his application was again granted, and he has since repaid the loan. If I made a statement that I paid his election expenses outright, I was either misunderstood or I expressed myself poorly, the facts being as above stated.

His assertion or that of his friends that he was paid full time, notwithstanding his continued absence during the last session of the Legislature, is true, and the matter may be considered one not to his disadvantage. Conditions during this year, however, have absolutely changed; the business of the insulated wire department, in which Mr. Walsh was employed, resulted in a very great financial loss in 1910, and consequently during the present year every possible economy has been enforced, and payment for services not rendered has been out of the question. These are the reasons why Mr. Walsh lost his situation; on the whole I think he has been very well treated by my company.

As far as I can ascertain, no responsible person connected with my company ever had any conversation with Assemblyman Walsh on the subject of the employers' liability law, neither did we say anything to influence any person one way or another regarding it. I asked Mr. Walsh to support Senator Smith, and gave him my reasons for it, they being that he had been an acquaintance for many years and friendly to New Jersey interests during his term of office. Mr. Walsh stated why he could not support ex-Senator Smith, and that was the end of the matter; I have never seen or spoken to Mr. Walsh since or sent him any message or request.

Dragging the City Building Commission into this matter savors of malice; the commission is amply able to take care of itself, having erected the new City Hall within the appropriation and without one cent spent dishonestly, and it is quite willing to leave its acts to the judgment of the decent people of Trenton.

Wasps In Country Houses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. "B. M. C." has my sympathy—he will probably find that the wasps have "nested" either in walls or under flooring. I am suffering with the same complaint, but their peregrinations have so far been confined to the attic. The windows having been closed throughout the Winter, their abode somewhere within the house is obvious. Cannot some one help us in the rout of this insidious enemy, which has on more than one occasion caused the partaking of meals from the shelf.

B. ADLY STUNG.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In answer to the gentleman who inquires in to-day's TIMES for a sure method of exterminating wasps, I would say: When you have come in contact with a wasp, direct his attention by pointing, to an object on the horizon. When his back is turned, slap him on the head. This will immediately render him unconscious, as a wasp has a very delicate nervous system. When this has been accomplished cut his throat with a sharp knife! This is the most thorough and humane way.

Card from Assemblyman Warren.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of even date on page 20 you speak of a certain bill of Assemblyman Oliver, recently disapproved by the Mayor, which provided that the Supreme Court might in certain cases give an increased compensation to the commissioners in condemnation proceedings. In your news article you state: "Several of the Republican Legislators from this city protested." The inference is that all of the Democratic members from New York City supported the measure. The records of the Assembly will show that I, for one, spoke against the measure and that Assemblyman A. Parker, W. R. Herrick, Mork, Friedman, and myself, all Democrats from New York City, voted against the bill. If my memory serve me rightly there were others besides the five named who did likewise.

An examination of the roll call on the final passage of the bill in question will disclose the interesting fact that it was passed by the votes of certain Republican members whose names come toward the end of the alphabet and who, by reason of this fact, were able to see that the bill needed their votes.

"Hot" Water and Wasted Water.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to confirm the statement of "A Flat Dweller" in THE TIMES of this date that the waste of water in this city is very largely due to the coldness of the "hot" water. In fact, lately, in a large apartment house on the east side complaint was answered by the admonition, "You should let the water run longer," and I have found the lack of hot water not only common but usual, even in higher-priced apartments on the west side.

Landlords might be charged for the actual quantity of water used as measured by a meter; it would then be to their interest to encourage their tenants against such waste.

Loafing City Employes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If the Bureau of Municipal Research wants to find out how city employes loaf on their jobs, let them send a man and watch the gang working at a repairing job in the Battery basin at Pier A, North River. There are a dozen men who have been there nearly a week, and they have driven about a dozen piles. About a month ago they painted the old piles white with red tops and last week they pulled them up.

State Four Per Cent. Bonds.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The New York State 4 per cent. bonds do not carry the special 1 per cent. franchise tax exemption. This exemption applies only to the 3 per cent. bonds. (See Section 190 of the Tax Law, being part of the Consolidated Laws of 1909.) Financial institutions, that is to say, insurance companies, trust companies, and savings banks, do not receive any tax exemption benefit from the 4 per cent. bonds.

THE FUTURE SCHOLAR.

George Bernard Shaw, in a recent lecture in London, predicted that in the schools of the future every child would be free to quit the moment the teacher bored him.

Child of To-morrow! when you have elected to Visit your schoolroom—oh, how will it be
When you are caught unprepared and expected to Mention the total of seven times three?
What will you do in that moment of awe,
Under the system of G. Bernard Shaw?

Will you take fright at your teacher's asperity,
Lapse into tears and have nothing to say?
Will you resort to the harrowing verity?
Will you try guessing and hazard the day?
Possibly you will endeavor to look

No; this is agony furnishing daily a
Reason for change to a kindlier rule.
Calmly you'll gather your paraphernalia
Up and depart from the wearisome school,
Merely remarking, when leaving the door,
"Teacher, so-long! You're a regular bore!"

ASSOCIATED PRESS SERVICE BY 'PHONE

Thirty Newspapers, Mostly in the Central West, Getting the News That Way Now.

SYSTEM IS WORKING WELL

Regular Call Periods of Thirty Minutes Fixed for Day and Night, with Experts at the Wire.

About thirty newspapers, the greater part of them in the Central West, are receiving the Associated Press service now by telephone instead of telegraph. In almost every instance this change was brought about by the action of the Inter-State Commerce Commission in assuming control of the telegraph companies.

A group of papers taking the service from any one central office is known as a circuit, and some of these circuits were stretched over such a sparse territory that it was impossible at the start to institute the telegraph service on any mileage basis, such as obtains in the greater part of the country. In these cases the companies granted flat rates. No other arrangement would have made reasonably possible, it was said at the Associated Press office here yesterday, the supplying, for instance, of El Paso with the news from the most convenient central office in Denver.

When the Inter-State Commerce Commission reached its decision affecting telegraph companies last August, the companies notified the Associated Press that they could no longer continue what looked like rate discrimination and some other plan had to be hit upon. In the case of El Paso a leased wire had to be obtained, but in many cases it was decided to substitute the telephone for the telegraph.

This idea was not a new one. It had been suggested some years before, but dropped because many of the officers were skeptical as to its efficiency. They felt that the telephone system at that time lacked privacy, for then it was impossible to tell when some one was cutting in and listening to the news as it passed. Subsequent improvements in the telephone and the necessity of the situation have led to the present change, and telephone service is now sent out from Chicago, Cincinnati, Oklahoma City, Milwaukee, Omaha, St. Louis, and St. Paul. It is reported as working in a most satisfactory manner.

Arrangements are made whereby several receiving points are connected, and all get the same service at one sending. A central office was installed at Des Moines for this sort of service exclusively, and the news is sent on from there to Marshalltown, Cedar Rapids, and to two papers at Waterloo.

Fixed call periods are set for both afternoon and evening, each period of a half hour's length. The material to be sent in any given period is arranged and written with the idea of its taking just a half hour to read, and this experience shows, allows some 1,200 words. The central telephone operator has the schedule of periods on file, and for the reading at nine o'clock she begins beforehand to connect the towns and the newspaper offices in them so that at nine o'clock she is able to notify the central office that the wire is ready.

Then the news is read into a special instrument and in each newspaper office on the circuit an expert typist, wearing a head telephone receiver, takes down the news as it comes. This system is more direct than by telegraph, but it does not permit of the abbreviations and all the offices must wait while the sender repeats for any one that does not hear distinctly. After a little practice, however, it is found that senders and receivers harmonize their methods and work with a minimum amount of friction and delay.

The only town that takes the telephone service from Albany is Oneonta. The greatest distance over which this means of sending the news is used is that from Chicago to Houghton and Marquette, Mich. The amount sent varies throughout the service from 1,000 to 5,000 words.

MISS TILFORD BRIDE OF S. C. MORTIMER

Large Assembly in St. Thomas's Church at Wedding of Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Tilford.

ELABORATE FLORAL DISPLAY

Bride Wears a Diamond Necklace, the Gift of Bridegroom—Choral Service with Ceremony—The Reception.

The wedding of Stanley C. Mortimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mortimer of Tuxedo Park and a nephew of Stanley Mortimer, to Miss Katherine H. Tilford, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Tilford, attracted a large and fashionable assembly yesterday afternoon at St. Thomas's Church.

Tall standards, topped with American Beauty roses and twined with asparagus, lined the nave on both sides. The chancel was hung with green and banked with palms, forming a background for a mass of pink azaleas, white hydrangeas, and marguerites. Curtains of trailing green screened the side of the church, while ropes of smilax marked the intersection of the pews.

The ushers who seated the guests were John Rutherfurd, Griswold Lorillard, J. Harry Hooker, Richmond Talbot, Gallatin Pell, and Grafton Chapman.

A full choral service was used in connection with the ceremony, which took place at 4:30. The bride, walking up the nave with her father, wore a white satin gown with a court train, and an old family lace veil surmounted by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her gown was also trimmed in old family lace, in panel effect. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and wore a diamond necklace, with pear-shaped solitaire pendants, the gift of the bridegroom.

Preceding the bride, and walking behind the four bridesmaids, was little Miss Annette Tilford, a younger sister of the bride, who wore a costume of palest pink with a basket hat trimmed with rosebuds. The bridesmaids, who were the Misses Wilfreda Mortimer, Rose Kane, Lelia Haven, and Virginia Alexandre, were gowned alike in pink chiffon over pink satin, with light-blue velvet sashes. Their straw hats were trimmed with wreathes of pink roses with bands of blue velvet. They all carried bouquets of Killarney roses.

Richard Mortimer, Jr., acted as best man for his brother. The Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires performed the ceremony.

A large reception was held after the church ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, 24 West Fifty-second Street. The bride and bridegroom received the congratulations of their relatives and friends under a bower of roses in the north end of the drawing room. The drawing room and library adjoining were both decorated with American Beauty roses, palms, and Spring flowers. A wedding collation was served in the large dining room, opening off from the library.

Later the couple left for the South on their bridal trip. Upon their return they will take possession of their villa at Tuxedo.

The piece centres on the adventures of the Ford family of Peoria, Ill., and more especially the daughter Polly, Miss Ella Lawnnel Lewis, who is supposed to be the heiress to some of the millions that her father made in the manufacture of plows, and has numerous admirers. The scene is laid at a Jersey coast resort in the Summer of 1910.

The wedding of H. Schuyler Cammann, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hermann H. Cammann, and Miss Katharine Van Rensselaer Fairfax, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton R. Fairfax, was celebrated at 3:30 yesterday afternoon in Grace Church, Bishop Greer and the Rev. Charles T. Slattery, rector of Grace Church, officiating.

The church was decorated with Easter lillies, which were massed about the chancel with palms, and large clusters of lillies were tied to the pews in the nave.

The service was a full choral one, the choir coming down to the foot of the nave to meet the bridal party, which was led by the ushers, who were Hamilton Van Rensselaer Fairfax, Lewis Gouverneur Morris, Charles Macdonald, Stephen Van Rensselaer, Henry Weisse, and Henry L. Bogert, Jr.

These were followed by the bridesmaids, who were the Misses Estelle Morris Crosby, Helen Le Roy Miller, Gladys Howland Pell, Harriet Van Courtlandt Ogden, Mary Morris Ostrander, and Virginia Livingston Hunt. They wore pink chiffon tunics over pink satin, and large pink straw hats trimmed with many pale pink roses and bows of lace at the side, and all carried pink roses.

She carried a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley. The bride also wore a pearl necklace, the gift of her parents, to which was attached a diamond pendant, the gift of the bridegroom.

A slight alarm was caused during the ceremony among those seated near the chancel, when one of the flower girls, Miss Grace Fairfax, fainted, owing to excitement and the warmth of the church, but as this occurred during the prayer many did not see it, and the little girl was carried to the vestry room by several relatives, where she recovered almost immediately.

The church ceremony was followed by a reception at the Fairfax residence, 1,009 Madison Avenue, which was decorated with Easter lilies and white roses, the young couple receiving congratulations under a wedding bell of white flowers.

Miss Edith Vail Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Graham Gardner of 19 West Eighty-fourth Street, was married to Edward Milton Berry yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The Rev. Arthur S. Judge performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Henry Mottet, rector of the Church of the Holy Communion.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with a Court train. It was cut high-waisted, embroidered, and trimmed with point lace. Her veil was of tulle held in place with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was of lilies of the valley. Her attendants were Miss Katharine Thompson and Miss Lydia Bryan.

G. Douglas Berry was best man, and the ushers were Archibald K. Coles, Hubert Arthur Judge, William Ferns, Kingsley Gould Martin, James Thorne Smith, Jr., and Douglas Marlow Gardner. The decorations were pink and white both at the church and at the house, where a reception was held after the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry will live on the west side after their return from their honeymoon.

ITALIANS IN COMIC OPERA.

Sarnella's Company from Palermo to Appear at Majestic Theatre.

The revolution in Mexico has sent to New York Signor Ramaldo Sarnella's Italian comic opera company from Palermo. The organization will open a New York engagement of comic operas in Italian, under the management of Max Rabinoff and G. P. Centanini, at the Majestic Theatre on next Monday evening, in an operetta called in Italian "Saltambanchi," which is an adaptation of a French piece by Louis Ganne, who wrote the music of "Hans the Flute Player."

Later in the week they will be heard in "The Geisha" and an Italian comic opera called "The Prince's Love," all, of course, sung in Italian.

Sarnella and his organization left Genoa on Dec. 8 last, under contract for seasons in Cuba and Mexico. A season of ten weeks was played in Cuba, and the Mexican engagement was to have begun to-day.

BUCK-ZABRISKIE WEDDING.

Miss Zayda J. Zabriskie Bride of F. J. Buck, Jr., in Church of Transfiguration.

Miss Zayda Justine Zabriskie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian B. Zabriskie of this city, and Frank H. Buck, Jr., of San Francisco, Cal., were married at 8 o'clock last evening in the Church of the Transfiguration. The Rev. Dr. Houghton performed the ceremony before a large assembly.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, trimmed with old family lace, and draped with chiffon, embroidered with seed pearls. Her veil, also a family heirloom, was caught up with a chaplet of orange blossoms. She wore a pearl necklace, a gift from her mother, and carried a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley and orchids.

The six bridesmaids wore costumes of gold satin, with rose marquisette overdress; gold lace caps, trimmed with pink roses, and they all carried shower bouquets of sunrise roses. They were the Misses Marguerite Marvin, Ella Margaret Lindley, Carolyn Lee Mills, Helen Frew, Georgine Hanson, and Catharine Du Bois. Miss Olive Grandfield, who acted as maid of honor, wore a gown of two shades of pink, a gold lace cap, and carried pink roses.

Daniel Lamont of San Francisco, a classmate of the bridegroom's at the Harvard Law School, was his best man, and the ushers were Edward Clarkson Harris, Glenn D. Whistler, Raymond Gauche, Charles H. Wheeland, Romer Shawhan, and George K. Bainbridge.

A full choral service was used with the ceremony, and the effect in the church was that of a wedding by candle-light. The chancel was banked with palms and ascension lilies.

A reception followed the church ceremony at Sherry's, where the couple received the congratulations of their relatives and friends.

About the middle of June Mr. and Mrs. Buck will sail for England, and Mrs. Buck will be presented at the Court of St. James's in her bridal costume. They expect to be in San Francisco by next December, and will make their home there.

An interesting outcome of the wedding preparations is the engagement which is shortly to be announced between Miss Georgine Hanson, one of the bridesmaids, and George K. Bainbridge, one of the ushers. Miss Hanson only came on recently from San Francisco to assist the bride in her wedding arrangements and to act as one of the bridesmaids, and met Mr. Bainbridge, who is the son of Mrs. John G. Bainbridge of this city, for the first time.

The bride presented all of her bridesmaids with pearl and platium bar pins, and a topaz bracelet to the maid of honor. The ushers received diamond and sapphire scarf pins.

Ford was best man, and the ushers were Raymond West Ford, Walter Hoffman Ford, Frederick Carpenter Ford, and Garrett Demarest.

Mrs. Maude Brevoort Prentice, widow of the late Augustus Browning Prentice and niece of Mrs. Henry F. Brevoort, was married at noon yesterday to Wright Barclay, son of the late Henry A. Barclay and Mrs. Bushrod Bayne of Short Hills, N. J. The Rev. F. De Lancey Townsend performed the ceremony at the bride's home, 7 West Eighty-first Street.

It was a small wedding, owing to the illness of the bridegroom's mother, and only relatives were asked to the reception afterward.

The bride wore pink satin charmeuse trimmed with point Venise lace and heavily corded, and a white straw picture hat faced with pink of the same shade as her gown, and trimmed with half-opened pink roses. She carried orchids.

Miss Marguerite K. G. Watson, daughter of the late G. Warren Watson, was maid of honor.

PINI-CORSI'S SON DEAD.

Word of Young Composer's Death Kept from Singer for Two Weeks.

Antonio Pini-Corsi, the basso-buffo of the Metropolitan Opera Company, learned for the first time yesterday that his twenty-two-year-old son, a young composer, died in Milan on April 4. He will sail for his home to-morrow.

The news came to the director of the opera company on April 4, but Mr. Gatti-Casazza thought that it would only be the part of kindness to keep it from the singer until he could get him back to Italy. Therefore he found a substitute for Mr. Pini-Corsi for the tour of the opera company, and suggested that the singer return to Italy as soon as possible, as his son was ill.

Yesterday, however, Mme. Pini-Corsi fearing that her husband would not arrive immediately, cabled him that their son was worse. He was extremely worried, and friends of the singer decided it would be better to tell him the truth.

M'FARLAND EASILY DEFEATS MURPHY

"Pride of Harlem" Outpointed All the Way by Western Lightweight at Fairmont A. C.

Packey McFarland, the Chicago lightweight, who has been bowling over all opponents with regularity during the past few months, had no difficulty adding the name of Tommy Murphy to his list of victims when they came together last night before a crowded house at the Fairmont Athletic Club. From the second round to the finish there was never a time when Packey did not have things just about as he desired, and he clearly outclassed the former "Pride of Harlem" at every stage of the game. As a result he held a good lead at all times and did not have to go his fastest to keep well in front.

Packey got away to a slow start and did little real work until the third round. In the second round he received a stiff left punch on the jaw which drove him against the ropes, but he came back smiling and never again appeared at a disadvantage. Murphy, although he was the target for some fast right swings and uppercuts, took his punishment well and was always on his feet. His face was marked up somewhat at the finish, while Packey left the ring without a mark.

The first two minutes of the opening round were remarkably quiet, not a real hard blow being struck. Murphy did all the leading, but McFarland blocked cleverly and none of the punches found their mark. In the last minute of the round there was more action, but it was far from fast work, the blows being remarkably light.

Much clinching marked the early part of the second round, and few blows landed. McFarland landed two right uppercuts as Murphy rushed in, but received a hit to the jaw which drove him back to the ropes. Packey was not bothered much by the blow, which had caught him off his balance, and he came back with some hard jolts to Murphy's head and body. Murphy got over another hard left, but Packey landed more harder punches and earned the honors of the round.

In the third session McFarland set out at a faster pace than in either of the preceding rounds and did most of the forcing. Early in the round he drove in a terrific right, which jarred Murphy considerably. Murphy got in an occasional punch, but Packey was doing the better work and earned the round. He was cleverly avoiding most of Tommy's rushes.

McFarland crossed over a hard right to Murphy's jaw early in the fourth round, after taking several hard lefts from Tommy. Packey was settling down to his task and did most of the fighting, forcing Murphy around the ring. Tommy smiled and apparently paid no attention to his wallops. Tommy crossed over a left to Packey's face just before the bell, but had to take second honors for the round.

The fifth was McFarland's from the bell to the end. Packey started in with rights and lefts to Tommy's stomach, and when Murphy turned, his defensive work for a second Packey landed right and left to the body. Packey landed hard and often during the round and had Murphy backing all the time. Tommy landed hardly a blow during the round.

The sixth round was on the same order as the fifth, although Packey did not lead by such a wide margin. He brought blood from Murphy's nose early in the round with a straight right. On Murphy's lead Packey had little trouble to get out of harm's way. Murphy's lead was never threatening during the round.

The seventh round showed McFarland maintaining a safe lead all the way. The fighting was not marked by anything of the hair-raising order, Packey being content to jab his uppercut without getting anything like a return. Packey's right found Murphy often and Tommy's left landed occasionally, always when Packey was going back. Tommy's shoulders were close to the ropes most of the time.

Packey's trusty right hand was again the leading factor in the eighth round, and he put across enough left jabs to show that he could land with either hand. McFarland did the bulk of the leading, and seldom missed. Murphy was content to remain on the defensive. He took two hard rights in this round, but they did not stagger him to any extent.

The ninth round was a repetition of the eighth, with Packey leading about all the way, and getting over an occasional hard wallop to Tommy's jaw.

The tenth round, when the members looked for a rattling finish, was marred by too much clinching, and no apparent desire on McFarland's part to do any finishing work.

In the fourth preliminary bout, which went the full four rounds, "Billy" Murphy outpointed Harry Winters. Murphy, who won the 115-pound championship at the National tournament in St. Louis, and was later reported on the Coast, arrived in New York yesterday afternoon, and was immediately put to work. Murphy enjoyed a big advantage in height and reach, and had a big lead in the first two rounds. Winters did better work in the last two rounds.

The semi-final was between Frank Kenny and Johnny Spence, middleweights. It was scheduled to go six rounds, but was stopped after two rounds of very unsatisfactory work. There were cries of "Take them off," and a knockdown by Kenny furnished the excuse.

Young Ahearn Defeats Carey.

ALBANY, April 18.—Young Ahearn of Brooklyn outclassed "Tommy" Carey of Philadelphia in a fast ten-round bout to-night. Ahearn had an advantage in every round except the first, which was even.

Demont Whips Monte Attell.

BOSTON, April 18.—Al Demont, the Boston lightweight, won a close decision from Monte Attell of California in twelve rounds of fast boxing at the Armory A. C. to-night. The Californian had the better of the argument through the first half of the fight, whipping in smart blows to the body in the clinches and some good blows to the head. Clever fighting by Demont toward the end of the bout won him the decision.

Fighter Dies; Two Arrests.

WATERBURY, Conn., April 18.—William Luke of this city, who took part in a boxing exhibition here last night, died this morning. His death was due, it is said, to injuries received during his fight with Joe Clancy, also a local man.

Deputy Coroner W. D. Makepeace to-day began an investigation of the death, and in connection with it Clancy and Referee Daniel Buckley were arrested, charged with manslaughter. Among the witnesses examined by the Deputy Coroner was Mayor William B. Hotchkiss, who is said to have been present at the exhibition. Luke was 30 years old, and leaves a wife and four children.

An autopsy performed to-night showed hemorrhage of the brain to have been the cause of death. It also revealed the fact that the man's kidneys were so diseased that he was in no condition to enter the ring.

Chance for "White Hopes."

A general invitation to all pugilistic "White Hopes" to gather for a tournament at the National Sporting Club of America in this city on Friday, May 26, was issued by Manager Tom O'Rourke last night. The invitation is addressed to all white men weighing over 190 pounds and standing six feet high, who aspire to the world's championship now held by Jack Johnson. It is hoped by the promoter that the tournament will bring to light some man of ability who, with proper training, could take the title from Johnson.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

At the Sharkey A. C. to-night Paddy Sullivan, the Fighting Irishman, and Dick Howell, the Canadian lightweight, will clash in the star bout of ten rounds. Howell comes here with the reputation of never having been the victim of a knockout, and he will have the advantage of a few pounds over Sullivan. Another ten-round bout will be put on for the semi-final, and there will also be three four-round bouts.

The Metropolitan A. C. will hold its weekly entertainment to-morrow night, with Jimmy Carroll and Terry Brooks as principals in the main bout. Joe Farmer and Jimmy West will come together in the semi-final, scheduled to go six rounds. Three four-round bouts complete the programme.

Reports from Fair Haven, N. J., where Jack Goodman is training, indicate that the west sider is ready to come back, and that he takes his first step in that direction to-morrow night at the Whirlwind A. C., where he is scheduled to box ten rounds with Young Ahearn.

Al Kubiak, the Michigan giant, who is coming to New York to demonstrate that he is made of the right sort of stuff for a real "white man's hope," is confident that he will defeat Joe Jeannette when they clash in a ten-round contest at the National Sporting Club to-morrow night. Kubiak has been in training for some time under process of "coming back," and says he is in the best condition of his career at present.

Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion, and his manager, Tom Jones, arrived in this city yesterday. Wolgast has come East to put the finishing touches to his training for his ten-round battle with "One-Round" Hogan, which is scheduled to be held next Wednesday night at the Madison A. C. Wolgast will decide to-day where he will do his training. Both Hogan and Wolgast were interested spectators at the McFarland-Murphy bout last evening.

United Hunts Directors Meet.

The Directors of the United Hunts Racing Association held a meeting at the Windsor Arcade yesterday at which the Hon. Perry Belmont presided. The prospects for the coming meeting, June 8 and 10, at Belmont Park terminal, were found to be highly satisfactory. The following were elected associate members of the association: Robert L. Bacon, James J. Higginson, Malcolm Stevenson, Robert Sedgwick, Jr., Whitney Kemochan, George Whitney, and Philip B. Thompson.

DE ORO WINS FIRST BLOCK, 213 TO 174

Pool Champion Gains Commanding Lead in Long-Drawn Game at Doyle's.

Alfred De Oro, the title holder, and Jerome R. Keogh, the challenger, played the opening block of 200 points in their match for the pool championship last night at Doyle's Billiard Academy, De Oro winning by the score of 213 to 174, in 27 frames. The tournament is for a total of 600 points, to be played in three consecutive evenings at 200 points each, and will conclude on Thursday night. Before the two celebrated cueists began the opening game the spacious gallery was taxed to its full capacity, and many were standing. A feature of last night's match was the Madigan triangle used for setting the balls up in pyramid form.

It is constructed of aluminum and is intended to do away with the tedious forming of the balls when sometimes they quiver before the break and refuse to stay "froze."

The game was made very monotonous by the actions of Keogh, who is a stickler for precision and study of a shot.

The first clean sweep of the table started with the fourth frame. De Oro had a hard shot to begin with, but after successfully making a combination on the fifth ball he cleared the way and ran out the remaining ten in fine style.

De Oro made a high run of 26 in the ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth frames, and Keogh topped this by one in the tenth and eleventh periods, the score at this stage being 95 to 80 in favor of De Oro. In the thirteenth frame Keogh made his second clean sweep by fine placement, in which he mastered two great long table shots, the second being on his last ball that he sent along the cushion for three-quarters of a length of the table to the end pocket.

The champion then came back to form in the next frame and repeated Keogh's performance by clearing the pyramid for a full score. He also took the lion's share in the eighteenth with 8 balls. The players see-sawed in the succeeding frames, and De Oro made his fourth clearing in the nineteenth frame, while Keogh scratched twice. The latter, however, came back in the next two frames by taking the entire 30 balls after De Oro had scratched. The score by frames:

De Oro—13 1 8 15 13 8 0 12 11 0 3 12 0 15 0 8 15 9 5 15 8 15 0 0 3 6 7 11 13 15. Total—213.
High run—26.

Keogh—2 14 7 0 2 7 15 3 4 15 12 3 15 0 6 10 0 7 0 15 15 9 9 8 4 2 0. Total—174. High run—27.

MEADOW BROOK FOUR WINS.

Polo Champions Defeat Picked Team on Georgian Court Field, 4¾ to 1¼.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 18.—One game of six periods between the Meadow Brook four and a picked team of American players, followed by "cut-in" play, formed the polo programme for the day on the Georgian Court fields this afternoon. There was a big crowd out to watch the game, and they saw good, bad, and indifferent exhibitions. Things started off slowly, and at various times the contest was fast, while at other times individual plays excelled. The contest on the whole developed some splendid practice and gave opportunity to see where the play could be improved. The score was 4¾ to 1¼ in favor of the Meadow Brooks.

The field was in better condition than at any time before. Since Sunday a steam roller has been at work on it, and as a result the grounds were in excellent condition. Whitney and his teammates used the Meadow Brook string of ponies entirely, not trying out any of those belonging to other players, as they have done heretotore. Mr. Whitney was back in the game after an absence of over a week.

On the Green team Foxhall Keene again excelled. He is playing the fastest game, aside from the Meadow Brook four, that is being played on the local grounds. Mr. Keene especially leads in his riding, and no man on the field can handle a pony as well as he does, his way of bringing them up when approaching the ball for a stroke not being equaled. His reach for the ball is long, which gives him added advantage over his opponents. He rode at No. 1 to-day, although he usually plays one of the back positions.

The feature of the game came in the third, when Lawrence Waterbury made a beautiful angle shot for goal through the other players. The fourth period, on the whole, developed the best play, although no score resulted. For the first five minutes the champions had the ball in their opponents' territory, but fine blocking kept them from scoring, while in the last couple of minutes of play the situation was reversed, and although they tried hard to do so, the Greens would not make a tally. The line-up and summary:

MEADOW BROOK.	GREENS.
1—L. Waterbury.	1—Keene.
2—J. M. Waterbury.	2—La Montagne.
3—Whitney.	3—Stevenson.
Back—Jones.	Back—Agassiz.

Goals—L. Waterbury, (2,) J. M. Waterbury, Jones, Keene, Whitney, La Montagne. Safeties against Jones and La Montagne.

The two British players, Capts. Hardress Lloyd and Herbert Wilson, were interested spectators during the principal game and took part in the entire "cut-in" contest. As changes were made in the line-up in each period no effort was made to keep score. E. W. Elliott, the official timer, keeping tab on the periods. The only play of note was a fine goal made by J. C. Cowdin, who sent the ball spinning between the posts from the side boards, but a little less than held the length of the field. Other goals were made by Capt. Wilson, Capt. Lloyd, Raymond Belmont, and Walter Goodwin. The rest of the players in the "cut-in" game were Alex Brown, J. S. Phipps, C. C. Rumsey, J. A. Rawlins, W. H. T. Huhn, and C. P. Beadleston.

MORE POLO PLAYERS ARRIVE.

Capt. Cheape and E. W. E. Palmes Come from India to Compete Here.

With the arrival yesterday of Capt. Leslie St. C. Cheape of the Kings Dragoon Guards and E. W. E. Palmes, Tenth Hussars, on the Kaiser Wilhelm de Grosse four of the English polo team are now in this country, as Capts. Lloyd and Wilson are already quartered at Lakewood.

The latest arrivals were met by H. M. Earle, a member of the Meadow Brook Club, who represented the Polo Association. They have virtually come direct from India, stopping in England for but two days after their journey from the East.

Capt. Cheape is tall and looks the typical soldier, while his companion is short and compactly built, weighing about 145 pounds. Both look perfectly fit, and apparently need but little work to prepare them for the international series. "Being on the water for about fifteen days and with but less than two days in England has left us in possession of but little knowledge of the polo situation," said Mr. Palmes.

The newcomers were very much interested in knowing how the English ponies were. Neither had seen any of them and were extremely anxious to know of their handiness and speed. They were also desirous of knowing if the Americans were to use any of the ponies they had used at the match at Hurlingham series two years ago.

The visitors admitted great admiration for the Whitney mounts, and when told that several of those which had been formerly played would again be used they were inclined to believe that the American four would have a shade the better of the mounts. The visitors stopped at the Ritz-Carlton last night, but will go down to Lakewood this morning.

Lavin and Smith Draw.

Paddy Lavin of Buffalo and Jeff Smith of Hoboken, N. J., fought ten fast rounds to a draw last night at Brown's Gymnasium. Both men were of the slam-bang type of boxer, but Lavin exhibited the most cleverness, getting in the best work of the pair at long-range fighting, while his opponent tried more for the body work in the clinches. From the clang of the first gong until the final bell, both men stood up and exchanged freely, and neither showed any real marks of the hard punishment that they received. At the start Lavin tried to use a left jab, but Smith covered up every time and Lavin was forced to abandon it.

NATIONAL CIRCUIT OF AVIATION MEETS

Council Arranging Aeronautic Events with $1,250,000 in Prize Money.

Although few foreign aviators will compete in this country this year, there will be no lack of aviation meets. In order to avoid any possible clash in dates the National Council of Aero Clubs of America requested clubs represented in the council to forward dates and facilitate the arrangement of an aeronautic calendar irrespective of what foreign countries proposed to do. As the result of this request seven clubs have notified the council of their intention of holding aviation meets. The cities and proposed dates are: Washington, end of this month; Milwaukee, beginning of July; Pittsfield, Mass., early in July; Saratoga Springs, end of July; Harvard-Boston, end of August or beginning of September, and California, end of Jaunary, 1912.

The Curtiss and Wright fliers will appear at a number of county fairs throughout the country. The first exhibition will be held by the Curtiss combination at Bridgeport, Conn., the middle of May.

A conservative estimate of the prize money to be offered in the United States this year places the amount at $1,250,000. During last year $1,000,000 was handed over to successful competitors in the long series of flying tournaments that opened in January at Los Angeles and terminated with the Michelin Cup contest. The recent accessions to the ranks of the aviators, together with the qualified pilots and learners, place the number of fliers where aeroplanes are used at about 2,000.

The National Council is keeping in close touch with the aeronautic situation, and in connection with this the council is receiving the hearty support and co-operation of the Aero Club of America. The council has called the attention of prospective tournament promoters to the number of good fliers now in the making in this country, and when the time comes to hold a meet there will be no scarcity of competitors willing to contest as much for sport of the game as for the monetary gains. This will, in a great measure overcome the hitherto great difficulty of holding meets—that of the prize list. Many of the clubs have been under the impression that fabulous awards must be offered to insure the success of a meeting, but this will not be the case, and where from $30,000 to $40,000 was offered last year at several of the aviation meets, 25 per cent. of these amounts will insure an equally successful meet this season.

Glenn H. Curtiss will be busy both in this country and abroad. Two Curtiss hydro-aeroplanes have been ordered by the Navy Department of Germany, and the Hammondsport flier has been invited to give a demonstration with one of his water-landing biplanes in Kiel Harbor during the regatta and the visit of the American battleship squadron to German waters.

It is probable that Annapolis will receive the preference over Charleston, S. C., for the site of the proposed naval school of aviation. Among the expert aviators now in the United States Navy are Lieut. Theodore G. Ellyson, Lieut. Paul Beck, Lieut. J. Rodgers, and Ensign Charles F. Pousland.

ABANDON AVIATION MEET.

Aero Club Will Select Team for Cup Race—No Elimination Trials.

America's chances of recovering the international championship aviation trophy received a setback yesterday at the weekly meeting of the Board of Governors of the Aero Club of America, in the Engineering Societies Building, Thirty-ninth Street, west of Broadway, when it was announced that the proposed elimination trials at Belmont Park had been abandoned, and that the American representative team would be selected without competition.

The cause of the abandonment of the trials was due to the difficulty and impracticability of obtaining a sufficient number of fast aeroplanes in this country to insure the success of the trials. As the proposed aviation meet at Belmont Park, May 27, 28, 29, and 30, was arranged principally for the elimination trials, the meeting was postponed to a date to be announced later.

The International Contest Committee had been working on a prospective list of entrants, but was unable to receive satisfactory assurances from any of the best professional fliers that they would compete. This brought the list of eligibles down to three or four, as the remainder has either shown nothing special in the way of flying or did not possess a speed machine.

No intimation as to the probable three American aviators to challenge for the International Cup was forthcoming, and it is hardly likely that any selection will be made for a month. Among the eligibles are Charles K. Hamilton, J. A. R. McCurdy, and Earle L. Ovington.

Not since the institution of the international aviation championship has an elimination race been held in the United States. Last year it was expected that the trials would be held at Belmont Park, but at the eleventh hour they were abandoned.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—There was a decided change of character in the wheat market, with a material weakening in the May premium at the West, which broke to about 2c over July cost, compared with 4½c over on Saturday. The advance in May carried that market at one time to a working premium over same of the other points of the West, resulting in sales from the country and from other points for May delivery. The evening up of May contracts caused by the advance appeared to have been quite complete, and when longs attempted to sell there was a rapid loss of price. Northwestern markets were quite weak. The morning developments were rather bullish, including better closing cables, a higher Buenos Aires market, reports of better demand from the Continent for cash wheat, and some reports of unfavorable crop conditions in Russia. There was also a liberal decrease in the European visible supply. The American visible also showed a large decrease, 2,786,000 bushels, and the world's visible decreased 3,986,000 bushels, compared with 932,000 bushels decrease the previous week and an increase of 1,150,000 bushels last year. The receipts for the day were small at the West. Weather conditions are still rather backward, both in Winter wheat sections and in the Northwest, although the last few days' advices indicate a more favorable condition of the weather in Spring wheat sections for Spring work. The close of the market was rather unsettled, and very close to the low point. The reduction in the Atlantic and east of Buffalo rate on wheat will be effective May 1 to Oct. 31. It is expected a reduction in the corn rate will be considered at a meeting of the Traffic Association this week. Cash wheat was nominal, with No. 2 red quoted at 94½c free on board, No. 1 Northern, $1.05½; No. 2 hard Winter, 97½c; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.

CORN.—The corn market was somewhat irregular. Prices showed firmness during the morning on the reports of backward weather and more rain, and there was also a good decrease in the visible supply, 1,429,000 bushels, compared with a decrease of 1,479,000 bushels the previous week. The American visible is now about 5,000,000 bushels less than last year. After midday prices reacted, influenced by the sharp decline in wheat. The close was steady. Cash corn was firm, with No. 2 quoted at 58c free on board.

OATS.—Trade in oats was moderately active, with the market improving during the morning, but reacted again in the afternoon. The advance was partially influenced by weather conditions, and also by a decrease of 238,000 bushels in the visible, following a decrease of 791,000 bushels the previous week. Later there was some reaction in the market, with a rather quiet close. Cash oats were firm, with standards 39½c; No. 2 white, 39½c; No. 3 white, 38½c.

PROVISIONS.—The market for hog products opened steady on small receipts of hogs for the day, but selling orders appeared in fair volume, and prices steadily worked down, closing at a higher level. The packing returns for the season showed an increase in Winter packing compared with last year, an increased outturn of product, and large stocks on March 1, which have been increased by the heavy rate in packing since March 1.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Values ruled at somewhat lower levels during yesterday's session, with offerings in increased volume inspired to some extent by the heaviness in the lard market at the West. While there were some predictions of a decrease in hog movement owing to the fact that farmers are busy with field work, these stories had little effect on sentiment. There was some covering of shorts early for the West, but on the whole, demand was less urgent than on the previous day. There is a little talk of probable congestion in the May option as a result of prominent refining interests taking from 20,000 to 30,000 barrels of loose oil in place of the May oil which would have been delivered on contract. The shorts, therefore, will not have the advantage of the routine passing of the notices, but on the other hand there is still a speculative long interest thought to be outstanding, and further refiners' deliveries are not improbable, although it not expected that they will be heavy. Crude prices ranged from 5.07 to 5.20c. Future quotations follow:

COTTON.

Values see-sawed throughout the entire session, but on the whole there appeared to be a steady undertone to the trade, and while some pressure was thought to emanate from leading holders, it was apparent that bulls were quite willing to support the market at times of weakness. There was no important news at hand, but the fact that new crop months displaced the old-crop options in prominence was thought to reflect the unsettled conditions prevailing in many parts of the belt and resulting in delayed planting operations, while reports stating that the Mississippi River in the Memphis district had risen to the flood stage, and had inundated several hundred thousand acres of cotton land, with predictions of a further rise, attracted quite a little attention. The basis for the strength in the old-crop months is generally believed to be attributed to covering of Wall Street shorts, who were of the opinion that in view of the generally good crop prospects apathy on the part of the public, unsatisfactory home trade conditions, and the relatively high prices of cotton, made the short side attractive, with the taking of this stand encouraged by the dullness which prevailed in the stock market.

Liverpool cables failed to present anything startling following their three days adjournment, coming just about as anticipated, but in view of the character of recent Manchester advices, the indifference of the future market was the cause of some scattered realizing locally during the early trade. Foreigners, however, are generally bullish, and were buyers here, although the demand to a large extent represented the undoing of straddles.

Although the spot markets are extremely limited, a slight increase is expected, owing to the higher prices which recently have been witnessed. It is thought that a part of this heavier movement will reflect cotton en route for the local market, but whether it represents increased exports in the near future is a matter of conjecture. Interior stocks this week have lost approximately 11,000 bales, against a loss of 7,500 bales last week, and 14,000 bales a year ago. Exports so far this season are 5,600,000 bales above last year. The local stock of certificated cotton is 147,000 bales, against 167,000 bales April 1, and 120,000 bales last year. The Government weekly weather report was generally favorable, although emphasizing the fact that field work was being retarded in some of the eastern and central sections, while there were still parts of Texas where additional precipitation would be of benefit. Southern spot markets unchanged with New York, spot cotton, 5 points advance; middling uplands, 14.90c.

Income

One of the best means by which to obtain the highest rate of income compatible with safety is to diversify your investments. For example, invest part of your money in high-grade bonds having a broad market; part in high-grade bonds of more or less limited market, and the balance in preferred stocks of high standard. The more you consider this question of diversification, the more you will appreciate its many advantages.

CLOSE NEAR DAY'S LOWEST

Breach in Missouri Pacific Board a Disturbing Factor—Supreme Court Decisions Expected on Monday.

The lethargy under which trading on the Stock Exchange had been conducted for a good many weeks disappeared yesterday, and the transactions, which on Monday had amounted to only a little more than 100,000 shares, mounted to above 500,000 shares. It was on a general decline in prices that this increase in business occurred, and the activity increased as the lower levels of the day's range were reached. The dealings in the last hour were substantially larger than those of any of the other hourly periods of the day. It was during this last hour, too, that the lowest prices were recorded, and while some recoveries were made just before the close these did not substantially reduce the losses resulting from the day's selling. The extent to which liquidation and renewed short sales, in the proportion in which these may have been divided yesterday, affected prices is indicated by the fact that not a single one of the stocks which were even moderately active escaped a loss, and that the net declines ranged from 1 to over 3 points, with still larger net losses in a few exceptional issues. Declines of 2 points in Amalgamated Copper and United States Steel, 2⅝ in American Smelting, 1¾ in Atchison, 2⅜ in St. Paul, 1⅞ in Missouri Pacific, ⅝ in Pennsylvania, 3¼ in Reading, 1 in Southern Pacific, and 2¼ in Union Pacific fairly represent the extent of the day's declines in prices. The dealings were the most active since March 2, when, as yesterday, they increased considerably in volume to the accompaniment of a general decline in prices.

Reports of a reopening of the friction over the management of the Missouri Pacific, which was believed to have been permanently adjusted at the recent annual meeting, when representatives of important banking interests were added to the Board of Directors, were undoubtedly largely influential in unsettling the market. Friction among important holders of Missouri Pacific stock, which was threatened before the annual meeting in March, but averted at that time, would be most regrettable. The basis of the day's reports regarding the affairs of the Missouri Pacific appeared after the close of the market, when it was announced that two representatives of the banking interests which recently entered the Board of Directors had resigned. The possibility of decisions being rendered next week in the American Tobacco and Standard Oil cases was also discussed. The announcement of these decisions next Monday is expected with more confidence than has been expressed in advance of any previous "decision day." The more serious position of the Mexican situation was also an influence, but the day's events appeared to improve rather than to aggravate that situation, and it alone did not account for any substantial measure of the weakness which the market displayed.

The Government's weekly weather report, as usual somewhat conflicting in its varying statements, described the weather of the past week as generally unfavorable, although in the Spring wheat district conditions were reported as satisfactory in most of the States. In the cotton growing States the temperature is reported to have been favorable, although further rains in the central and eastern districts retarded work on the farms. The grain markets were strong and weak in turn yesterday, the final movements, however, carrying the wheat options substantially below the previous day's close. This was notably true of the May option in Chicago, which ended the day 1½ cents a bushel under Monday's final prices.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Mexican Exchange Rate Undisturbed.

The disturbance in Mexico seems to have had no effect on the rate of exchange. The par for Mexican exchange is 50, as the face value of the Mexican dollar is only 50 cents in gold. The market rate normally has a range from about .4970 to .4975. Yesterday the quotation was .4973, showing the presence of no abnormal factors.

Oklahoma Manufactures Grow.

Capital invested in manufacturing in Oklahoma increased from $16,124,000 in 1904 to $38,873,000 in 1909, as shown by statistics gathered and just made public by the Census Bureau. The average capital per establishment increased during the five-year period from $14,000 to $17,000. The cost of materials used increased from $16,000,000 to $34,000,000 and the value of products from $24,000,000 to $54,000,000. Salaries and wages amounted to $3,500,000 in 1904 and $9,000,000 in 1909. The average number of wage earners increased 141 per cent. and the number of establishments 106 per cent.

Copper Bids Lower.

Bids for considerable quantities of copper at 12 cents a pound have been received by New York dealers from European consumers. This price is ¼ cent below the level at which the independents have been selling the metal in this market for the last three or four weeks and ⅛ cent per pound below the price at which the United Metals Selling Company has been holding its copper. European demand has been brisk for some time and domestic consumption has held well despite the hesitation in business. The United Metals Selling Company, which markets the production of the Amalgamated interests, has the preponderating amount of the metal for sale. Dealers in copper said yesterday that they did not believe that much, if any copper, would be secured by the European buyers at 12 cents. Copper dealers, however, have been wrong on their predictions of the movements of the price of copper more often than not, ever since the slump in price from 26 cents put the market practically in the consumers' hands.

New Directors for Equitable Trust.

Two and possibly three new Directors are to be added to the present Board of Directors of the Equitable Trust Company. Their election may take place at the regular meeting of the Directors, to be held to-day, but there is a chance that the naming of these new Directors will be deferred till a later meeting. In the distribution of the stock of the Equitable Trust Company, which was purchased from the Equitable Life Assurance Society, President Kreeh of the Equitable Trust has sought to enlarge the trust company's business by bringing in new interests while maintaining all the while the independence of the institution. It is in keeping with this purpose that the new names are to be added to the Board of Directors.

Interest Rate Reduction.

Efforts are going on all the while among the trust companies to reduce the average rate of interests allowed on deposits, but reports current in the financial district that a concerted movement looking to a uniform reduction of interest rates by the trust companies was under way, do not seem to be borne out. All the trust companies, however, it is said, have been reducing rates, but this has naturally been done in a way to affect as little as possible the business of the several trust companies. Generally speaking, new accounts are being taken at a lower rate of interest than formerly was paid and a gradual reduction is being effected in the interest rates on many old accounts. The present long period of low money market rates is naturally giving much support to the efforts to bring interest rates on deposits to a lower average.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 18.—In sympathy with the weakness in New York the Boston copper shares sold off from a fraction to several points. Amalgamated declined to 59⅝, North Butte to 26½, Copper Range to 60, and Calumet and Hecla to 481. The close was irregular, at a slight rally. To-morrow being a local holiday, there will be no session of the Boston Stock Exchange.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 18.—People's Gas reflected good support in the early trading, and the volume of business was moderate. The recommendation of the city's expert of 77 cents a thousand feet as a reasonable price for gas did not disturb the holders of gas stock, notwithstanding the attitude of the officers of the gas company that the reduction would not stand in court. Many brokers had expected a 75-cent gas rate, and advised their clients that if the rate went below 75 cents it would mean an attack of any rate-fixing ordinance in the courts as unreasonable. The day's trading was marked by an exceptionally heavy tendency in sympathy with the decline in the New York market. Sears-Roebuck and Commonwealth Edison felt the brunt of the pressure, the latter selling down more than 3 points at the lowest and closing on a small fractional recovery and the former receding almost 3 points before recovering fractionally. Pressure again was in evidence in Illinois Brick, and smaller losses ruled in a number of the other issues.

6,559. IRON AND STEEL SCRAP.—An American Consular officer in Italy reports that a business man in his district wishes to represent in that market American exporters of heavy iron and steel scrap. He states there exists a large demand for this material. Prices and terms are requested.

6,560. TENDERS FOR AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT SUPPLIES.—Consul General John P. Bray of Sydney has forwarded tender forms and specifications for the supply of the following material to the Commonwealth Government: (1) Tenders for wire and line material, Schedule 161; (2) tenders for 7,000 insulators, Schedule 157; (3) tenders for one desiccating plant, Schedule 488. Tenders for these supplies are returnable May 31 1911.

6,561. BROWN SOAP IN CAKES.—A retail soap dealer in a Latin-American country informs an American Consulate that there is a market for brown soap in cakes of 120 to the box, weighing about sixty pounds net. Most of the American soap sold there at present is put up in the following quantity and weight to the box: Fifty bars, 40 pounds net; 50 bars, 45 pounds net; 25 bars, 40 pounds net; 25 bars, 45 pounds net, and 45 bars, 50 pounds net. The price paid for the bar soap is about 3½ cents a pound, free on board shipping point, and the cake soap costs about $1.90 to $2.10 a box of 120 cakes.

6,562. SCRAP METALS.—An American Consular officer in Italy reports that a local business firm desires to represent in that market American exporters of scrap metals of all kinds. References will be furnished, and correspondence may be in English.

6,563. APRICOT PULP.—A business man in Germany advises an American Consular officer that he is desirous of receiving direct offers of apricot pulp from California dealers. Quoted terms should be cost, insurance, and freight, payment after delivery at destination.

6,564. SAFE CABINETS FOR INDIA.—A report from an American Consular in India states that a business firm in that country desires catalogues, price lists, discounts, terms, &c., of safe cabinets. The style preferred is the same as that of the safe cabinets with which American Consular officers are supplied. Prices should be quoted cost, insurance, and freight, certain city.

6,565. TOBACCO MACHINERY, CHAFF CUTTERS, AND PEANUT SHELLERS.—An American Consul reports that a business house in his district would like to consider an agency for American tobacco machinery, chaff cutters, and peanut shellers. Prices must be quoted cost, insurance, and freight, certain city. The Consul writes that although a considerable amount of tobacco is grown in his district, most of the manufacturing has been done by hand, and a small, inexpensive machine, capable of being worked by the native cigarmakers, would find a ready market. A complete non-technical description should be submitted, so that the native who is not familiar with machinery would have no difficulty in understanding the working of the apparatus.

6,566. AMERICAN GOODS FOR EUROPEAN COUNTRIES.—The Bureau of Manufactures is in receipt of a communication from a business man who states that he expects to leave shortly for a year's automobile trip through the chief towns and cities of the Netherlands, Belgium, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, and Russia. He solicits correspondence with manufacturers who desire individual representation by one acquainted with foreign business conditions through residence in those countries. He is also prepared to discuss the placing of agencies and the performance of any special work relative to the introduction of American goods. He is particularly interested in shoes, small hardware specialties, and other goods, samples of which could be carried in an automobile, though he will also represent lines to be sold by catalogue. He will furnish references.

6,567. CANARY SEED.—An American Consular officer in Spain has been informed by an exporting firm in his district that it desires to get in touch with American buyers of canary seed. The firm states that it is a large handler of this product, and will give careful attention to the American market.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Reflecting the weakness of the New York list, local stocks suffered moderate recessions to-day. One of the heaviest features was Tonopah Mining, the selling being based upon the poor showing of the annual report in the matter of ore reserves as well as their quality. The Traction stocks also suffered rather severely in the general reaction. Rapid Transit selling at new low levels for the present year and Union Traction falling below 45. Aside from such arbitrage issues as Reading, Pennsylvania, and United States Steel, the remainder of the Philadelphia market was comparatively steady. There was still a good deal of activity in Pennsylvania warrants, when issued, and these naturally suffered in the general recession.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Eleventh Avenue Block Front Purchased by an Operator —Harlem Properties Figure in Big Trade— New $1,000,000 Insurance Building —Bronx and Suburban Deals.

While no exceptionally large sales characterized the realty market yesterday, there was a very fair volume of business of both commercial and apartment house property, and several good deals in the Bronx showed a healthy continuance of activity. One of the important transactions involved the sale of a big plot at Eleventh Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, in a district which has recently furnished several features of realty interest. The property includes the big plot formerly occupied by the A. H. Hart flax mills and owned by the Linen Thread Company on the southeast corner of Eleventh Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, the frontage on the avenue being 167.8 feet, 200 feet on Fifty-seventh Street, and extending through the block at the eastern extremity to Fifty-sixth Street, where the frontage is 100 feet. The plot covers the entire block front at that point except the northwest corner of Eleventh Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street, 33.2 feet on the avenue and 100 feet on the street, owned by the Chanler estate. The property has been held at $250,000 and is under a ten years' lease to a manufacturing firm of automobile bodies. The name of the buyer was not divulged, but it is understood to be an operator, who will hold the plot for investment. It is the largest deal in that locality since the New York Hospital announced its purchase a short time ago of the block bounded by Eleventh and Twelfth Avenues, Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth Streets.

Buys St. Nicholas Ave. Apartment.

The six-story apartment house at 828 St. Nicholas Avenue, running through to St. Nicholas Place, between 151st and 152d Streets, has been sold by the Operating Realty Company to an investor for cash. The plot has a frontage on St. Nicholas Avenue of 25.7 feet, 90.8 feet, and irregular.

Reported Sale in Loft Zone.

The four-story and basement building 114 West Thirty-first Street, on a lot 20.10 by 107.3 by irregular, is reported to have been sold to a syndicate.

ATTACK BY GAYNOR ON PRENDERGAST

NEVER DID SO HIMSELF

Vetoes Civil Service Board Proposal to Put in Competitive Class Places Filled by Prendergast.

Mayor Gaynor severely criticised Controller Prendergast yesterday for the changes he has made in the staff of the Finance Department, and accused him of making wholesale dismissals for political reasons alone. The charges were made in this letter to President McGuire of the Municipal Civil Service Commission:

New York, April 18, 1911.

Sir:—I cannot approve the resolution of your board of April 12, amending the classification of the positions of the Finance Department by striking 97 thereof from the exempt class, and making them competitive hereafter. Most of the present incumbents of these positions were appointed by the present Controller, some of them within a few weeks. In order to make such appointments the Controller turned out their predecessors partly by out and out dismissals, and partly by forced resignations. The dismissals were not confined to these 97. There were 176 employes in all turned out, a few of them by forced transfers. Their places were given to others. Nearly all of those turned out had long been employed in the Finance Department, one for even thirty-seven years, and no cause was assigned or suggested for their dismissal except politics. Many of them brought suit in the courts for reinstatement, on the ground that they were illegally dismissed, namely, because of their politics or party affiliations being different to those of the Controller. One of these suits, that of Garvey, selected as a test, was tried about March 1. The jury returned a verdict that the dismissal was for political reasons. The Controller was examined as a witness, and testified, without hesitation, that he did not consider the efficiency of those he turned out. The following is his answer to the court on that head, viz.:

"By the court: The question is whether you considered the question of the efficiency of the former incumbents, that is the point. Answer: I did not."

The Controller also reiterated many times on the witness stand his motive of politics in making the dismissals, and his estimate of the provision of the Civil Service law, which forbids dismissals for political opinions or affiliations. The following passages, selected out of many of the same kind, will suffice, viz:

"I feel that it is inexpedient to try and enforce something upon human beings that human nature itself resents. That is my idea about that feature of the law."

"A cashier came to me and said, 'the only reason I am being fired is because I am a Democrat,' and I said 'I don't know of any better reason.'"

"The law says you must not dismiss a man on account of his politics. You cannot dismiss men for their politics, but you can on account of the color of their hair. What is the use of having any such provision in the Civil Service law. You know it is hypocrisy, and that is the plain English of it."

The provision of the Civil Service law, of which the Controller thus spoke on the witness stand, is in Section 25, and is as follows:

"No recommendation or question under the authority of this act shall relate to the political opinions or affiliations of any person whatever; and no appointment or selection to, or promotion from, an office or employment within the scope of the rules established as aforesaid, shall be in any manner affected or influenced by such opinions or affiliations."

And Section 1860 of the Penal law makes the violation of this provision an indictable offense.

I came into the Mayor's office determined from long conviction and habit that no one in any of the sixteen departments and bureaus under my control should be dismissed during my term of office for any political reason, and that determination has been carefully kept. I believed that the welfare and proper government of the city required that I follow that course, and that the enlightened humane, and decent sentiment of the community in which I live was in accord with me, to say nothing of the positive provision of the statute which I have cited. But while I have been adhering to this course, I have been looking on with feelings of regret at these dismissals for political reasons, from week to week from the Department of Finance, an elective office, over which the Mayor has no control. Many of the victims thus deprived of their livings, some of them after a generation and more of service to the city, applied to me, but I could not help them.

And all of this occurred without any objection or protest from any quarter, so far as I have observed. Sometimes I could not help feeling, therefore, that my views were not shared by my fellow citizens, and that it would please them just as well if I should also follow the course of discharging employes of the city, and appointing others in their places for political reasons. But I could not bring myself to believe it.

My feeling is that I cannot approve this resolution without making myself a party to a grave wrong, and a violation of law. I should be helping to entrench in these positions the present incumbents, who obtained them in violation of law. If these positions may lawfully be put in the competitive class, (which has not heretofore been thought to be the case, and about which there is now much doubt,) the present incumbents should be obliged to compete, like every one else, in the examination to make up an eligible list from which to fill them. If the Controller will consent to this, then we can proceed to make the positions competitive, if lawful, and fill them by competition. As the case now is, the former incumbents were summarily removed by the Controller for political reasons, and to enable him to appoint, in their stead, persons of his own political opinions and affiliation.

That violation of law being accomplished, the attempt now is to get your board and the Mayor to ratify and entrench it. I cannot bring myself to do it. Since I have been Mayor I have done much for the sake of peace, and to prevent petty political obstructions, so that the work of the city could be done in a broad spirit; but I cannot go to this extent without becoming a party to a wrong. I regret that the Civil Service reform association was unwittingly drawn into the espousal of this application. Very truly yours,

W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Hon. John C. McGuire, President of the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

The Controller had left his office before the Mayor's letter was made public.

CHILD BITTEN BY DOG DIES.

Susie Mandoline, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mandoline of 3 Wentworth Place, North Bergen, N. J., died yesterday afternoon of hydrophobia. The child was bitten by a stray mongrel on last Jan. 3. A dozen other children were bitten at the same time for the dog raced through Union Hill, West Hoboken, and North Bergen, finally running almost to Hackensack before a policeman killed it.

It was not until a week ago that Susie Mandoline was taken sick. None of the other victims of the dog has showed any signs of illness. Dr. Ephriam Helistern of Hudson Heights called a consultation in Susie's case and the other physicians verified his diagnosis that the little girl had hydrophobia.

CITY BREVITIES.

Policeman Henry Durnin, who lives at 950 Grant Avenue, the Bronx, and is in the Alexander Avenue squad, fell down the Subway stairs at 149th Street and Third Avenue last night and was removed to the Lebanon Hospital in an unconscious condition with a possible fracture of the skull.

From the bullet wounds he inflicted upon himself while believing that he was being pursued by burglars, Edwin G. Carr, a negro butler employed by the Rev. Dr. Stuart Dodge at 6 East Forty-ninth Street, died yesterday in Flower Hospital.

Edward Egan of 136 Pearl Street, Brooklyn, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by being struck by a hod lifter while at work on the tenth floor of the new municipal building at Chambers Street and Park Row.

George Glen, a negro hall boy, who has just been freed from Sing Sing, was convicted as a second offender of burglary in the second degree for robbing the home of Mrs. Charles Damon in Park Avenue, before Justice O'Sullivan, in General Sessions, yesterday, after a trial lasting two days. He will be sentenced on Friday.

Thomas McGowan, a waiter, of 180 East 117th Street, was run over by a Subway train on the downtown tracks at Fiftieth Street and Broadway about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His right foot was severed and he sustained internal injuries, of which he will probably die.

MIDNIGHT REFUSE REMOVAL.

New Service to be Tested in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx.

Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards announced yesterday that he is going to try the experiment of removing ashes and garbage in the night. The test will be made next Tuesday night in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx. In Manhattan the district affected will be between Canal and Fifty-eighth Streets, west of Broadway and Sixth Avenue. The districts in the other boroughs will be designated by the Deputy Commissioners.

The Mayor has approved the plan and has sent the Commissioner the following letter of sanction:

Office of the Mayor, April 17, 1911.

Sir: I am glad that you are now ready to enter upon the removal of ashes and garbage in certain sections of the city at night, with a view to applying that method to the whole city in time. I think you will find that the people of the city will welcome the change, for the removal of ashes and garbage during the day is often very annoying.

I will have the Police Department co-operate with you and see that the cans are put out by midnight, and I have no doubt that householders generally will conform to the regulations. After a few weeks please let me know how the method of the night removal works in the districts which you have selected, and unless good reason to the contrary appears we can apply it to the whole city. Very truly ours,

W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

William H. Edwards, Esq., Commissioner of Street Cleaning.

Mr. Edwards issued a statement in explanation of the plan yesterday, in which he said:

"It is the intention of the department to give this method a careful tryout, and the instructions are, if possible, to make it a success. It is to be remembered, however, that this system will be of little value unless the householders cooperate as to the separation of the wastes in accordance with the regulations of the department. It is believed that this method will lead to the use of vehicles which will better accommodate the collection than those at present in use—that is, trucks of larger capacity, manned by three men instead of one and drawn by three horses."

MME. GADSKI HAS SCIATICA.

Cancels Her Concert Tour and Will Sail for Europe on May 2.

Since the close of her engagement with the Metropolitan Opera House a week ago Saturday evening Mme. Gadski has been confined to her bed with a bad case of sciatica. During the final weeks of the season she was scarcely able to sing as a result of this ailment, which has now grown so much worse that the soprano will be unable to go on her Spring concert tour.

As a result her bookings have been canceled and she will sail for Europe on May 2, the earliest date that her physician will permit her departure, and go straight to Aix-les-Bains, where she will remain for six weeks. She will rest during the remainder of the Summer, and her doctor promises her a complete cure. Next season she has been engaged to sing with the opera company during the entire year.

MABEL J. FORD DIVORCED.

At 22 Has Separated from Two Husbands, Prominent Baltimore Men.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—Mrs. Mabel J. Ford, a Baltimore beauty who surprised society by her sudden marriage to Lawrence D. Ford, son of Rear Admiral Ford, retired, in December, 1909, was to-day granted an absolute divorce. Only a few months before her marriage to Mr. Ford she had obtained a divorce from Frank Brown, Jr., son of former Gov. Frank Brown.

Mrs. Ford filed her bill for divorce March 18. The testimony in the case was taken in private before an examiner. Mrs. Ford testified that she was 22 years old, and said that she believed her husband was 25. "Mr. Ford has not maintained me, and our relations are not congenial," she said.

The couple separated in June, 1910, and Mr. Ford has been part of the time in New York and part in Baltimore. Mrs. Ford said she was married to Mr. Ford Dec. 11, 1909, by a Justice of the Peace at Atlantic City. A hotel register of a local hostelry was shown Mrs. Ford, and under the date of March 17 last she identified a signature as that of her husband. The clerk in charge of the hotel testified that Mr. Ford and a lady visited the hotel that evening.

Mrs. Ford's maiden name was Mabel Michael. When she married Frank Brown, Gov. Brown took them home to live, but they soon disagreed. Mrs. Brown sued the Governor for alienating her husband's affections, and obtained a divorce. The Governor, it is said, paid Mrs. Brown $25,000 in settlement of claims in both cases.

HOTELS AND RESTAURANTS.

A Boulevard Evening

means that you need make no other plans to fill out your evening period of recreation. A remarkable Table d'Hote dinner with coffee at 75 cents a head, during which and after which you are entertained—REALLY entertained. No Hungarian band, you will agree, has ever glorified its national music as ours does; rarely do singers render simple ballad or operatic air with the distinction that our artists give them.

Diners not infrequently give up theatre plans to finish the evening here instead.
